Over 2800 Register In Summer Session Up Until Yesterday

Hoffman Reveals New Figure for Week's Student Total

MEN REACH 50-50 RATIO TO WOMEN FIRST TIME

1932 Total May Equal That of Last Year Before End, Official Explains

More than 2,800 students had registered for Summer Session study up until noon yesterday, according to figures drawn up by William S. Hoffman, College Registrar.

Wednesday's total may be compared to the record high first day registration of last year, when 3,031 students enrolled to establish a new peak. Gross registration last summer reached 3,640, including short-period students who enter throughout Summer Session. This latter group may swell the 1932 total to equal last summer's.

Wednesday's total may be compared to the record high first day registration of last year, when 3,031 students enrolled to establish a new peak. Gross registration last summer reached 3,640, including short-period students who enter throughout Summer Session. This latter group may swell the 1932 total to equal last summer's.

Perhaps the most unique feature of this week's enrollment is the unusual ratio of men to women students," Mr. Hoffman said. "This year there is approximately one man for every woman student, whereas in the past ratios ranged about one man to four or five women."

The Registrar explained that he knew of only one other school in Pennsylvania, Susquehanna University, that recorded more men than women students in their summer session.

Until Wednesday noon graduate registrants totalled approximately 625, or fourteen more than last year's figure. More than one hundred new graduate students are included in this gross.

The number of registrants announced by Mr. Hoffman is exclusive of the 224 students who attended the two-weeks intersession which closed last Saturday. It equally excludes the registration figures from Summer Session branches at Altoona and Harrisburg, and from the Nature Study Camp.

Three additional "parts" of the College's summer program—the Geology camp at New Paris, the Civil Engineering camp at Kellysburg, and the Forestry camp at Mont Alto—also are not included. Totals from these three points are 8, 35, and 68 respectively.

In seeking an explanation for the gain in men students this year, Mr. Hoffman suspects an increase in the number of regular "accessions," who are attending Summer Session. He stated that last year 632 winter students took summer work, but said that this summer's figure could not be established until next fall.

O'LEARY TO OPEN TALKS ON VOCATIONAL THEMES

N. J. Educator Will Discuss Vocations In 315 M. I. Building

With "Problems of Vocational Education in Relation to Unemployment" as his title, Wesley A. O'Leary will present a lecture to Summer Session students in Room 315 Mineral Industries building at 7 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. O'Leary, assistant commissioner of education in charge of vocational education, State department of public instruction in Trenton, N. J., is scheduled to open the first of a series of weekly lectures pertaining to vocational education.

As president of the American Vocational association, the speaker is a recognized leader in the vocational education field. Prior to his present position he was director of vocational education in Essex county, N. J., where an outstanding program in vocational education has been developed.

MAZZES DIES IN SCRANTON
Jack Mazzes, member of last year's basketball team who completed his studies in the pre-medical school course in 1931, died last week following an operation in his home town, Scranton, a bulletin received here discloses.

REGISTRAR W. S. HOFFMAN

92 ENROLLED IN FRENCH INSTITUTE

Registrants Paralleling Record Of Last Year Plan for Program July 14

With ninety-two students, an enrollment equivalent to last year's record high, the French Institute in Varsity hall is virtually a French colony in the heart of State College.

Pledged to exclusive use of French, the students have given up English out of the classroom as well as in Nothing but French is spoken during meals or on excursions or picnics.

Dr. Ernst in Charge

For Thursday, the French colony under the direction of Dr. Frederick Ernst of New York University, will present a program in Varsity hall at 4 o'clock commemorating the fall of the Bastille. This day in France corresponds to the American Fourth of July.

Included in the day's program is the showing of a moving picture entitled "Le Million" which will be presented at 4 o'clock at the local theatre. After a special dinner the program will be continued by piano selections played by William Beckwith, a prominent organist from New York City.

The military attaché from the French Embassy's home in Washington, D. C., will speak.

"Antosmetis," is the title of a short play that will be presented in the evening by members of the French Institute, while violin selections are included. In addition a dress competition portraying French novels, poems, or drama is planned and prizes will be awarded to the most original costumes.

Sightseeing Flights Over Town Excite Varied Comments From Passengers

"Why, I never knew the campus was so large," and "It's even prettier from the air," were two of the most frequent comments, interspersed with "oh's" and "ah's," expressed by the first feminine Summer Session passengers to take sightseeing flights at the State College-Air Depot, just outside of Boalsburg.

"I wasn't a bit frightened, but May was," another one stoutly maintained after she and her friend had come down from a flight together. "I wanted the pilot to do some stunts," still another chirped. She was disappointed, however, as Sherman Lutz, licensed pilot at the field, put caution above a few momentary thrills.

