DARTMOUTH, PITT BEGIN RELATIONS WITH LIONS

West Virginia, North Carolina, Cadets, Green Terrors, Syracuse Listed

With Navy missing from the Lion boxing schedule for the first time in Penn State ring history, a difficult seven dual meet season has been announced for the Nittany matmen.

Opening one of the hardest schedules ever set before the boxing team, Dartmouth will journey to State College on January 16 to engage the Lions for the first time.

To Meet Pitt With this next engagement set for February 6, the Penn State matmen will meet Western Maryland representatives at State College and will journey to Chapel Hill to oppose a North Carolina ring team the following week.

Pittsburgh will be met for the first time in Nittany boxing history when the Lions face the Panthers here on February 20. On the following Saturday, they will face an Army team in its West Point stronghold.

In the final contest at home, West Virginia will come here on March 5, while the Nittany matmen will engage Syracuse away the following Saturday to end their dual meet season.

Hold Olympic Trials Here

Returning to Syracuse on March 18 and 19, the Lions will seek individual crowns at the Boxing Intercollegiate. On March 25 and 29 they will compete in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament which will be held in Recreation Hall.

Constituting preliminary try-outs for the 1932 Olympics, the association tourney will draw collegiate boxers from all sections of the country. Four men in each weight class will be selected in the contests here and will later compete in finals at Chicago. The winners in the divisions will then compete in the 1932 Olympics.

SERIES OF TALKS OPENS TOMORROW

Professor Reiser to Deliver First Lecture Under Agriculture School Auspices

A series of eighteen general lectures, including speeches by the Hon. John A. McSparran, State Secretary of Agriculture, and Dr. R. G. Bressler, president of Rhode Island State College, will begin tomorrow afternoon when Prof. John H. Reiser delivers a talk on "Western Rural Influences in the Present Day Orient," at 4:10 o'clock in Room 100, Horticulture building.

The lecture course is to be offered to all students and faculty members under the auspices of the School of Agriculture and experiment station. All of the lectures will take place on Wednesdays, the last one being scheduled for April 20.

Dr. Reiser, who is executive secretary of the Agricultural Missions Foundation in New York city, has spent seventeen years in the Orient as professor, and later Dean of the College and director of the School of Agriculture at Nanking University, China.

News items, complaints, and subscriptions will be taken by the person in the office. Telephone calls as well as personal calls will be cared for. Members of the business staff will be on duty at the office in the Nittany Printing Company to receive classified advertisements.

'Borrow—Don't Work Way Through College,' Smith Says

Comptroller Suggests That Students Seek Aid Rather Than Lose Valued Contacts Gained During Leisure

Borrow money to go through college rather than lose valuable leisure time by heavy work to earn money, Ray H. Smith, comptroller of the College, advised in commenting on the number of loans granted to needy students this semester.

"There are valuable educational factors in leisure time contacts that the man who dashes right from classroom to work and from work to classroom cannot make," Mr. Smith said, "while a man will find also that extra-curricular activities are highly valuable things which are missed by men who must spend their time at outside work."

For this reason, Mr. Smith was of the opinion that College loan funds should be increased until they are adequate to aid all students who are in need of the money. All efforts possible are being made at the college by College officials to add to the funds, Mr. Smith said, the parents loan fund set up by the parents association Saturday being in line with the general policy.

More than twice the number of applicants for loans and other aid appeared this year before College officials than did last year, the comptroller said, while loan funds were spread as far as possible by cutting the usual amount of loan in half.

Dean of Men Arthur R. Wanock reported that he knew of at least six cases in which underclassmen who were unable to get loans were forced to abandon their college work for this semester. Loans were granted underclassmen only this year.

No trouble has been had through failure of students to repay loans, Mr. Smith said, since careful investigation is made of every case. In some cases, however, payments come late, loans having been collected thirty-five years late, the comptroller said.

P.S.C.A. TO BEGIN DRIVE FOR $3500

175 Solicitors Will Open Annual Campaign—Seek Student Faculty Support

With the student quota set at $3,500 and the faculty at $900, 175 division leaders and captains will begin active solicitation today in the annual financial drive of the Penn State Christian association.

The budget will provide for the Andy Lytle Cabin, speakers, office service at the Christian association, an employment bureau, fire, fire, sessions, conferences and the other expenses incurred by the association during the year. The salaries of the secretaries and general expenses are provided by the advisory board.

Hetzl Lauds Drive "The financial drive officially opened with the "Kick-off" dinner last night at the Nittany Lion Inn. Fred B. Lytle, secretary of the Christian association at the University of Pennsylvania, addressed the division leaders and captains at this time. In addition, talks were given by Harry W. Scamman, secretary of the association, and Charles P. Smith '32, president of the cabinet.

In commenting on the financial drive President Ralph D. Hetzel said, "I am greatly interested in the plans which are being inaugurated for extending the financial support of the student body in behalf of the program of the Penn State Christian association. I believe we can count upon the hearty participation of all those who believe with us in this vital force on our campus."

