Charity games have been extended into the realms of winger sports Columbia's courtmen, champions of the Eastern Intercollegiate league, have offered their services for a basketball game with any prominent eastern five, the proceeds of which would be used to help relieve New York's unemployment situation.

In recognition of their winning the intramural football tourney, Sterling E. Brown '31, manager of the tournament, presented the Alpha Chi Sigma gridmen with the championship trophy at the fraternity's Christmas banquet Wednesday night.

The actual playing time for a football game is twelve minutes and twenty-two seconds, according to a University of Wisconsin graduate who made tests with a stop watch over a period of three years, recording only the time during which the ball was in motion.

Johnny Zarella was named as a second team guard while "Mike" Kaplan and Cal Shawley received honorable mention on an all-Pennsylvania team picked by seven coaches for the Associated Press.

Attendance at college football games in 1930 was less than in 1929, a nationwide survey shows. Largest decrease occurred in the Middle West, while football on the Pacific coast and in the South enjoyed an increase in the size of the crowds.

A former Penn State line star, "Mike" Michalski '26, now with the Green Bay eleven, was picked as one of the guards on the all-American professional team selected by the Chicago Times.

In the midst of the present furor against the over-emphasis of football, Coach Knute Rockne has expressed a belief that college football is not commercialized enough, in view of the fact that it must support the non-paying minor sports.

Coach Joe Bedenk, Nittany line mentor, has picked "Pat" Peter, "Win" Wacker, of Fordham, and "Red" Woods, of Northwestern as the outstanding guards of the 1930 season in an article written for the Central Press and the Erie Daily Times.

The first All-American team ever picked was chosen by C. W. Whitney in 1889 and published in Harper's Weekly. It contained five players from Princeton, three from Harvard, and three from Yale.

"Skip" Stahley, captain of the Lion courtmen last year and now head basketball coach at Western Maryland, is grooming the Green Terror for their opening game against the Navy passers Tuesday night.

Between professional fights in the ring, Alie Wolff, former Lion boxing captain served as assistant football coach at a New York high school.

The most unusual play in the memory of Pop Warner, Stanford's football mentor, occurred in a game between Penn State and Cornell in 1898 when Warner was coaching the Ithacans. The ball was put under the jersey on the back of a Cornell player who ran without hindrance for a touchdown.

Hermann Names Tentative Quintet for Opening Game

Nittany Courtmen Meet Waynesburg Here January 7

Preparing Penn State's courtmen for their final drive before the start of the Nittany court campaign, Coach Dutch Hermann has named a probable quintet to face Waynesburg college in Recreation hall January 7.

Charles Hammond and Bub Davis, two veteran tossers who have but recently started in the first lineup, were named to the forward posts. Injuries have kept Jack Meyers and Moser, sophomore candidate, from scrimmages for the past week, and unless this pair comes to the fore in practices after vacation, Coach Hermann will start the men now playing.

Fred Brand, varsity center on the 1930 team, will play in the pivot position, and Captain Sol Saltzman will defend the Lion basket at guard. As his running mate, Conn, a member of last season's yeasting team, has been named by the Nittany coach.

To Return Early Fifteen men have been selected for early training before the opening game. In addition to the varsity team, Meyers, Moser, Daykin and Blowers are the forwards named. Maccomb and Moore, centers, as well as DeTurek, Williams, Wilson and Tancy, guards, will report for early drills.

Waynesburg will invade Penn State's court for the first time in the encounter shortly after vacation. The Yellow Jackets, since they will have played three games before the encounter here, will have an edge on the Lion tossers in greater experience. Coming to Recreation hall after contests on the two preceding nights with Juniata and Duquesne, the outfit coached by Frank Wolf will need plenty of endurance to withstand three games in a row.

Gridmen Devour Mammoth Steaks At Bezdek Dinner

Exhibiting unexcelled prowess as trenchermen, a famished band of Lion gridmen made strong bids for heftily on a mythical all-American gustatory eleven during the annual Bezdekian steak massacre held at the former Nittany mentor's home Tuesday night.

Bountifully filled platters, heaped high with juicy steaks, were emptied of their choice viands almost as soon as they appeared on the festive board. Mountains of mashed potatoes vanished like snow under a tropic sun, while other epicurean wonders met a similar fate before the onslaught of the hungry gridder.

Chuck Gullard displaced Red Duval, last year's winner, as mascot-champion of the team. The 10-pound guard not only consumed two mammoth steaks, huge helpings of potatoes, carrots, and beans, but came to the rescue of a teammate and devoured both Bob Snyder's pie and his own. To make victory doubly sure, he topped off the feast by eating a piece of rye bread fully a foot long, spread thick with butter.

Wielding a long carving knife, Hugo Bezdek presided over the ceremony, and urged the boys on to greater efforts. No plate was allowed to remain empty for so long as a second As a bare spot appeared, the knife whistled through the air, speared a steak from the implacably diminishing pile and deposited it in front of the contemnered player.

Livezey Will Make Cuban Baseball Trip

Jack Livezey, captain of the Nittany baseball team, and halfback of the football squad, has accepted the invitation of Les Gage, sports editor of College Humor, to represent Penn State on a college baseball team for a tour of the West Indies during the Christmas vacation. The all-college nine will leave Philadelphia tomorrow for Cuba and will not return until January 5. Daily practice will be held on the island for two games that have been arranged with amateur teams.

