ARTISTS WITHOUT AUDIENCES

Whether for lack of culture or for lack of money, the Artists' Course sponsored by the College is dangerously close to an abrupt termination of its brief career.

Seven or eight years ago, people say, the entertainment course was well attended, was not a distinct financial loss, had celebrities of merit on its program.

There is more incentive for a prosperous and popular Artists' Course now than before. If asked whether they wanted the abandonment of the course, a large majority of those who fail to support it would reply in the negative.

There are a number of contributing factors which might go to cause a marked decline in the success of the course. Perhaps, in aiming at popularization, it has failed to please the culturally critical who look for greater figures of the concert stage, without gaining the vote of those who admittedly know no distinction between the very good and the mediocre.

Certainly some investigation of the continued lack of success should be enlightening, if Penn State wants its culture popularized, the possibilities of meeting its taste without sinking to a level of mediocrity are various.

Despite the obvious benefits which could be pointed out for a system of bell-ringing which would announce the start of afternoon classes, no provision for such a warning has been made.

ONE STEP FURTHER

In its vote against the continuance of sophomore customs Tuesday night, Student Council justly relegated to the discard another set of rules which no longer served appropriately.

Gradually Penn State's student government has cast aside out-dated regulations. It has continued carefully to seek a means of giving importance to remaining traditions by paring away the needless and antiquated out-growths of conditions which no longer exist.

With the breakdown of customs, it is natural that there will be extremists who would pervert the elimination of dead wood into the elimination of all customs.

Penn State students who haven't chosen to support the athletic teams here in the past and gave as their reason the fact that the team wasn't up to its usual calibre must be rather at a loss now for a non-attendance excuse.

OLD MANIA

There was a Best Dressed Man contest some time back, in which some guy named Sobeller or something was elected the B. D. M., and awarded a new suit of clothes.

Here this school is supposed to be a regular hot-bed of agricultural wisdom, with barns and stock pavilions all over the place and what does it amount to? Not a thing, pals, not a thing.

We're sick and tired of listening to all this honey about beautiful Spring weather. The next buzz that comes up to us and says, "Ain't this some day! How about a couple of sets of tennis?"

We got ahold of a Faculty Bulletin last night, just to see if there was any good dirt for this column, but there wasn't.

We're still hot on Ogden Nash's heels, and here's our latest creation. It just sort of came to us.

Somebody just told us that Dean Warnock writes a pretty good column too.

COUNCIL NULLIFIES SOPHOMORE RULES

Members of the three upper classes are ex-officio members, with the senior head acting as chairman of the Board.

Robert B. Bughigh '32 was elected secretary for next year's Council and James F. Cochran was named senior representative from the Liberal Arts School.

CHAPTERS INVITED TO ENTER PARADE

Committee Head Seeks Fraternity Groups for Memorial Day Formation Saturday

Fraternity and non-fraternity organizations were again invited to have representative groups with flags in the annual Memorial Day parade Saturday by Prof. John J. Light.

"Since fraternities are organized bodies" Professor Light said, "we have invited them, especially, to have a number of their members in the line of march."

With preparations almost completed for the State College observance, plans have been made to send firing squads and buglers to many outlying districts.

A feature of the local celebration will be the annual firing over Dr. George W. Atherton's grave near the entrance on the northern side of the Schwab auditorium.

PROF. TAYLOR CHOSEN HEAD OF FACULTY AUTHOR CLUB

Prof. Horace B. Taylor was elected president, Dr. Weyland F. Dunaway vice-president, and Prof. Harold F. Graves secretary-treasurer of the Penn State Authors' Club at a meeting Tuesday night.

The club, which was formed this year and is composed of members of the college faculty who have published at least one book, plans to entertain any prominent authors who may visit the campus next year.

FORENSIC BODY ELECTS HERPEL AS PRESIDENT

F. Merton Saybolt, John Tongren Named to Other Offices

Coleman Herpel '32 was elected president, and F. Merton Saybolt '32 was chosen vice-president of Forensic Council at a meeting of the newly named group Tuesday night.

John C. Tongren '32 was selected for the position of secretary, while Prof. John H. Fitzzell, head of the department of public speaking, was named treasurer.

The Forensic Council is composed of members from the debating squad and of students interested in public speaking, appointed annually by the senior class president.

LISTENERS WRITE LETTERS TO COLLEGE RADIO STATION

WPSO, the college radio station, has received letters from listeners as far away as Philadelphia and Johannesburg during the past year.

The Sunday afternoon concerts and plays presented over the station found great favor with the radio listeners of the state.

and poultry husbandry with two each. Thirty-six seniors in the pre-medical department of the Chemistry and Physics School lead Dean Whitmore's School, while thirteen have qualified in the curriculum of chemical engineering, six in chemistry, and three in physics.

Fourteen metallurgy engineers represent the department with the largest number of graduates in the Mineral Industries School.

great for a late snack!

BEFORE you go to bed, eat a bowl of crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes and milk or cream. Delicious—and so easy to digest you'll sleep like a million dollars.

Dietitians say that crisp cereals are just the treat for a late snack. So much better than hot, heavy foods. So remember Kellogg's when you drop in at the campus restaurant around bedtime. Extra delicious with sliced bananas.

The most popular cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include ALL-BRAN, PEP Bran Flakes, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krumbles, and Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit. Also Kaffee Hag Coffee—the coffee that lets you sleep.

You'll enjoy Kellogg's Stumber Music, broadcast over WJZ and associated stations of the N. B. C. every Sunday evening at 10:30 P. M. Also KFI Los Angeles, KOMO Seattle at 10:00, and KOA Denver at 10:30.
