

Sidelines

Rutgers university has fallen in line with many other colleges who name an acting captain for each game and an honorary leader at the end of the season. Richard Knuss, a lineman, was chosen captain of the 1930 Scarlet eleven Saturday afternoon, as the first honorary leader under the new system.

Boying fans this winter may be a little bewildered if they see a tall, familiar figure wearing the gloves for Penn State in the 160-pound class and hear him introduced as "Mr. Lucas." It will be no mistake on the part of the announcer, however, for Alex Charkowsky, Leo Houck's middleweight of last year, has changed his name since the close of the 1930 season.

The Yale athletic association has passed a ruling under which, in the future, any person connected with Yale athletes will be prohibited from speaking over the radio or writing newspaper articles.

When the Nittany Lions renew football relations with West Virginia next fall, it will mark the first gridiron contest between the two schools since 1927. In their last meeting, Penn State defeated the Mountaineers 14-0 in a game which dedicated Mountaineer Field. The West Virginians held the Lions to a 13-10 tie at the Yankee Stadium in 1923.

On the eve of the Army-Navy graduation classes, a one-sided Cadet victory which seemed inevitable a few weeks ago now appears doubtful. The Midshipmen, although still most decidedly the underdogs, showed so much improvement against Penn that it would not be a surprise to see them turn tomorrow's encounter into the close-scoring, butler-fought battle that has marked the service games of other years.

"Lighthorse Harry" Wilson, former Penn State and Army grid luminary and now backfield coach at West Point, scouted the Navy team at the Penn-Middle encounter on Franklin field Saturday afternoon.

Lack of harmony among coaches and players and failure of some of the athletes to adhere to training rules are advanced as leading reasons for the Quakers' unsuccessful football season in an editorial appearing in the Pennsylvania, undergraduate daily of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. L. Lloyd Bohn '21, who was a member of Penn State's mat team during his undergraduate days, was appointed head wrestling coach at Temple university this week after serving as assistant coach at Harvard for two years. Dr. Bohn, a professor of physics at the Philadelphia school, has the distinction of being one of the few, if not the only mat coach to hold the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Delta Chi-Phi Kappa Tilt Victor To Play Alpha Chi Sigma On Beaver Field

The championship of the intramural football tournament will be decided at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on New Beaver field, when Alpha Chi Sigma meets the victor of last night's Delta Chi-Phi Kappa engagement. The silver football trophy will be awarded to the team winning tomorrow's game.

Alpha Chi Sigma defeated Phi Sigma Kappa, by gaining eight first downs to their opponents' seven, Monday night. Tuesday night, Delta Chi downed Sigma Pi, by five first downs to two. In Wednesday night's encounter, Alpha Chi Sigma advanced to the final round by overcoming Chi Upsilon, seven first downs, to two.

Win on First Down
The scoreless ties, in which all three games ended, are indicative of the closeness of the contests. In each instance, the winning team was determined on the basis of the number of first downs gained, as recorded by the managers of the respective teams.

Had the old policy of disqualifying teams competing in the games still been operative, three games, instead of the scheduled five, would have completed this tournament. The muddy condition of the field made it necessary that all of the teams resort to defensive tactics.

The two teams to meet in the final battle tomorrow are the only units out of the thirty-two groups, originally entered not to have been eliminated in the contest. Many of the original number were disqualified because of the scores before the new policy was adopted to meet that situation.

5 Nittany Harriers Awarded Varsity 'S'
Captain Paul Rekers, Dick Detwiler, Chet Meisinger, Charlie King, and Bill Space were awarded such block "S" letters, the varsity track insignia, in recognition of their services on the intercollegiate championship cross-country team at a meeting of the Athletic Association Monday.

Sunny Glassburn, captain-elect for 1931, received the regular cross-country award, a four and one-quarter inch block "S." Varsity track awards are given members of a championship cross-country team.

CHOOSE SPORTS MANAGERS
Miss Catharine L. Hayes '32 was elected manager of the women's fencing team and Miss Marion P. Howell '33 was chosen winter sports manager by the WAA Tuesday.

All-Opponents Eleven Chosen by 18 Nittany Lettermen From Only 3 Opposing Grid Teams

Colgate, Syracuse and Pittsburgh are the only colleges represented on Penn State's 1930 all-opponent eleven, chosen by eighteen lettermen of the Lion football squad.

The Nittany players who picked the all-opponents' team for the Collegian chose two complete elevens, and each opponent who received a place on the first team was awarded two points in the final tabulation. A position on the second eleven allowed a player one point. In this system of scoring, Orsi and Macaluso, Colgate end and fullback, were the only gridmen who received perfect scores.

Five Colgate players, four Syracuse, and two Pittsburgh gridmen make up the first eleven, while Pitt and Bucknell have three places on the second team, Colgate two, and Iowa, Lafayette, and Syracuse, one each.

The closest fight for positions was waged for the center berth. The Nittany lettermen were wisely divergent in their choice between Berner, of Syracuse, Daugherty, of Pittsburgh, and Dolly, of Iowa. Abbruzzino, Colgate quarterback, and Eddie Baker, Panther signal-caller, were the only players who received a great number of votes for the quarterback post.

Other gridmen who were allotted a number of votes by Penn State's players were Sullivan, Colgate end, Lacks, Ellis, Colgate, center, Lockwood, Colgate, guard, Lockwood, Colgate, Lombardi, Syracuse, and Woodfin, Lafayette halfback.

FENCING TEAM PRACTICES
The women's fencing team meets for practice from 3 to 5 o'clock Tuesday and Friday afternoons and from 6.30 to 8 o'clock Wednesday nights in the Mining building.

Lettermen Aid in Building 1931 Team—90 Candidates Report For Daily Practice

With the task of building a mat team from a nucleus of four lettermen remaining from the 1930 wrestling squad, Coach Charlie Speidel began daily workouts early this week for his group of ninety candidates in preparation for the season's campaign.

Although a wealth of good material is available, the principal contenders for varsity berths are largely sophomores who lack experience in intercollegiate competition. Should these men show they can stand that competitive strain, Coach Speidel, who has lost only one dual meet in two years, that to Navy at the end of last season, predicts a fine team for the next three years.

Habler's Services Missed
The brunt of this year's work will rest on the shoulders of Captain Pearce in the heavyweight division, Maize and Harkins, experienced 115-pounders, and Kaisei, who alternated with Johnson in defending the 115-pound class last season.

Though the loss by graduation of Cowell, the 125-pound berth is vacant, but both Davenport and Hoeneke show fine promise in this division. The 135-pound class provides the greatest problem for the services of Captain Habler, last year's intercollegiate champion, are solely missed. However, Gilman, Stein and Lorenzo are waging an evenly-fought battle for honors.

160 Yearlings Report For Basketball Team

One hundred sixty freshmen answered the call for yearling basketball candidates this week at Recreation Hall. Active scrimmages in which the group will be reduced to a working squad will begin Monday.

Coach Larry Conover has announced that all freshmen who wish to come out for the team and have not yet signed up report at the gym tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Entertain Plebe Gridders
Twenty-nine members of the Freshman Football team and coaching staff were entertained at a banquet Wednesday night at the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house.

Coaches Bob Higgins, Leo Houck, and Larry Conover gave short talks after the dinner, being introduced by Merrill B. Morrison, captain of this year's Freshman team.
