

Whiskers Return To Students' Lips In 10-Year Cycles

Whiskers crop out among college men in regularly recurring cycles, an examination of the old La Vie reveals. Every ten years, pictures in the yearbooks indicate, there is a distinct tendency for students to cultivate hairy decorations on the upper lip. If the cycle in hirsute adornment is to continue on an even curve, mustache cups may become standard equipment in fraternity dining rooms this year.

The last collegiate mass endeavor made in this direction was shortly after the World War and prior to that the predominance of mustaches occurred in 1910, and again when the twentieth century was in its infancy. In the early twenties sideburns were an additional part of a young man's facial decorations.

College life at Penn State in the "naughty years," as La Vie calls the decade from 1900 to 1910, was outstanding for long-haired football football players, the introduction of high, white stiff collars, the disappearance of eating clubs and the growth of fraternities, the decadence of the mandolin club and the appearance of the orchestra. These changes were gradual and consequently were not evident to the major portion of the student body.

STOCK JUDGING TEAMS WIN 3 EVENTS AT FAIR

Dairy Cattle Appraisers Take First Prize in Eastern Exposition

Winning second place in general livestock judging, first in beef cattle judging, and third in judging horses and sheep, the stock judging team returned last week from the Eastern States Exposition held at Springfield, Mass. The dairy cattle judging team also captured first place during the fair.

Prof. Franklin L. Bentley and Peter C. MacKenzie of the animal husbandry department acted as officials at the exposition.

The stock judging team will start training next month for the International Show at Chicago, Illinois, in December, while the dairy cattle judging team will compete at the National Dairy Exposition to be held at St. Louis, Missouri, on October 13.

PROFESSOR WEAVER ATTENDS AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE

Prof. Frederick P. Weaver of the agricultural economics department has returned from Washington, D. C., where he attended the first inter-American agricultural conference.

Problems of agricultural economics, conservation, control of insects, and agricultural research were discussed by the delegates present from 17 of the 21 countries in the Pan-American Union.

PEACOCK REPLACES MORRELL

Jesse M. Peacock, a graduate of Purdue university, succeeds Theodore L. Morrell as a graduate assistant in the animal husbandry department of the School of Agriculture. Mr. Morrell resigned last spring.

WILL STUDY AT WISCONSIN

Prof. William L. Henning of the department of animal husbandry is on leave of absence for graduate study at the University of Wisconsin.

AGRICULTURE SCHOOL ADDS 3 BACTERIOLOGY MEMBERS

Three new members have been added to the teaching staff of the department of bacteriology of the School of Agriculture.

Dr. Joel A. Sperry, a graduate of Yale university, has taught at the University of Illinois and was recently bacteriologist of the New York State department of health and research at Albany, New York. Roger D. Reid of the University of South Dakota and Melvin E. Foons of the University of Maryland complete the new additions to the staff.

EVEN PROFESSORS ARE HUMAN

Here's how you score when you use a Waterman's fountain pen. You write better. Professor reads easier. You get a better mark. Professor gets an extra set of tennis. Everybody happy.

You write better because Waterman's pen points are smoother, more flexible, longer lasting. A wide selection lets you get just the point that fits your hand. The patented spoon-feed delivers the ink at exactly the proper rate—no skimming or blotting. Size for size, Waterman's hold more ink—won't run dry in a lecture or exam.

There's a Waterman's for every taste and every purse. For the last word in colorful beauty, as well as writing efficiency, ask to see Waterman's Patricia, or Lady Patricia. The Patricia's five jewel colors, its great ink capacity, its extra large gold pen point, and its aristocratic lines, make it the natural choice for the man who wants the best. Ten dollars. A pencil to match, five dollars.

The Lady Patricia is the pen women have wanted for years. A smart feminine clasp locates it securely in belt, pocket or handbag. Choice of three smart colors. Slender and graceful, yet it holds plenty of ink. Five dollars—and three for the matching pencil.

Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects.

Waterman's

When you select your Waterman's, have it filled with Waterman's ink—that's the ne plus ultra of writing luxury. Waterman's new Blue Ink in the blue carton, Blue Black in the yellow carton. Use the first for note-taking and general correspondence, the second when permanency is needed.

The New York Herald Tribune, "if you read it every morning," will keep you posted on all the events happening in this busy country of ours and all over the rest of the earth. Reading a good morning newspaper is as necessary as breakfast itself, and just as pleasant.

DON'T DENY YOURSELF THIS LUXURY

The New York Herald Tribune is on sale in State College the first thing every morning. Or you can have it delivered to your room, either by carrier or by mail.
