

LION BASEBALL NINE OPENS 1932 SEASON HERE TOMORROW

Sidelines

Steve Hamas '29 started east from San Pedro, seaport of Los Angeles, Sunday on the S. S. Virginia to re-open his campaign in the professional heavyweight circle. In his company are his wife, Manager Charles Harvey, his brother Mike, another former Lion athlete, and Tom Heaney and Andy Mitchell, heavyweight ringmen. Steve's next bout is a return match with Tommy Loughran at Convention Hall in Philadelphia, Wednesday night, May 11. The former light heavyweight champion was knocked out in the second round by Hamas last winter.

After the tournament Saturday night, Ike Deeter, Washington State College boxing coach, said that the ring sport was on the decline on the Coast, but, if managed like the affair last week, it would soon revive.

Six of the eight boxers crowned N. C. A. A. champions held conference titles previous to competing in the Olympic try-outs. Flynn, 160-pounder of Loyola of the South, and Wageman, light heavyweight of New Hampshire, were the two who did not have titles before Friday. Ten of the sixteen reaching the finals were association champs, while nineteen were originally entered. Of the twelve freshmen entries, none survived the semi-finals.

Goldstein of Virginia, new N. C. A. A. 137-pound title-holder, is also golden gloves champion in his class. His brother, Ruby, of New York, was widely known in pro ranks as a lightweight boxer.

Al Lewis lost no time after receiving his ribbon Saturday night to get four copies of the COLLEGIAN extra edition to send to his grandmother. An ardent supporter of Al, she sat anxiously awaiting news of the final bout by Western Union Saturday night. The copies will be used by her in a scrap-book she keeps which gives an accurate account of everything the Lion welterweight has done in the ring.

Tony Balash, Syracuse freshman heavyweight, who lost to Zemurray of Tulane here, is half-brother of Steve Halaiko, who won second place for the United States in the lightweight division during the 1928 Olympics.

Lloyd Jordan, head basketball and assistant football mentor of Colgate, has accepted a position as head football and basketball coach at Amherst College. Under the tutelage of Jordan, the Colgate quintet twice defeated the Lions and Syracuse to win the triangular association championship this year.

OPPOSES JUNIATA ON BEAVER FIELD

Game Inaugurates Penn State's 67th Campaign, Second Under Bedenk

Defeated by Old Man Weather in their attempt to open the 1932 season against St. Francis College here Saturday, the Nittany Lion batsmen, baseball champions of the triangular association, will make another attempt tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 with Juniata College furnishing opposition on the Beaver Field diamond.

Tomorrow's contest will inaugurate the sixty-seventh diamond season for Penn State and the second under the coaching of Joe Bedenk. Last year's nine captured eight out of ten starts, defeating both triangular association opponents, Colgate, and Syracuse, to gain the association title.

To Oppose Veteran Team

The Lion batsmen will be seeking a bit of revenge against Juniata for the 2-10-4 defeat suffered at the hands of the Huntington nine two years ago. Opening their series in 1914, the two institutions have met twelve times as diamond opponents, the Lions winning seven and losing four. One of two contests in 1925 ended in a 4-to-4 deadlock.

Numbering seven veterans in their lineup, the visitors will have a decided edge over Bedenk's nine in the matter of experience. A veteran battery composed of Blough and Petty, and LaPorte, second baseman, Gracey, shortstop, Hartley, third base, and Hummel, outfielder, are certain to be in the starting lineup against the Nittany Lions.

Marsh May Play

LaPorte, Gracey, Hartley, and Petty were members of the 1930 Juniata team which turned back the Lion tilters as was Blough, who allowed only six hits in the triumph. The Huntington collegians will be opening their season with the fray tomorrow.

Little change is expected in the lineup as announced by Bedenk for the St. Francis game although Pepper Marsh may be ready to start at first base by tomorrow. The sophomore reported for practice late last week after being out with an injured hand and will be used if his hand is in shape.

Brewster and Swan continue to be the most likely starting battery combination with Winn and Meade in reserve. All three will be used sometime during the contest, Bedenk indicated last night.

With Marsh at first base, Walus, Lohr and Smith will complete the infield quartet and Captain Hoopes, Moonves and Kasesak will fill the three outfield berths. Moonves will take first in the event that Marsh is unable to play with Lockard or Edwards replacing the veteran in center field.

1100 Men Compete in Winter Program of Intramural Sports

Nearly 1100 men will have taken part in winter intramural sports by the time the last, volleyball, is finished, according to totals compiled by Charles W. Rice '32, intramural athletics manager.

The sport that attracted the largest number was basketball, under the management of Robert H. Beatty '32, which had 480 participants. The Penn State Ramblers, non-fraternity unit, won the tourney. Wrestling contestants numbered 260, and the contests were managed by James B. Goyne '33. Another non-fraternity unit, B. T. U., was the winner.

There were 124 men in the boxing tournament, which was under the management of John A. Wood '33. Delta Theta Sigma and Phi Kappa Sigma were tied for first honors. Sixty men are taking part in the handball tournament, under the management of Arthur E. Phillips '33, which is still in progress. The final play-off is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, at which time medals or a cup will be awarded to the winners. Manager Harry A. Hopkinson '33 estimates that about 160 men will have taken part in the volleyball competition.

