CURRY TO ADDRESS RELIGIOUS LEADERS AT 'Y' CONFERENCE

Theologian Will Discuss Biblical Topics Before Students In Talk Tonight

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS OF 20 COLLEGES ATTEND

Delegates Begin Conclave With Discussion at 9 O'clock Tomorrow Morning

Dr. A. Bruce Curry, professor at Union Theological Seminary, New York city, heads the program speakers for the annual Christian Associations' Conference sponsored by the Penn State Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. tomorrow and Sunday.

At a series of Bible study discussions to which twenty college delegates have been invited to attend, Dr. Curry will discuss such topics as "Religion as a Hand," "Experimenting With the Way of Jesus," and "Can We Take Jesus Seriously?"

The first meeting will be held from 9 until 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning with the second session beginning at 2 o'clock. The Sunday meetings will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon respectively.

In connection with the conference there will be a meeting of all churches' Young People's groups at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night at the Methodist Episcopal church with Harry W. Lightfoot as moderator.

COUNCIL PROHIBITS FRESHMEN CLIQUES

Forbids Participation of First Year Students in Politics—Blazer Colors Standardized

That freshmen be barred from politics during the first semester and that violation of this custom will be considered a Tribunal offense was a ruling passed by Student Council in its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The proposal was presented by Frank Dietrich, president of Interfraternity Council. He declared that as the freshmen presidency was of little importance, he felt that freshmen should not waste time forming cliques when they could use it to better advantage in studying.

Student Council also passed a ruling, that hereafter the junior class blazers will be of a standard color and design, although the tilting of a committee appointed by the junior class president as was formerly the custom.

David C. McLaughlin, president of Student Council, appointed a committee composed of Clarence C. Christian '32, Earl A. Huston '31, sophomore class president, and Alfred E. Lewis '32, president of the junior class, to decide on the color and design of the Standard blazer.

In accordance with the new color change in freshmen blazers, Council voted that the winter blazers be changed to blue caps with white tassels.

Football, Still Only Paying Sport, Declines in Earnings

Net Surplus for Grid Season Shows Decrease Of $16,587 from Previous Year

Football, although still the only paying sport at Penn State, showed a net decrease of $16,587 over the previous season, according to the Athletic Association's annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930.

The total expenditures for the gridiron sport during the 1929 season amounted to $77,812.60. This was more than offset by ticket sales and guarantees, so that a net surplus of $29,317.85 resulted.

Wrestling, basketball, and lacrosse, in order named, were the next heavy losers. Boxing showed a deficit of $3,209.07, which is almost twice the loss of the 1929 season.

LEWIS ADVOCATES SENIORS CONSIDER SCHOLARSHIP GROUP DANCE LIMITATION

Urges Undergraduate Faculty Combine for Academic Nominations

Selection of class scholarship nominees by a student committee cooperating with the faculty board was urged by Alfred E. Lewis, president of the junior class, Wednesday night.

As a class balloting is now conducted, it seems impossible to secure a truly representative vote. Scanty attendance at meetings makes it possible for an ambitious candidate to secure his own election with a small backing.

A committee appointed by class presidents, with the guidance of the faculty board, could secure a much more accurate selection, in my opinion. The aspirant's academic standing, his needs, and his general character would be better judged than in a system where a few votes are the sole requisite.

COMMITTEE ARRANGES ALL-FRESHMAN DANCE

Harper '31 Heads Group in Charge of Only 1934 Social Function

Plans for the third annual all-freshman social function to be held in the Armory the week following Christmas vacation are being formed by the committee appointed by Alfred E. Lewis, junior class president and all-freshman advisor.

Charles S. Harper '31 was named chairman of the committee while Charles A. Kline, Robert W. McKune, and Frank C. Wiebelt are the members from the junior class.

John N. Gaiber '31, L. Sue Allen '34, June L. Brown '31, John S. Knastuck '31, and Gayle E. Vennum '34 complete the committee.

SENIORS CONSIDER DANCE LIMITATION

May Exclude Underclassmen at Annual Ball To Promote Class Distinction

Contrary to the precedent set in former years a plan is being considered to limit the attendance at the Senior Ball to upperclassmen in order to create a more exclusive atmosphere.

As a first step to make the dance more exclusive this year, the committee is planning to restrict the attendance of underclassmen.

Plans for decorating the Hall have not been completed, but the placing of the contract is anticipated before the Christmas recess, the chairman declared.

Among the bands now being considered for the Ball are Austin Wiley, who for two years has broadcasted from WTAM in Cleveland, and Doc Payton from Hotel Kenmore of Brooklyn, New York.

FLIER POSTPONES TALK TO LOCAL GLIDER CLUB

Motor Trouble Delays Jensen—Will Speak Here After Vacation

Unable to arrive at State College in time for his scheduled talk at an open meeting of the Glider Club Tuesday night because of motor trouble in his airplane, Martin Jensen, noted aviator, was forced to postpone his lecture till some date after the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Jensen returned to Harrisburg and made the journey by automobile, arriving here at 8:30 o'clock after the meeting had been adjourned. He expressed his apologies to those who had come out to hear him, stating that he would welcome the chance to speak at Penn State at some future time.

Lester N. Yohe '31, president of the club, said that the date of the meeting would be announced shortly. He also stated that officials of the club had conferred with Jensen upon his arrival Tuesday night on the possibility of securing several gliders for use here at the College, and that the noted aviator had pledged his help in the project.

