The football rally Friday night, attended by both alumni and students, was the finest exhibition of the old Penn State spirit witnessed here for a long time.

It is beyond the memory of Penn State fans that a Lion team has taken part in a game and lost less than through penalties than its opponents.

When Disbach attempted to pass over the goal line on fourth down from the forty yard line Saturday, it was a smart football trick. If the ball had landed a few yards farther Colgate would have taken possession of the pigskin on the 20-yard line instead of the yard mark where State held the ball.

Spectators have noticed how Lion centers this year pass the ball out side the playing field when the team is lined up near the sidelines. This play was praised by a sports writer in the New York Times. He calls it good play and a clever play, no pile-up, no chance of fumbling, no chance of getting hurt.

Edward B. Farr '03, one of the returning grads, claims the distinction of pitching against Christy Mathewson during the latter's college days at Bucknell. It was Mathewson's first game in college tanks, and likewise Farr's mound debut.

It is interesting to note the marked changes in newspaper football accounts of recent date. A New York newspaper devotes the first ten paragraphs of a story of the Navy-Princeton game Saturday to a description of the colorful gathering at the game. Another paper tells of Albie Booth for five paragraphs, although Booth took part in only one play of the Yale-Army game.

The Bucknell soccer team showed more strength than was expected in Saturday's game, considering that the sport was organized at Lewisburg only last year.

While thousands of football fans were frantic in search for tickets to the Pitt-Notre Dame grid classic, Penn State varsity and plebe harriers were watching this contest from the sidelines in the Pitt stadium.

Dick Hatlow's Western Maryland football eleven, in defeating Loyola of Baltimore, scored its twenty-first consecutive grid triumph.

Approximately 485,500 persons attended seven major football contests Saturday. Stanford-Southern California drew the largest crowd with 88,000.

A glance at the soccer results over the week-end show that Penn ran rough-shod over Lafayette to gain a 9-to-0 victory. Yale overcame the Cornell booters 4-to-0, while the Temple-Franklin and Marshall game ended in a 1-to-1 deadlock. Navy defeated Western Maryland 4-to-0.

Wisconsin's chances for a Big Ten championship were handed a setback by Purdue Saturday. The University of Michigan is now leading the Conference.

"Let's subsidize," says the Daily Bruin of Los Angeles. "Nearly every institution of learning financially reimburses the editor of the paper, year book and humor magazine—why shouldn't this practice be frowned upon in the case of athletes?"

Colgate Crushes Penn State Eleven; Harriers Vanquish Pitt, 15-40

Superior Maroon Offense Routs Nittany Team, 40-0

Lion Advances Seldom Enter New York Territory

A relentless Colgate attack, too powerful for the Nittany Lions, was the downfall of Penn State's eleven Saturday afternoon as the Maroon aggregation rolled up forty points and held the Blue and White team scoreless.

Not since the early days of Penn State football has a Lion team suffered such a crushing defeat. The versatile Colgate attack, literally swept the Lions before them, using a varied assortment of offensive tactics and dominating the play at every stage of the game. Nearly every Nittany attempt to advance the ball into hostile territory was frustrated.

In Macaluso and Captain Hart the Maroon possessed two backs of unequalled ability to gain yardage under any condition and with every type of play. Joe Miller was the only Penn State back able to make any headway through the capable Hamilton defense, and Miller's best work was his running back of punts and kick-offs. Judy Lasich proved effective at times with his spouted line plunging.

Colgate Gains 223 Yards

The occasions were rare when the Lions advanced the ball beyond midfield. The nearest Penn State ever progressed toward Colgate's goal was 25 yards, and that took place in the final period. Two passes, one from Evans to Kaplan, and the other from Miller to Kaplan, covered about 20 yards and advanced the pigskin halfway from mid-field to the visitor's goal line. Macaluso cut this rally short by intercepting Diederich's pass. In the second half Penn State was able to collect six first downs to a like number for Colgate, although the Maroon gathered ten in the opening periods to three for the Blue and White. This does not indicate the superiority of the visitor's attack. The gains made by the Keri-coached eleven were usually good for long yardage, while most of its touch-downs were made after lengthy forward passes had placed the ball in a position for a score.