WIFE OF GOVERNOR WILL LECTURE ON SEA TRIP TUESDAY

Mrs. Cornelia Pinchot To Talk On 'A South Sea Voyage,' In Schwab Auditorium

MAJ. COULSON LISTED AS THURSDAY SPEAKER

Author of 'Mata Hari' Cited by British for Work Against Spies During War

Continuing the visiting lecturers' series, Mrs. Cornelia B. Pinchot, wife of Governor Pinchot, will address Summer Session students and faculty in Schwab auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night and Major Thomas Coulson of the British Military Intelligence is scheduled to appear at 7 o'clock in the Auditorium on Thursday night.

"A South Sea Voyage," is the title of Mrs. Pinchot's lecture. The talk will include motion pictures taken by the Pinchots several years ago when they made a voyage through the South Seas.

Story Is Tragic

Author of "Mata Hari," the biography of a notorious German woman spy, Major Coulson will present a talk on the subject "Famous Women Spies." Three times decorated by his government for his services in counter-espionage, the Major has served many years with the British Military Intelligence.

Human ingenuity seemed to exhaust its resources in the subtle manoeuvres adopted by the horde of spies that was released at the outbreak of hostilities in the late war. Matchless their brains against the enemy, the counter-espionage agents of all combatant countries wove a closely-spun veil to ensnare the spy who made a single false step. Major Coulson frankly describes success and failure on this sinister front. His story lacks the horror of battle scenes, but it is rich in comedy, as thrilling as a romance, and poignantly tragic.

Served in 3 Wars

No more astounding gallery of female portraits could be painted than those drawn from the women spies employed during the war. The terrible Mlle. Doktor, fascinating Mata Hari, tragic Marussia Destilles, the courtly Emma Stober, scantly Louise DeBellegues, and the old Tschelchely, leave one gasping with amazement at the courage, the resources, and the devotion of these women who played the greatest game for the highest stakes. Some of these spies have their stories told for the first time and in narrating them, Coulson tells the story without embellishment.

The British Major has served through three wars. First in Tripoli, later in the Balkans, and later in the World War. He stated the motive, "I make war. The last experience, the Major decided, was satisfying."

REYBITZ '32 DIES FROM FALL

Ted Reybitz, member of this year's wrestling team who was graduated last month, died last week as the result of injuries to his spine received in an accidental fall near his home in Allentown, according to word received here.

DUMONT WILL PRESENT LECTURE AT 3 O'CLOCK

Romance Language Head Will Talk In Home Economics Building

Opening the first of a series of resident faculty lectures, Dr. Francis M. Dumont, head of the department of romance languages, will speak on "Cyrano de Bergerac," in Room 110 Home Economics building at 3 o'clock today.

Other members of the College faculty who will present Friday afternoon lectures are Prof. Arthur C. Cloetingh of dramatics, Dr. Carl W. Hasok, head of the department of economics and sociology, and Prof. William S. Dye jr. of English literature.

The remaining two College faculty members who are scheduled to give Friday afternoon talks include Prof. George J. Warril of German, and Prof. William L. Wagoner of English literature. Since the last day of the 1932 Summer Session falls on Friday, August 12, Professor Wagoner's lecture will be moved up to Wednesday, August 10.

President Named To Education Committee

DR. RALPH D. HETZEL

President Ralph D. Hetzel and seven faculty members have been named to aid in the study of education in the State by Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction. A complete survey of the school situation in the State is being made preparatory to outlining a ten-year program through which the education given Pennsylvania boys and girls may be improved.

Dean Will Grant Chambers of the Education School, Dr. Arthur S. Hurrell, head of education extension, Prof. Carroll D. Champlin, education, Prof. Harry G. Parkinson, agricultural education, Prof. Frederick P. Weaver, agricultural economics, Prof. Palmer C. Weaver, assistant director of the Summer Session, and Prof. Clarence O. Williams of the extension service will serve with President Hetzel in this work.

75 TRY OUT FOR SUMMER PLAYERS

Group Named From Which Cast Of 'Arms and the Man' Will Be Selected.

Seventy-five students reported at try-outs held this week for Summer Session Players, dramatic organization. Casts were selected for the two plays to be presented by the society this summer.

The Players will stage "Saturday's Children" on July 28 and "Arms and the Man" August 6. Both shows are under the supervision of Prof. Arthur C. Cloetingh, of the dramatics department.

To Design Scenery

The cast for "Arms and the Man" will be selected from a group made up of Janette Burns, Alfedda Scoby, Kathryn Smith, and Massis Epstein, Hetzel, Herman, Jackson, Moore, and Page. These students were singled out during Tuesday's try-outs.

Prof. Darrel Larson, of Franklin and Marshall College, will have charge of the production of this play. The first play, for which the cast is not definite, will be directed by Mr. H. D. Dukes Albright, of Cornell University. Scenery for both productions will be designed by Mrs. Donthea Sillman, of the New York School of Applied Art.