"Thinking students who have faith in a well rounded program of education will lend support to this organization which belongs to the students themselves. I recommend to every student this opportunity to share in the work of the Penn State Christian association."

Elizabeth M. Kalb, '33 heads the annual financial drive of the Y. W. C. A. which began yesterday and will continue until Friday. Women students will be solicited personally and in a room-to-room canvass.

303 GRADUATES ENROLL FOR ADVANCED COURSES

Figures Show 30% Increase Over First Semester of 1930-31

With 303 students registered, the Graduate School has an increase of 30 percent over the number enrolled last year at this time. In the nine years of its existence, the school has nearly tripled its enrollment, 107 students having registered for the first semester in 1922-23.

"The figures speak for themselves," said Dean Frank D. Kern. "Although the numbers in the Graduate School here cannot compare with those in many other institutions where advanced work has been going on for many years, the great increase is self-evident of Penn State's growth and development."

PARENTS ORGANIZE LOAN FUND TO AID STUDENTS IN NEED

Association Establishes Reserve At Annual Meeting Here Saturday Morning

MRS. HALLER ELECTED HEAD FOR COMING YEAR

Group Will Collect Membership Fee of $1 as Method for Obtaining Money

Needy students will be aided by a loan fund established at the annual business meeting of the Penn State association of parents Saturday morning.

Junior and senior men and women students who are in need of funds to finish their courses will be eligible for the loans. The repayment of the loans will be made after the graduation of the student, although the time to be allowed the students to pay back their loans will be decided at a later date.

First Promoted Bond Issue The loan fund was established, Mrs. Frank W. Haller, newly elected president of the association said, to provide an incentive for the parents of Penn State students to become members of the Parents association as well as for helping a worthy cause.

The fees for each member of the association are $1.00 a year, and it is from these fees that the loan fund will be established. When the association of parents was first organized, it had its original incentive in the promotion of the 1928 bond issue. At this time the members of the association totaled 1,500. Although the membership has dropped during the last few years, it is hoped that with the providing of an incentive the parents will again support the movement.

Officers Named The yearly expenses of the association of parents does not exceed $500 and with the establishment of the loan funds, all in excess of this amount would be put to that purpose, Mrs. Haller said. The expenses of the association consist of the publication of the Parents Bulletin, and the salary of a part-time stenographer.

Officers named at the meeting on Saturday, besides Mrs. Haller as president, were M. E. Musser, vice-president, and Prof. J. Orvis Keller of the engineering extension department, secretary-treasurer for another term.

$250,000 EXPENDED LAST YEAR FOR COLLEGE MAINTENANCE

Approximately $250,000 was required to maintain the physical plant of the College during the last fiscal year, according to George W. Ebert, superintendent of the department of Grounds and Buildings.

Heating, lighting, and general maintenance were the principal expenses of upkeep. The figure does not include special projects inaugurated during the year.

'UNITED STATES MUST DELIVER WORLD FROM DEPRESSION,' SAYS PAN AMERICAN DELEGATE

"The United States must take the lead in the world's recovery from the economic depression," Prof. Jose A. de Lavalle, of Peru, member of the group of delegates to the Pan American Commercial conference who visited State College Saturday and Sunday, said in an interview to the COLLEGIAN.

The group of fifty prominent business men from South America are conducting a tour of important industrial cities in the United States, following the week's conference in Washington, D. C., which came to a close Tuesday. They were enroute to Pittsburgh when they stopped here.

"The diversity and scope of United States business makes it of prime importance to world business conditions," Professor Lavalle said. "For instance, my home country, Peru, is suffering greatly from diminished buying power in the United States. Peru is an exporting nation and must have a market for its produce."

The United States is the only country in America that has attained world prominence, the Peruvian leader said. England rivals this country in her influence on the world's commerce, and her action in affecting money from the gold standard has changed many nations, he added.

"I have been in your country only three times. Since my last visit, ten years ago, I have noted much progress," Professor Lavalle said. "I am particularly pleased to find that a better understanding and knowledge of Pan American affairs is held by your people now than during my last visit."

Students Will Stage Rally Thursday Night

In an effort to add spirit to the Lion gridmen before they entrain for Syracuse early Friday morning, members of the student body will gather in Schwab auditorium at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

HETZEL APPOINTED COUNCIL CHAIRMAN

150 Leading Citizens To Receive Positions on Non-partisan Welfare Board

Appointment of Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel as chairman of the Greater Pennsylvania Council will be announced by Governor Gifford Pinchot tomorrow, it was revealed in a Philadelphia newspaper Sunday.

President Hetzel signified yesterday that he would accept the appointment. One hundred and fifty members will be named to the Council which is to be non-partisan. Leading citizens of the State are expected to join Dr. Hetzel in this public service, the paper noted.

