Assisting Head Coach Bob Higgins with the Lion football team are coaches of four other varsity sports on the lookout for talent for their own squads. The backfield coach is Dutch Hermann, varsity basketball mentor, the lieutenant in charge of Joe Bolenk, baseball coach; the trainer is Leo Houck, who coaches boxing, and Chasie Spedel, wrestling coach, directs setting up exercises.

Penn State and Lebanon Valley will meet for the sixteenth time on Saturday when the Annapolis Collegians come here for the second game on the Lion schedule. The Blue and White has won all of the fifteen previous games, twelve times by shutouts.

Penn State varsity teams of the next two or three years should be well supplied with material if the roster of high school captains in the matly 1,225, of which some 825 are entering freshman class is a fair indication of athletic ability. In the new class of approximately 1,225, of which some 825 are men, there are 79 boys who were captains of some high school or preparatory school athletic team.

Rab Currie, halfback ace of the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets and better known as the pest of the basketball court, did not play football last year. According to Coach Wolf, Rab is a likeable kid and likes to hang around with the big boys, so they let him get out and run around a bit.

Wood, which was gathered for the first time away back in 1922 by Waynesburg College students for a bonfire celebration in anticipation of its triumph that year over Washington and Jefferson College, was gathered together again Saturday night in celebration of the first time in history that the Western Pennsylvania institution has won from a major opponent.

Temple University will employ three different types of line play. In addition to the orthodox six and seven man line, it is probable that the team will use a five-man line also, in which only five men will be used in the first defense with the center and one tackle coming out to back up the line.

A new head coach, a new system of play and two sophomores making their debut as varsity players will be introduced on Saturday when the University of Pennsylvania opens its fifty-fifth football season against Swarthmore on Franklin Field.

Contending that football is a sport which calls for the best qualities in men, Dr. Ralph M. Brett, acting president of Rutgers University, announced his wholehearted support of the Scarlet football team at the Rutgers-Princeton game on Saturday. Just forty years ago Dr. Brett was captain of his Alma Mater's grid team.

With a new coach and a revamped lineup, the West Virginia University football team, fresh from its 11-to-6 victory over Duquesne, will make its seventh visit to New York on Saturday to meet the Fordham University gridmen at the Polo Grounds.

Waynesburg Eleven Defeats Lions, 7-0

Nittany Defense Falls Before Air Attack of Jackets

Unable to check the passing attack of the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets, Penn State's grid team dropped its opening game of the 1931 season by a 7-to-0 score on New Beaver field Saturday afternoon.

Although Coach Bob Higgins' team outshone its opponents in number of first downs registered, by a 10-to-7 count, there is little doubt that Coach Frank Wolf's proteges earned their victory, the second that the Western Pennsylvania institution has gained in State College in less than a year.

Through the fine running of Rab Currie and the accurate passing of Johnny Ross the Yellow Jackets managed to snatch from the grasp of the Lions, a victory which means much to any comparatively new team at the opening of a season.

Using the lateral pass as a means of getting into Lion territory, Currie, Waynesburg back, employed the same play to register the only score of the day. Immediately before the scoring Johnny Ross had completed a forward pass to Jake Porter who ran to the State two-yard line. After Rollason gained a yard through the line Currie raced around right end for the touchdown.

Twice in the opening period the Lions failed after they had passed the twenty-five yard marker, once on the fourteen-yard line and once from the twenty-two yard stripe. In these two marches the Lions made four first downs.

Only once after the first quarter did the Blue and White advance the oval beyond the Waynesburg thirty-five yard line and this time the Higgins-coached machine failed to gain the necessary yardage in four downs. The Jackets soon punted out of danger and from then on the pigskin was in State's territory.

Receiving Basch's opening kickoff on the ten-yard line and returning the ball fifteen yards, the Jackets punted and the Blue and White advanced the ball by a forward pass, Mooneyes to Snyder. The pass was good for twenty-three yards and was followed by the Lion leader's line plunging which brought the ball to the twenty-three yard line. Here the Lions faltered the first time.

After punting out of danger, the Jackets' line yielded to the thrusts of Wilke, Mooneyes, and Lasich until the Lions reached the fourteen yard stripe. Here Coach Wolf's team withstood the furthest attack made by the Blue and White when Snyder's attempted forward pass to Mooneyes was not completed.

