SENSE OF LIFE ATTRIBUTED TO AMERICANS BY SOUPALT

"The American people are equipped with a sense of life. They see things in a flash, perceive every sensation and impression from without, and react instantly. That's the attribute of youth and power. That's the attribute of America."

This was how Monsieur Philippe Soupault, French author and lecturer who will return as a member of the French Institute faculty for the 1932 Summer Session, characterized America as he acknowledged his designation as winner of the $1,000 Strassburger prize in New York last week.

The award, established in 1928 by Ralph B. Strassburger, Pennsylvania newspaper publisher, is given for the best series of articles published in French newspapers tending "to maintain and fortify the cordial relations existing between France and the United States." It was awarded to Monsieur Soupault for a series of articles published in Le Petit Parisien, L'Europe Nouvelle, and Le Figaro during 1931 and 1932.

Monsieur Soupault sees the "sense of life" as a characteristic of the French people also, and says that this makes it easier for French and Americans to understand one another. He discounts the statements by travelers who accuse Americans of being mercenary.

"Some travelers in America," he said, "see only the buildings and the machines, and the autocrats and the steel. Hence they conclude that the American mind has but a single aim—to make money. I feel that this is not true. The American mind is logical, but not exclusively mercenary."

Monsieur Soupault attended Sorbonne University and began writing at seventeen. He has had a wide experience as a staff writer on numerous Paris journals, and in addition to lecturing at Penn State, has lectured at the universities of Berlin, Leipzig, Prague, and Brussels. He is the author of a number of volumes of poetry and criticism as well as several novels.

Crime Statistics Here Revealed in Report of Police

"Crime at State College last year was restricted to a number lower than that of any college town its size in the State, according to the annual police report released for publication recently by Albert E. Yougel, Chief of Police.

Of the 653 arrests made in 1931 only 119 were of a character coming under State jurisdiction, such as assault and battery, larceny, and the like. Most of the cases resulted from violations of borough ordinances and traffic laws. College students, who form fifty percent of the town's population, constituted 114 or 17 percent of the arrests.

"Because of the cooperation offered the local police by its close association with the student body through the student police force, lawlessness at State College is kept at a minimum," declared Chief Yougel. "The police department depends on the student body for information leading to arrests, and I want to thank the students, as a whole, for their great help in reporting the possession of liquor and calling to our attention agents defrauding the students," he concluded.

NET MATCH WITH DICKINSON CANCELED BY LION TEAM

Lion netmen's fourth match on the 1932 card was cancelled when the match scheduled with Dickinson Saturday afternoon was called off due to a shower which left the Varsity hall courts too muddy for play.

Wet weather was also responsible for the cancellation of the match which was to have been played with Franklin and Marshall here Thursday.

LINKSMEN DEFEAT ARMY TEAM, 5-TO-1

Golfers Display Greatest Form in Beating Cadets for Third Straight Victory

Coach Bob Rutherford's linksmen shot their greatest brand of golf so far this season to overwhelm Army, 5-to-1, for their third straight victory in the first match away from home, Saturday.

With the Cadets playing brilliantly down to the last few holes in every match, the Lions were forced to turn in an average score of a little over 72 to win three and tie one of the four singles matches.

The gallery was treated to one of the greatest contests ever witnessed on the Storm King Golf course, when Bill Nacios tied the amateur course record with a par 70 to barely nose out Meals of Army who shot a 71. This is the second par score turned in by Nacios in collegiate competition this season.

Captain Freddy Brand had less trouble in defeating Young, the Cadet number one man, shooting a 71 score to win with four up and three to go. Chick Musser beat out Smith, Army, two and one, while Bud Sicles held Cadet Mather to a tie with a 74. Brand and Nacios won in the best ball doubles play four and one. The second double, match was not completed, each pair receiving one-half point.

DO YOU INHALE?

Certainly...

7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly... the other 3 inhale unknowingly

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten smokers know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this much-avoided subject... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.