Coach Andy Kerr's team gave an exhibition Saturday afternoon of a deceptive aerial attack which has seldom been equaled on New Beaver field. The Maroon completed ten out of fourteen passes for a total gain of 163 yards, while the Lions resorted to the air twenty-seven times, completing eight for ninety yards. By ushing Colgate covered 223 yards to 59 for Penn State.

Although neither Edwards, nor Finch were expected to play, Coach Higgins used both players. Edwards started at right end, while Finch played a large portion of the first half. The most serious injury that has yet sent a Lion player to the sidelines occurred when Bob Snyder injured his collar-bone in the second quarter. With Finch not yet in good condition, Miller will be the only member of the squad capable of directing the team from quarterback.

Macaluso Scores 4 Times

Macaluso crossed the goal line four times after the New York backs had placed the ball in a scoring position by sustained marches. On one occasion Reynolds carried the ball over the final mark. The Maroon's fifth touchdown resulted from a 33-yard pass, Hart to Ors.

Colgate's opening score was made three minutes after the game had started, and from that time on the Blue and White goal was constantly in danger. Only a few times were the Lions able to break through and hold the Maroon for downs or force Captain Hart to drop back for a kick.

During the closing moments Ask and Antonius made long runs of 30 and 25 yards and the contest ended with the visitors in possession of the ball in State's territory on the 10-yard line.

REKERS, DETWILER SET NEW RECORD

Varsity Wins by Perfect Score Over Panthers—Freshmen Lose Close Meet

Setting a new intercollegiate record for the course, Captain Paul Rekers and Dick Detwiler finished in a dead heat for first place to lead the Nittany harriers to a 15-to-10 victory over the Panther runners in Schenley Park Saturday morning.

The two Lion distance stars were timed in 27 minutes 29.2-5 seconds, "blatting" the old mark held by Luels of Syracuse who ran the distance in 27 minutes 38 seconds in 1925.

Chuck Messenger was the next runner to cross the finish line followed by Space and Glassburn who completed the course far ahead of Cleve of Pitt to give Penn State a perfect score. King and Napoleon finished in seventh and ninth places respectively.

Although England won the individual honors in the freshman race, the yearling harriers were defeated 28-to-25 by the University of Pittsburgh plebes. The Lion freshman was timed in 11 minutes 51 seconds, only 14 seconds slower than the freshman course record.

Rishel and Vandemark finished the race in fourth and fifth places, while Closson in ninth place was the next Penn State venturing to complete the course. Neaton, Boal, and Fletcher were the other yearlings to finish.

As part of the intramural program for cross country candidates arranged by Coach Nate Cattmell, an interclass run will be held tomorrow afternoon. An interfraternity run will be held November 5, and a freshman-sophomore dual meet November 12.

SOCCERMEN BLANK BISON BOOTERS, 3-0

Anderson, Holmes Net Goals For Lion Team—Bucknell Line Proves Weak

Forcing Bucknell booters to play a defensive game throughout, the Nittany eleven blanked the Lewisburg team 3-to-0 in an Alumni Homecoming contest Saturday morning.

Bud Anderson, proven center forward on the Lion team with Musser, sophomore attack staged a clever passing attack during the entire game. They were ably assisted by Bill Tyson out right who smashed up numerous Bison plays.

The first quarter ended in a deadlock with Penn State showing a decided advantage in passing and dribbling. The Bucknell line proved too weak to carry the ball into the Lion territory for any attempts at goal. Off-side plays and penalties gave both elevens opportunities to score although none were successful.

Following a clever tryout by Bill Tyson, badly stopped by Stein, Bison goal, Anderson succeeded in kicking the opening score. A few minutes later he again smashed through Parsons and Longstreth, visiting full-backs, to net a goal.

Holmes, substituting for Battersby in the second half gained an easy goal after receiving a strong pass from Musser. Logan, Lewisburg center half strove to smash up each play but lacked sufficient support.

Captain Bill Hutchinson, Murray Meserham and Bill Messerby formed the bulwark of the Nittany defense. Saltzman took part in his first varsity soccer contest when he started in place of Daykin at center half. Both Daykin and Masters, varsity booters, were placed on the bench because of slight leg injuries.