TRAVELING PUPPETS WILL PRESENT TWO SHOWS TOMORROW

Tatterman Marionettes To Stage 'Legend of the Lightning,' 'Stringing Broadway'

AUDITORIUM HOURS SET AS 4 AND 8:15 O'CLOCK

First Presentation Founded on Primitive Indians—Second Play Is Huge Satire

William Duncan and Edward Mabry will bring their Tatterman Marionettes to State College tomorrow for an afternoon and a night performance in Schwab auditorium.

The troupe, in its second annual visit to Penn State, will present "The Legend of the Lightning" at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and the second installment of its "Stringing Broadway" at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night. The first edition of "Stringing Broadway" was one of the Marionettes' features here last year.

Story Laid in Acoma

"The Legend of the Lightning" is based on the folk tales of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico. Requiring three years of preparation, this show is by far the hardest ever attempted with these puppets. A huge sky dome, the first ever devised for a touring Marionette production, will be employed in order to suggest the great distances and the beauty of the desert sky.

The story is laid in Acoma, the oldest town on the American continent. Long before the coming of the Spaniards in the sixteenth century, the Indians believed that all the lightning was shut up in a box, and jealously guarded by the Thunder-Being. This belief provides a basis for the tale.

Satirizes Politicians

In preparing "Stringing Broadway," the producers have adhered perhaps more closely than any of their contemporaries to ancient traditions of the Marionette theatre. European theatres have for centuries rated the puppet show as their "enfant terrible," for it indulges with impunity the politics, fashions, and celebrities of the day. "Stringing Broadway" is founded on such satire.

The second edition, while entirely new, follows much the line of the first. It pokes good-natured fun at many of the prominent figures in contemporary political circles, as well as theatrical and literary. Here and there a song or short play, interspersed with music, dancing, and the chorus of "glorified girls" is presented.

LAZARON IS FIRST VESPER SPEAKER

Baltimore Rabbi Will Speak in Schwab Auditorium at 8 O'Clock Sunday

Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron of the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation will open the Sunday night vesper service series in Schwab auditorium at 7 o'clock Sunday night.

The speaker is well known at Penn State. He has appeared at Summer Session vesper services for the past six years, and in addition, addresses chapels regularly during academic terms.

Receiving his bachelor's degree from the University of Cincinnati, the Rabbi matriculated at Hebrew Union College, where he secured his master's degree. His first pulpit was at Wheeling, W. Va., from which he went to his present post at Baltimore.

Rabbi Lazaron served on the Jewish Welfare Board during the World War, under which position he directed the work at Camp Mead in New Jersey.

ERNST IS AGAIN DIRECTOR

Dr. Frederick Ernst, professor of French at New York University, is serving his fourth summer as Director of the French Institute at the Summer Session. Before Dr. Ernst came here four summers ago, only thirty-eight had registered in one term for the French Institute, while this year's registration is equivalent to that of last year, ninety-two.

To Welcome Student Body With Reception, Dancing at 8 O'Clock

Opening of Social Calendar Scheduled for Recreation Hall—Summer Session Faculty Plan Function

To afford Summer Session students an opportunity of becoming better acquainted, a reception sponsored by the College will be held in Recreation hall at 8 o'clock tonight. Following the reception, there will be dancing from 9 until 12 o'clock.

All Summer Session students and members of the faculty are cordially invited to attend the affairs, which will serve to open the social calendar during the summer, Dr. Frank H. Koos, professor of education and administration and assistant director of correspondence instruction of the School of Education, and chairman of the committee in charge, has announced. The event is planned solely for the purpose of having Summer Session students become better acquainted with each other, and to give them an opportunity to meet the heads and staff members of the faculty.

EXCURSION LEAVES AT 1:30 TOMORROW

First Summer Tour Will Embark From Auditorium on Trip to Penn's Cave, Hatchery

The first Summer Session excursion will leave from in front of Schwab auditorium at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Tickets may be purchased at the Student Union desk in Old Main until noon today.

Tomorrow's tour will have as its destination Penn's Cave and the State fish hatchery near Bellefonte. The trip will be under the tutelage of Prof. William R. White, director of excursions.

Penn's Cave is a natural water tunnel beneath the ground. The trip through the cave will be by boat and will culminate at a lake where the water passage ends. The fish hatchery is one of a State-wide system of fish aquaria, where the finny denizens are propagated for use in bait-streams.

60-Foot Fire Tower

In addition to the regular series of Summer Session excursions, mountain tours will be conducted each night, according to Professor White. The director will be available for other trips at the front of Carnegie library from 7:15 to 8:15 o'clock and from 12:15 to 12:30 o'clock daily except Saturday.

Next Saturday's excursion will be to Bald Eagle mountain, the first range north of State College. Friday night will be the deadline for registration at the Student Union desk. A sixty-foot steel fire tower stands at the peak of Bald Eagle mountain.
