

VANDALISM CAUSES $250 IN DAMAGES

Repairs Retard Landscaping. Campus Improvements, Ebert Reveals

More than $250 has been expended by the College this semester to repair property damage by student vandalism, according to George W. Ebert, superintendent of grounds and buildings.

Riding horses on the campus, walking across unsifted turf, breaking lamp globes, and letting furnishings from campus buildings have contributed to the college expense, the superintendent revealed. Money spent in this manner might well have gone toward further improvements and construction, he pointed out.

Comments Students. "Although approximately $55,000 will be spent at the completion of all campus improvements," Mr. Ebert asserted, "students have caused the College additional expense, and have retarded the landscaping plans by disturbing the newly laid soil. If the students will give the seed in the recently placed turf a chance to grow, our campus should regain its former beauty by spring."

In commenting upon the breaking of three lamp globes and the petty thefts in Old Main, Mr. Ebert observed that although these miscellaneous violations amount in expense, the conduct of undergraduates as compared to "the old days" is commendable.

"I am especially pleased with the fact that the students have not defaced the wall of Old Main tower," he concluded.

Earle E. Hewitt '02, Former 3-Letter Man, To Assist at Recreation Center

Earle E. Hewitt '02, of Indiana, former three-letter man, will return to State College this winter to assist in managing a new recreation center, which he was instrumental in establishing here.

While a student at Penn State, Hewitt was one of the mainstays of the football and baseball teams. He was a regular halfback on the '08, '09, and '10 eleven and captained the varsity in '01. In that year the gridmen won five games and lost three, making a better showing than in either of the two previous years when they won but four contests, while losing six.

Single-handed he defeated the Army in a game played at West Point October 7, 1899. After playing a stellar role throughout the game, Hewitt ran back a punt 65 yards for a touchdown and the only score, enabling Penn State to defeat the Cadets 6-0.

Hewitt was also one of the most consistent performers of the baseball team during the same years, and was a member of the track team in '01 and '02. Semifinalist in a sport new to him, he aided the trackmen to win first place in the Penn Relays in '01 and to finish a strong runner-up in '02.

Since his graduation Hewitt has remained in constant touch with the College and has been an executive of the Alumni Association for several years. For a number of years after he received his diploma he returned each fall in an unofficial capacity to assist in coaching the football team.

WOMEN YOUNGER THAN MASCULINE COLLEGE ENTRANTS

That women students are able to enter college when a year younger than men was indicated by a statistical study of students in the College completed recently by William L. Hoffman, registrar.

The average age of undergraduate women in the College was almost a year less than that of the men although there were four women who were born before 1890. More women of the College were born in 1912 than any other year while the largest number of men listed in 1911.

The oldest undergraduates in College are 42, leaving a margin of 26 years to the youngest, 13 of whom gave 1911 as their birthdate.

Averaging 21 years of age, the seniors have a one-year advantage over the juniors. The sophomores and freshmen follow in order with average ages of 19 and 18 respectively.