SHIRLEY THORPE '33

PLAYERS TO STAGE SATIRE TOMORROW

Will Enact 'Mask and Face' at 8:20 O'clock as Second Show of Season

Enacting the "Mask and the Face," the Penn State Players will present their second production of the year in Schwab auditorium at 8:20 o'clock tomorrow night.

Shirley Thorpe '33 and Philip Epstein '32 will play the leading characters in the three-act satire comedy. The play is translated from the Italian of Luigi Chiavelli and is under the direction of Frank S. Neuharum.

With Harry Leiner '31 enacting the part of an old judge and Peter G. Meek '32 acting as an amorous sculptor, the list of male roles is filled out by Edward A. Miller '34 and Edward J. Smith '34.

Special stylized scenery designed by Gilbert S. Shott '32 will be used for the play. Planned to interpret the mood of the show, the scenery will not show actual life-like scenes but will consist of special arches and drapes.

PHYSICIANS EXPECT DEBONIS' RECOVERY

Varsity Pitcher Fractures Skull In Motor Accident Sunday Returning to College

According to a report received last night from the Lancaster General hospital, Albert F. DeBonis '32 suffered a serious relapse when complications set in yesterday.

Although he had not regained complete consciousness Wednesday night after sustaining a fractured skull in an automobile accident at Quarryville Sunday afternoon, Albert F. DeBonis '32, varsity baseball pitcher, is expected to recover according to reports received from the Lancaster General hospital.

Joseph D'Agostino '32, Samuel Sinclair '32, Willam R. Skiller '31, and J. Clyde Reburn '31, who were returning in the car, were thrown to the road but escaped without injury.

With "Shall We Stand By Prohibition" as his topic, Col. Raymond Robins of New York city will address the student body on the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States at 7 o'clock Monday night in Schwab auditorium.

This lecture is sponsored by the Student Y.M.C.A. which includes in its program the scheduling of lectures by prominent authorities on topics of interest to Penn State students.

DEBATING TEAMS TO APPEAR BEFORE COMMUNITY GROUPS

Continuing the policy of extension debates, the Forensic Council announced the preparation of teams to appear before community organizations, service clubs, parent-teacher associations and high schools.

Activity Group To Submit Plan for Student Union Before Senate Committee

Council Favors Plan For 2-Hour Athletic: Student Council added its voice to the growing number of those who approve the adoption of the two-hour recreation plan at their meeting Tuesday night when they voted unanimously in favor of adopting the proposed system of ending all classes at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The plan, in the opinion of Council, will be a forward step in the advancement of Penn State. With the abolishment of athletic scholarships, the recreation system will provide development for varsity material among undergraduate students and at the same time will give those who do not wish to participate in athletic competition, an opportunity to seek recreation in their own way.

Draws Up Organization Program Based On College Survey

PROPOSED ASSOCIATION WILL GIVE MUTUAL AID

10 Undergraduates, 5 Ex-Officio Members Form Personnel Of New Federation

Requesting authorization for the establishment of a Student Activities Union at Penn State, a committee of ten activity leaders will submit for ratification the organization plan for the proposed Student Union to the Student Welfare committee of the College Senate this week.

Since the inception of the plan last spring for the co-ordination of extra-curricular activities to serve a common program of development, activity leaders have been investigating the advisability of such a Union.

The organization as set forth in the plan will consist of a student committee of eight men and two women representing men's student government, women's student government, religious organizations, Interfraternity Council, athletics, publications, women's fraternities, council, honorary fraternities, music organizations, and Penn State Club.

Not To Be Legislative Body
The plan also provides for an executive committee consisting of a Student Union manager, the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, and two members from the administration or faculty, elected by student members for a period of two years, one expiring each year.

The function of the Student Activities Union, as outlined in the plan, is to coordinate and federate the organized extra-curricular student activities which are created by student initiative, and which have been approved by the College Senate.

This is to be accomplished by advancing the interests of the component groups in their several activities, the co-ordination of activities to serve a common policy to be agreed upon by the Student Union, and by promoting projects which component groups might properly undertake as a Union but could not properly undertake as individual groups.

The Student Union, according to the plan, would receive and act upon recommendations concerning student welfare, make it possible for a group to seek advice concerning its projects, act as a clearing medium for dates of events pertaining to student interest, serve as a source of general information through the Union manager, and advise the administration as to uses to which the Union features of Old Main shall be put.

The committee proposes that the Union shall not be a legislative or supervisory body. It will deal with groups and not individuals. The Union is to have no power over its component groups except in making suggestions in the form of recommendations after unanimous consent of the committee.

The student members of the Union are to be named by and obtain their authority from the constituent groups previously mentioned. It is intended by the Senate the plan as outlined will be put in force for one year and if changes seem necessary at the end of that time modifications will be made.

2003 ENROLL FOR HOME STUDY IN ENGINEERING

Extension Correspondent Students Represent Many Districts

Statistics of the department of engineering extension for the fiscal year 1929-1930 show an enrollment of 2003 in the home study course offered by that department.

Fifty-five counties in Pennsylvania and twenty-three states were represented in this enrollment. Westmoreland, Washington, and Allegheny counties led in this state while New York and Ohio had the greatest number of students of the outside states.
