

COLLEGE PARKING RULES ANNOUNCED

Administration Releases Revised Code—Autos Allotted Restricted Areas

Approved by the Board of Trustees, a definite set of campus parking regulations was released yesterday from the President's office.

Automobile parking will be permitted, according to the regulations, only in specially designated parking areas, and on one side of the roadways. Members of the academic and administrative organizations of the College were urged to use parking areas as far as possible, in order that visitors to the campus may find roadside parking space convenient to their destinations.

Designate Areas

The following areas were designated for parking east of Atherton street, north of Service building; Burrows street, east of Recreation hall, south of woods; between Engineering F and Mechanical Engineering laboratory, rear of Unit A. Liberal Arts, Old Beaver field, east of Chemistry Annex; corner of Eastern and Three Mile roads, north of Creamery, for Creamery patrons only. Parking was permitted on one side only of the following roads: Burrows street, west side, Beta Theta Pi corner to Recreation hall, Allen street, east side, Centre drive to North drive, Service road to Engineering F, south side of Burrows street to Engineering F; Centre drive, north side of Atherton street to Eastern road; North drive, north side Recreation hall to Old Township road.

Dean of Women Announces Rules

House regulations, including rules for holding dances, were announced by Dean of Women Charlotte E. Ray yesterday.

1 The house should be closed to callers at 11 o'clock on all nights except Friday and Saturday when callers may stay until 12:30 o'clock.

2 It is understood that all women will be in the house at 11 o'clock except Friday and Saturday nights, when they may stay out until 12:30 o'clock.

3 Dances may be held only on week-end nights and must be closed at midnight. This applies to violation dances lasting later than 9 o'clock as well as orchestra dances.

4 It is understood that dances given in girls' houses be invitation affairs managed by girls.

5 Any house desiring a second dance may present to the Dean's office a written request at least four days in advance.

6 Girls of two houses are at liberty to give a dance jointly.

7 Girls are requested to register notices of dances at the Dean's office two days in advance.

8 All students living in your house are expected to notify you in advance of any over-night absence from the house. It is well that you know the temporary address of anyone absent from town in order to transmit any important message that may be received. It has always been understood that guests in student houses accept the same closing hours as regular students.

ALLEN CONCLUDES LECTURE PROGRAM

ment could be secured for nothing, Mr. Allen said.

As a result, short stories were originated by authors who compressed their material to fit the mazzines which grew up during this period in American literature, Mr. Allen pointed out.

Edgar Allen Poe, whose influence upon French writing was strong, was named as the next important figure in American poetry. The belief that he was not appreciated in America until his success abroad is a misconception, according to the lecturer.

"Emerson's poetry is valuable as a means of securing an insight into his philosophy," Mr. Allen said. "Emerson's poems express his philosophy of thought in compressed and clear form, undisturbed by too great detail."

"Without Emerson, there could have been no Whitman," he added. "What Whitman had to say would have been nonsense without the stabilizing influence of Emerson's thought. Whitman was a creature of feeling, who wrote with great gusto, but depended upon other sources for his logic."

Herman Melville, known to the world as the author of "Moby Dick" was primarily a poet, according to Mr. Allen. Much of his prose is part poetry. Lizzette Reese and Emily Dickinson were named as two women who stand out as poets during the period after the Civil War. Mr. Allen contended that Miss Dickinson, although worthy of some of the praise which has been given her, is over-rated at present and will lose much of her present prestige within the next ten years.

In his afternoon talks, Mr. Allen discussed means of approach to poetry, covering the topics of fundamentals in discussing poetry as an art, the poetic attitude, and values and achievements in modern poetry.

"Artistic impressions cannot be blended," Mr. Allen said in his talk Wednesday afternoon. "Those who believe they can transfer music to color, and color to poetry, are nothing more than aesthetic fools."

"The power of creative imagination is the power of blending what should be said with the available means of saying it to secure the greatest unity," Mr. Allen said.

"Robert Frost and Edwin Arlington Robinson are the only poets in America today who understand this fundamental principle."

In proving that poetry must stand over a long period of time on its own merits alone, Mr. Allen declared

"While it is fine to hear Vachel Lindsay reciting his poetry, that poetry will live only so long as Mr. Lindsay is present to interpret it from the platform. When he is removed, his poetry will be removed."

"Bad poetry is not an image, but a picture with a label under it," the speaker said. "Poetry differs from all other arts in that it is more abstract."

In his final afternoon lecture yesterday, Mr. Allen covered some of the more recent American poets, reading some contemporary work to prove points he made earlier.