Following an exchange of punts, Currie skated right end for a first down by using a lateral pass. From this point, the Lion forty-four yard line, Ross tossed a pass to Porter who caught the oval on the State twenty-four yard line and ran to the two-yard marker before being brought down. At this position Rollason made one yard on a line thrust and Currie followed with another lateral pass play and a touchdown. Porter kicked the extra point from placement.

During the remainder of the second period the ball remained near midfield although Currie threatened each time he caught a Lion punt. The third period found the Waynesburg

Play Straight Football
Not taking any chances after they had advanced the oval to the Lion twenty-eight yard mark by a forward pass, Ross to Donley, the Jackets became content with straight football and kept the ball deep in State territory almost the entire quarter. On two occasions the Lions had possession of the ball within the shadows of their goal posts, but managed to kick out of the danger both times.

Throughout the entire game the Wolf-coached line showed a good bit of speed, especially when their full-back kicked Time and again Bob Snyder was stopped in his tracks after receiving Rollason's punts.

RAMMACHER WILL CALL GYM ASPIRANTS MONDAY
Princeton, Temple, Army, Colgate Included in Proposed Meets.
Coach John Rammacher, mentor of the first Lion gym team, will call the candidates for this year's team Monday. Although no definite arrangements have been made, meets have been proposed with Princeton, Colgate, Temple, and Army.

The only meet of the season, last year was won by the Lion team at the expense of Colgate gymnasts. The New York school, however, may drop its gym team this year.

With eight of last year's lettermen back, Penn State's newest sport has bright prospects for the coming season. One of the meets may be a triangular affair with Princeton and Temple as the opponents, said Rammacher.

60 Freshmen Continue Practice For Initial Contest With Dickinson Seminary

Sixty candidates for the freshman football team are practicing daily in preparation for the opening game of the season against Dickinson Seminary Oct. 17.

Although Coach Larry Conover has just started the task of weeding out a starting lineup against the Williamsport school, several men already stand out as likely prospects not only for the freshman squad but as the material on which future Penn State varsity hopes must hinge.

From neighboring Bellefonte Academy come Douglas, Webb, Hunter, and Parks in search of positions in the backfield. Other promising backs include Cummings of Cape May, N. J., high school, Wilbert of Johnsonburg high schools, and Sigel of Bellevue high school.

Has Wealth of Material
A wealth of guards and tackles has met Coach Conover in his search for line material. Most promising among the guards are Johnson of Peddie Institute, Davis of Upper Darby high school, and Cosken of McDonough Prep. Kreizman, former Philadelphia Central high school star, and Davis, from Wyoming Seminary, are outstanding tackles.

The search for promising ends has revealed Roddum of Wyoming Seminary, Allen of Cook Academy, and Fletcher of George School in the vanguard at present. Among the centers, Hayward and Watkins of Larksville and Kessler of Scranton Central high school are promising.

SOCCER ASPIRANTS HOLD SCRIMMAGES

Coach Jeffrey Drills Players For Opening Game With Western Maryland

Opening the second week of soccer practice, Coach Bill Jeffrey's soccer men engaged in kicking goals and loosening up exercises yesterday afternoon. Three scrimmages were held last week, and one probably will take place this afternoon in preparation for the first game with Western Maryland here two weeks from Saturday.

Ten lettermen, who have returned for regular workouts, will constitute the nucleus of another promising Nittany soccer eleven. Captain Ted McKune will be supported by his former teammates Bill Henszey, Al Daykin, Frank Evans, Bill Tyson, Herb Masters, Dutch Miller, Bob Shepard, Shorty Musser, and Junior Holmes, all lettermen.

Veteran Forwards Report
Frank Tully and Homer Manwaring, a sophomore, are seeking the goal keeper's post, now retained by Captain McKune, while Bill Henszey will be forced in the competition for full-back positions by Tom Haigh, Dave Young, and Rudy Lindquist, an enterprising sophomore.

In the race for half-back assignments, Al Daykin and Frank Evans will find worthy rivals in Bill Shea and Bob Young. The center-half-back will rest between Bob Sigel, Ed Sherwood, and Bill Porter, a varsity newcomer.

Six lettermen are candidates for the five forward posts in the persons of Tyson, Masters, Miller, Shepard, Holmes, and Musser. Other promising material is noticeable in George Schwartz, a junior, and Shorty Edwards and Jim Altamus, sophomores.