The Council, for whose work the past legislature appropriated $250,000, will study the economic, educational, civic, and recreational welfare of the State, Governor Pinchot announced Dr. Charles Reitzel, of Pittsburgh, is director of the Council and has been at work at the project for the past nine months.

To Promote Better State "The object of the Council is to apply scientific thought to the problems that face the State," Dr. Hetzel said. "The Council will investigate production and industrial problems, gathering figures and recommendations and publishing them for the people of the State."

An executive committee will be appointed by the Council to carry out the policies decided upon by the entire group. Other commissions will be appointed from time to time to conduct specific research. "Well-known scientists as well as leaders in industry and the professions will be asked to serve on this group whose aim is to promote a State more scientifically managed and better understood in all its aspects," Dr. Hetzel said.

FORMER RESEARCH PHYSICIST TO CONSTRUCT WIND TUNNEL

As part of an extensive aeronautical research program to be conducted in the physics laboratories this year, Dr. Merit Scott, former Guggenheim research physicist, hopes to construct here, if funds are available to finance the project, a wind tunnel in which tests may be undertaken and data secured with regard to air flow and turbulence.

A recent invention of Dr. Scott's, the "ice overshoe" has proved a big success in preventing a great deal of ice formation on aircraft. It will be marketed after further development in the laboratories of an eastern commercial concern.

ENGINEER TAKES EDITORIAL AWARD

Committee Gives Publication Third Place, Honorable Mention For Student Work

The Penn State Engineer was awarded third place for quality of editorials during the past year and honorable mention for student articles by the committee on awards at the annual convention of Engineering College Magazines Association held here from Thursday to Saturday.

Oregon State College was the only member periodical of the twenty-three in the association that did not send a representative to the convention. Over sixty-five delegates attended The University of Cincinnati and the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, who petitioned for membership, were placed on probation until they have attained the standards of the society.

Next year's convention will be held either at Kansas University, Manhattan, Kan., or at Iowa University, Iowa City. A committee will choose between the two locations. Robert Winfrey and Allan Stinson were re-elected vice chairman for the West and East respectively.

Mr. Leonard Church of the McGraw-Hill Publishing company pointed out the assets of college publication work in developing qualities of leadership as the principal speaker at the dinner in the Nittany Lion Inn Friday night.

Lions Meet Lehigh in Benefit Game Nov. 28

Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Chosen as Site For Charity Football Contest Saturday During Thanksgiving Vacation

Lion gridmen will meet Lehigh for the benefit of the unemployed in a post season game at Franklin Field in Philadelphia on November 28, the Saturday following Thanksgiving, President Hetzel announced yesterday.

The game comes as an answer to Owen D. Young's recent appeal to the nation's colleges for aid in unemployment relief. Net proceeds of the game will be divided between the two institutions and will be disbursed by their respective presidents.

Immediately following Mr. Young's appeal, President Hetzel opened negotiations with Lehigh and Penn officials. Since Penn does not play November 28 but will contribute its share toward the relief program in a tournament in New York city December 29, President Thomas S. Gates and Penn athletic officials immediately and unreservedly donated the use of Franklin Field, Penn's stadium.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE ANNUAL RECEPTION

Will Receive Faculty Members, Executives in Old Main Thursday Night

With 1,100 members of the faculty and permanent staff of the College invited, President and Mrs. Ralph D. Hetzel will hold a reception in Old Main from 8:30 until 11 o'clock Thursday night.

Members of the Board of Trustees, along with Dr. and Mrs. Hetzel, will greet guests in the second floor lounge of the building. Several members of the Board have already signified their intention of being here, while word is expected from others that they will attend the function.

To Open All Offices The first floor lounge will be turned over to dancing for which an orchestra has been provided. Refreshments will be served at the sandwich shop in the basement of the building.

The entire building will be open for inspection by the guests. For this reason, the administration has asked that students refrain from using Old Main during the reception. Having used Old Main successfully for the purpose of reception at the combination house-warming and reception last year, College officials felt that this location would be the most satisfactory to everyone as a place in which the annual function might be held, Adrian O. Moss, executive secretary, said.

CHAPEL AUDIENCE HEARS VAN ETTEN

Pittsburgh Pastor Says Force of Education Would Eliminate Unwilling Students

"Forces of education would prefer to eliminate all unwilling students, and in home, and only retain those who are busy, awake, and eager for knowledge," Dr. Edwin J. Van ETTEN, pastor of the Calvary Episcopal church of Pittsburgh, told Dad's Day chapelgoers Sunday morning.

"If we could conduct our educational system on such a basis, one year's study of a subject in this way would equal a four-year required course of the same thing," he added. Speaking at Penn State for the fourth time in the past four years, Dr. Van ETTEN said that all institutions, churches, and governments are looking not only for those people who simply profess their willingness but also for those who show their ability and are able to go through the drudgery of learning and discipline.

"In any vocation of the spirit, a man's soul will need the ability to choose shrewdly and a voluntary and consecrating spirit that is willing to discipline itself to some point of efficiency," he concluded.
