

Sidelines

Penn State and Syracuse have met in the squared circle six times since the first engagement in 1924.

Although Coach Roy Simmons, of Syracuse, will bring a team of sophomores to face the Lion battlers, the Orange this year has the best team in its history.

Both the teams are strong in the lighter weights although the Orange men have experienced battlers in the 175 and unlimited posts as well.

After downing the Navy, Syracuse fighters are rated on par as the favorite in the meet tomorrow night.

The Hillmen have a short undefeated record for this season, engaging in only four meets to date.

Although Lehigh's undefeated wrestling team is a slight favorite today and tomorrow, according to preliminary forecasts of sports writers, Penn State is considered a strong possibility to win the championship crown.

Lehigh, Cornell and Princeton are tied with three men each on the list of mythical winners in the championship finals tomorrow.

Hillmen To Face Lions In Season's Final Engagement

CAPTAIN JULIE EPSTEIN FACES SYRACUSE LEADER

With the same lineup that tied the strong Army boxers last week, Coach Leo Houck's mittmen will attempt to close their dual season by downing the undefeated Syracuse ringers in Recreation hall at 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

Confident after their victory over the undefeated Navy leather-pushers, Coach Roy Simmons' boxers will enter the ring filled with hopes of gaining their first victory over the Lions.

For the first time this season, Captain Julie Epstein will fight in 135 pounds, the opposing captain when he enters the ring at 115 pounds against Paul Vicari, Orange leader.

McAndrews Meets Wolman Scrappers will meet in the 125-pound class when Davey Stoop faces Al Wetheimer, experienced Hill featherweight.

Johnny McAndrews will have another opportunity to display his speed and boxing ability when he crosses gloves with Wolman, Orange 135-pounder, another sophomore.

Boxer will meet slugger in the 160-pound bout when Fred Babb, Lion middleweight, climbs through the ropes to stop the winning streak of Joe Moran, Syracuse knockout artist.

Pat Hayes, senior, brought his class up with the first-year men when he downed both Updegrave and Zawacki, freshman 160- and 175-pound boxers.

PANTHER FIVE WINS 19 OUT OF 23 ENCOUNTERS

With hopes of shattering the Golden Panther's streak of three straight victories on the Blue and White court, Penn State's quintet will close its season against Pitt in Recreation hall at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Seldom a formidable team in the first half, the Pitt five has won consistently this season on belated spurts that put them into the lead in the final minutes.

Four seniors will wear Blue and White colors on the basketball court for the last time tomorrow night.

To challenge the Blue and Gold's continued conquest on the Nittany court, it is probable that Coach Dutch Heermann will start his second-string line.

With one exception, Coach Doc Carlson will employ the same Pitt lineup that barely succeeded in subduing the Lions after a second half comeback at Pittsburgh.

With Lorenzo in his regular weight in the welterweight class, Ted Revault will try for the middleweight title. After a strong fight for the 165-pound belt, Thomas earned the right to represent the Blue and White in the championship class.

In the light-heavyweight class, Rothenberg also was extended and only gained the 175-pound assignment after two trial bouts.

McFarlane Leads Yearling Passers In Season Scoring

Notris McFarlane, forward, led the freshman basketball team in scoring with a total of forty-nine points, averages for the 1931 season reveal.

The Conover-coached yearlings tallied 141 points to their opponents' 113, an average of twenty-three points a game to an eighteen point average for the teams they played.

While McFarlane was far in the lead for high scoring honors, Slusser and Thomas waged a sharp fight for second honors.

Converting thirty-three goals out of sixty-four foul try's, the Blue and White plebs gave a fair exhibition of foul shooting for the season.

With freshmen leading as a result of this week's games, the second round of the women's interclass basketball tournament will open Monday night in the Armory.

The schedule will begin with dual meets Monday between the seniors and juniors and sophomores and freshmen.

With one exception, Coach Doc Carlson will employ the same Pitt lineup that barely succeeded in subduing the Lions after a second half comeback at Pittsburgh.
