

76 BOXERS ENTER TOURNAMENT HERE

New Hampshire contestant and Scott of South Carolina, are entered in the 118-pound class in addition to Thomas, of Yale, Pugh, West Virginia, and Houchens, from Loyola College of Baltimore.

Eleven men are entered in the 126-pound division with Minard, of Florida, Boerner, Bucknell, Weltheimer, Syracuse, and Goldstein, of the University of Virginia, outstanding by virtue of past and present titles won in sectional tournaments. Cleveland, doughty Cadet, Tarorno, Columbus University, Vougtasas of Cornell, Breese of Kansas State, Baisford of the University of South Carolina, and Dearborn of New Hampshire, are additional contestants.

Champions Register

In the 136-pound division, Hagen, Army, Dill, of Bucknell, Kerk, of Carnegie Tech, Ketchum, Harvard, captain, Gomez of Kansas State, and Glaze, Louisiana State University boxer, are registered. Watta, South Carolina boxer who holds the Southern Conference championship, Neely of West Virginia, Taylor from Washington State College, and Cannell, Springfield boxer who has an undefeated record for the past three years, are also entered.

Carr, of Carnegie Tech, and Moore, Duquesne boxer who was defeated by the Tartan for the Eastern Conference title will come here to fight in the 147-pound division as Al Lewis, Eastern Interscholastic champion, seeks further honors. Dolgeno, of Yale, Kisman, Bucknell, and Hines, of Harvard, are additional aspirants. Gallo, West Virginia, Jahnke, North Dakota, Osborne, Washington and Jefferson, Freyer, Georgia Tech, and Prisk, Washington State College boxer who is Pacific coast champion, complete the entry list thus far.

Heavyweights Listed

With fifteen boxers competing, the middleweight division is the most crowded of the tourney weights. Four collegiate district champions are entered in Page, Mississippi, Schrecker, Pitt, Moran, Syracuse, and Buckner of San Francisco University. Pete Undergrove will represent the Lions as Payne competes for West Virginia. Hubb for Yale, DeBuys for Tulane, and Beeson for Loyola University of the South. Payne of Catholic University, Cramer, Cornell, Dvorak, North Dakota State College, Moody, New Hampshire, Kutcher, Temple, and Eldred, of Washington State, are additional registrants.

Hawkins, West Virginia, Demedovitz of Washington and Jefferson, and Wageman of New Hampshire, are captains who will compete in the 175-pound division. Frank Nobel will be the Penn State entry as Columbus University places Murman, Tulane enters Zemurray, MIT, Collins, and Cornell, Goldblat Balash, Syracuse star freshman, Waldron, Carnegie Tech boxer, and Lokensgard, from Washington State, will also make a bid for the title.

Wolbert, Penn State freshman, will be entered against Wallulis of Washington State, Rutherford, Princeton, and Pincura, Western Maryland Gentry, Virginia, Hill, Tulane, Smith, Stanford, and Remus, Army, are all present or erstwhile champions entered in the heavyweight division.

Students Observe April Fools' Day By Perpetrating Customary Pranks

Candy containing string, rubber bands, or other inedible material; cigars and cigarettes that explode after a few puffs, and fake telephone calls feigning urgent messages are only a few of the pranks Penn State students with a sense of humor may be expected to perpetrate today in their celebration of All Fools' Day.

The thoughtless but mischief-loving freshman who gets his fraternity brothers out of bed with a cry of "Fire!" at 5 a. m., or who gives his roommate an ice water bath after the latter is dressed to go to class, may expect punishment at the hands of his victims, if the past is any precedent. Castigation may also be the lot of the youth who puts salt in the coffee at his boarding house, particularly if the drinkers are especially addicted to the beverage.

All Fools' Day has been traced back by some authorities to the Hilaria, a festival of the ancient Romans celebrated from March 15 to 25. Persons of all classes played tricks on one another and participated in the general fun-making.

Survivals of the old holiday are found in several European countries. In France the victim is known as a poisson d'avril, or April fish. The Scot prankster sends his friend to hunt the gowk, or cuckoo.

The innocent one, usually the village simpleton, is given a letter to deliver to a friend a mile or two away. The latter opens the missive and finds a rhyme to the effect that

*This is the first of April,
So hunt the gowk another mile.*

He keeps the secret, seals up the letter, and gravely tells the victim he must take the note on to another individual. This recipient repeats the procedure, and so it goes until the messenger realizes that he is "hunting the gowk."

HELME TO DISCUSS DRAWING IN ENGINEERING TALK TODAY

Speaking on "The Art of Drawing," Prof. James B. Helme of the department of architecture, will deliver the regular engineering lecture in Chemistry amphitheatre at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon.

The development of drawing or art from its beginning to the present time will be the theme of Professor Helme's discussion.

PIKE DISCONTINUES LECTURES

Dr. Horace V. Pike, psychiatrist and lecturer of the Danville State hospital, will not conduct his annual series of talks at Penn State this year, it was announced recently by Prof. Alvis L. Rhoton, of the School of Education. Dr. Pike has lectured here annually for the past eight years.

Red Flannels and Bed Warmers have gone . . .

TIME WAS when the winter season brought out the old red flannels, the bed warmers—and a switch from fresh, crisp foods to hot, heavy dishes.

We've said good-bye to flannels and warming pans—thanks to modern steam-heated homes, closed cars and well-heated schools. However, a lot of folks still think that cool weather makes it necessary, to eat heavy foods.

But a change is taking place here, too. More people every day are enjoying crisp, ready-to-serve cereals like Kellogg's Corn Flakes. And what a delightful difference it makes! Meals as crisp as summer itself! Delicious and healthful.

Try Kellogg's tomorrow for breakfast. Enjoy them with milk or cream and sliced bananas. Splendid for a bedtime snack. These crunchy flakes are so easy to digest they encourage restful sleep.

Get your favorite eating place to brighten the menu with Kellogg's.