'32 BASEBALL SCHEDULE TENTATIVELY ARRANGED

Freshman Card Shows 3 Encounters At Home, Single Tilt Away

With four games definitely secured, a tentative schedule has been arranged for the 1932 baseball team, according to Mathew McNeary, jr '32, manager of the freshmen batsmen.

Three home games and one encounter away are included on the tentative card. Opening the season with Bellefonte Academy here May 7, the yearlings will meet Cook Academy here May 21, play a return game with Bellefonte Academy at Bellefonte on May 27, and encounter Wyoming Seminary here May 30.

Negotiations are being carried on for a fifth game to complete the schedule. Candidates for the yearling nine were called yesterday by Coach Leo Houck.

CALLS McMINN OUTSTANDING

Les Gage, College Humor sports editor, considers Ed McMinn one of the outstanding guards in the east this year. Syracuse and Bucknell players selected Ed on their all-opponents team. Penn State opponents who were mentioned in College Humor included Acropolis of Colgate, Lawry of Pitt, and Klemperer of Penn.

STICKMEN PREPARE FOR OPENING GAME

Paul Trains Lacrosse Squad in Daily Practice—To Face St. John's Here

With over a hundred candidates working out daily on New Beaver Field, Coach Elmer Paul is rapidly moulding into shape a Lion lacrosse twelve capable of meeting the strong St. John's team for the season's opener here next Saturday, April 23.

Flaunting an impressive record that includes the national collegiate title for the last two years and the North American championship in 1931, the St. John's twelve will offer the Lions plenty to worry about. Although suffering a decided loss through graduation, the Annapolis team has already annexed its two opening games this season.

Center Berths Open

In half-field scrimmages held last week, Crooke and Weber appeared as likely candidates for home position on the Lion team. Gwynn, last year's regular goalie, will probably be used at the same position this year.

Coach Paul has shifted Jake Edel, who held down the center berth last season, to the attack, while Killeen and Marty Hesch are making strong bids for places at defense. Cleve stickwork is making Antonson another outstanding contender for a home position.

Although center field berths are wide open to anyone as far as Coach Paul is concerned, the lacrosse mentor is relying on several sophomores developing into varsity material.

5 TEAMS ELIMINATED FROM I. M. VOLLEYBALL TOURNAY

Five teams were eliminated Wednesday night from among the twenty-one entered in the volleyball tourney. Finals will be placed either Thursday or Monday night, according to Manager Harry A. Hopkinson '33.

Lasich Considered As Head Coach for Waynesburg Team

George T. "Judy" Lasich, 1931 football captain, is being mentioned by Western Pennsylvania newspaper as a leading candidate for the position of head football coach at Waynesburg College since the resignation of Frank N. Wolf '29, who succeeds James M. Miller '11 as director of athletics at Waynesburg. Wolf will continue as basketball and track coach, while Miller will come here for graduate work.

Lasich admitted Sunday that he is a candidate for the position, adding that should he be named for the job, he would return here for graduate work during the second semester next year.

TRACKMEN TRAIN FOR PENN RELAYS

Cartmell Seeks New Aspirants To Fill Places Vacated By 6 Graduates

With the Penn Relays and the dual track season fast approaching, Coach Nate Cartmell faces the prospect of filling positions in his track squad left vacant by the graduation of six letter winners last year.

Although he has not yet picked the teams entering the Penn Relays in Philadelphia, Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30, the track mentor probably will choose runners for the quarter-mile relay, the half-mile relay, the medley sprint relay, and the two-mile relay this week. He is not planning on entering a four-mile relay team.

Weak in Broad Jump

Prospects for the dual meets include Dale and Aldrich as sprinters, and Gutsavage, Nebel, Baird, Rhodes, of last year's freshman team. Half-milers who will likely see service in the meets are Dunaway, Rishel, Hughes, Band Sesky and Space, Glassburn, King, England, Greeniger and Van Cise are looked to as probable point winners in the mile events.

The Lion track coach will depend on Hill, Jackson, and Byers in the high hurdles, and Hill, Jackson, and Van Keuten in the low hurdles. Sigel and Adams will probably put the shot and throw the discs. Edwards is the only outstanding candidate in hammer throwing. Cartmell looks to Sigel, Snyder and Adams to gain points for the Lions in the javelin hurling.

Hammond, O'Shea, and Strayland are expected to form a strong combination in high jumping, while broad jumping is probably the weakest part of his squad, with the loss of McDowell by graduation last year. Likely pole vaulters are Greenleaf, Kershner, and May.

Lion runners failed to place in the Penn Relays last year, and Cartmell is rather pessimistic about their chances this year, competing against such teams, as that headed by Coan and McNitt of Penn, and Harvard's runners, led by the brilliant Hallowell. Penn State trackmen last won a title in these relays, when a four-mile relay team led by "Bill" Cox captured the championship in 1929.