CONOVER SELECTS 32 PLEBE TOSSERS

Yearlings Will Start Workouts For Basketball Season at End of Holidays

Having reduced his squad to thirty-two members, Coach Larry Conover, of the freshman basketball team, will begin active preparation for the yeasting cage season following Christmas vacation.

Conover has not yet picked a regular team, but has alternated a wealth of material in scrimmages during the past week. At forward, McFarlane of McKeesport high, Kaufman of Philadelphia Central high, and Danenhower of Norristown high are the outstanding players, although McCarter of Darlington high, and Young of Kiski have shown good form.

Asplund of St. Mary's, Nelson Thomas of Hanover, Lieb of John Harris high school, Harrisburg, Leight of Segel, Mauger of Glen View, and Knupp of Waynesboro complete the list of forwards retained on the squad by the yeasting mentor.

Plebe Schedule Announced The center problem will probably be settled by Rathmell of Williamsport, Aldrich of Aspinwall, or Kern of West Chester, although Henning of Johnstown, Lutcher of Williamsport, Smith of Lehigh, Baldwin of Greenburg, Walmbusch of Mahanov City, and Balch of John Harris high school are also experienced candidates.

Weighten of York Collegiate institute, Stevenson of Clearfield, Wytum of South Hills high school, Pittsburgh, and Pinks of Lower Merion are prominent contenders for the guard positions. Other candidates include Hill of Nanticoke, Slusser of Schenley high school, Pittsburgh, Blyler of Reading, Dill of South Hills high school, Stark of Coatesville, David Thomas of Murrell, Steinfeldt of Lancaster, and Heyson of Oil City.

Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, announced the following tentative plebe schedule: February 21, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh; February 24, Bucknell at State College; February 28, Colgate at State College; March 7, Carnegie Tech at State College.

LION WRESTLERS TO MEET CHICAGO

Westerners Will Replace M.I.T. As Second Opponent on Schedule Feb. 6

Chicago university's wrestling team will meet Penn State in Recreation hall on February 6 to replace the Massachusetts Institute of Technology grapplers as the Lion's second opponent. Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, announced yesterday.

The Massachusetts team found it impossible to travel to State College for an engagement here on the tentative date arranged between the two schools for February 7, and the match was cancelled last week.

This will be the second consecutive year that the Nittany grapplers have acted as host to the mid-western squad in dual competition. Chicago wrestled here as the second opponent on the Penn State schedule last year and were downed by the Nittany matmen, 25-to-3.

Lion Schedule Difficult

Coach Charlie Spedel is giving his candidates strenuous workouts, for the grapplers face a difficult schedule. West Virginia will provide plenty of opposition and is a tough opponent to face as the opener on January 31. The daily practice drills consist in running, rope skipping, working-out on the pulleys, practicing holds, mat drills on maneuvers for technique, and competitive matches as the final of the day.

The schedule presents no set-ups while most of the good meets will be at home. Cornell, who won the Eastern Intercollegiate title last year, will meet the Lions at Ithaca, New York on February 28. Navv, the only team to down the Nittany grapplers, in a dual meet in two years, and the only team undefeated in the East last year, will close Penn State's schedule here on March 7.

FRESHMEN CO-EDS INSTALL PERMANENT CLASS OFFICERS

Miss Doris M. Acker was elected president of the freshmen women at their class meeting last week, when permanent officers were chosen from three trial sets of officers who have presided in recent assemblies. Miss Elizabeth L. Warner will act as vice-president of the class, with Miss Rosamund M. Kames secretary. Miss Eva M. Blchfeldt was chosen treasurer while Miss Grace Bau was selected social chairman.

POULTRY JUDGING TEAM SECURES FIRST HONORS

Wins Prize at Chicago Exhibition in Production Appraising Work

Winning first place in production judging in the Coliseum Poultry Show in Chicago last week, the poultry judging team was awarded a silver loving cup as first prize winners.

This was Penn State's first venture into the mid-western intercollegiate judging contest. Ten teams were entered in the entire competition and Penn State placed third in the total score.

Prof. W. Gallenbach, acting head of the poultry department, coached the team. Leonard T. Miller '32 had the highest individual score and received a gold medal. Other members of the team are Fred P. Jeffrey '32, Robert R. Parks '31, and John W. Kennedy '32 alternate. Jeffrey received a silver medal as he ranked third in production judging.

GRIDMEN TO PLAY IN SECTIONAL TILT

Kaplan, Shawley, Miller Join Ranks Of Northern, Southern Players For Charity Contest

Meyer Kaplan, end, Cal Shawley, tackle, and Joe Miller, halfback, varsity lettermen of the 1930 Nittany grid machine, have accepted invitations to represent Penn State in a North-South football game for the benefit of the unemployed in New York city next Saturday.

Tentative arrangements for the contest have been instituted by the New York chapter of the Knights of Columbus in conjunction with the American Legion and the Mayor's committee for the relief of the unemployed. The unemployment fund has been enriched to the extent of approximately $850,000 by four benefit football encounters held in New York city, and the committee hopes to swell the combined total over the $1,000,000 mark with the receipts of the battle between the inter-sectional college stars.

Plans for the game are in an early stage, and the sponsors are not sure that the game can be played.
