

WPSC TO EXPAND RADIO PROGRAMS

Broadcasting Station Will Go on Air 15 Hours Weekly—Baker Appointed Director

From ten to fifteen hours each week will be occupied by WPSC, College radio station, when new plans of operation are put into effect on Monday, according to an announcement by Herbert Koepf-Baker, instructor in public speaking, who was appointed last week to serve as director of radio programs.

Noon-day broadcasts will be extended under the new program to include each day except Sunday, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday will be given over to agricultural talks and notations, in addition to musical selections. Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday will be devoted to College news, special features, and music.

To Hold Twilight Series

Another feature of the new plans will be a twilight series of from one to one and a half hours on the afternoons of Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. This series will be cultural and educational, with electrical transcriptions and phonograph records of classical and semi-classical music.

Each College department will contribute to the series by providing brief talks on art, science, and literature. Each Dean will direct the work within his School. Sunday afternoon programs of two to two and a half hours will be supervised by the department of music. When possible, outside artists will supplement College talent in these broadcasts.

Foster Student Interest

Regular chapel and athletic broadcasts will be continued under the new system, and whenever possible, visiting lecturers and musicians will be secured for the programs, Mr. Baker said. Student interest in radio will be fostered through a student council on radio, the new director announced.

A studio staff of probably six members will be organized, along with four assistants who ultimately will serve on the group. The council will take part in organization and direction of programs, and studio management and announcing.

GEOLOGISTS WILL CONDUCT FIELD EXCURSION TOMORROW

To stimulate a general interest in geology, a field excursion will be held from 9 to 4:30 o'clock tomorrow under the auspices of the department of geology. Members of both the student body and faculty and town residents have been invited to attend. Meeting at the Mineral Industries building, the group will make the trip in private cars as far as possible, although taxicabs will be provided for those without accommodations. Reservations must be made at the geology department office by noon today.

Northrup Heads Enlarged Mining Extension Program

Reappointed To School After 11 Years Absence

PROF. HARRY B. NORTHRUP

Beginning a large-scale program for the Mineral Industries extension division, Dean Edward Steidle yesterday announced the appointment of Prof. Harry B. Northrup as director of the service.

Having been connected for several years with the department of metallurgy of the former School of Mines, Professor Northrup returns to the Penn State campus after an absence of eleven years. Coming here in 1911, he was associated with the department and just before the war he was made acting head.

The Mineral Industries extension division is a college medium through which information and the result of research is distributed and made effective throughout the State. Three full-time assistants and seventy-five part-time teachers will be employed in mineral industries communities of Pennsylvania.

2,000 To Benefit

Almost 2,000 workers of the State will benefit by instruction in seventy-five classes of the extension regularly. More than 600,000 workers in the mineral industries usually live in rural communities where extension training is the only form of education which fits their needs, according to Dean Steidle.

Extension work in mining was organized first at Penn State in 1893 and it was probably the first organized extension education program attempted in the United States. Until this year, the extension division attained very little prominence. However, the present extensive program has been planned to bring about successful results.

"That bully old slogan hits me just right—"

... no bamboozlin' about that!"

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! "Satisfy" just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance — no heavy inks or odors from ink. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying.

Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it. And again he's satisfied!

Satisfy — they've got to satisfy! The right tobaccos, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and aged, blended and cross-blended, to a taste that's right. Everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. CHESTERFIELDS do a complete job of it. They Satisfy!
