PRESIDENT LAUDS PEP RALLY PLAN, CUSTOMS REVISION

Hetzl Praises Mature Student
Attitude in Speech at
Mass Meeting

PROGRESS DEPENDS ON UNITY, WARNOCK SAYS

Coach Higgins Explains Policy
Of Players, Introduces
12 Team Members

Replacement of Stunt Night by the pep rally and modification of freshman customs were lauded by President Ralph D. Hetzel, who spoke informally to 3,000 students and faculty members at the all-College mass meeting in Recreation Hall Wednesday night.

Progress toward a mature attitude on the part of college students is nowhere more marked than at Penn State, the President said. He praised the Penn State athletic policy as promoting honest sportsmanship.

Warnock Addresses Meeting
Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock, who spoke before the President, pointed out that the breaking up of the student body into small units tended to destroy Penn State spirit.

"One method is to come together on such occasions like this in order to see how many of us there are and what we look like," the dean added. "If we are to keep Penn State progressive we must have one eye on ourselves and the other on the designs, policies, and programs of the College and its units."

Wood '33 Presides
Coach Bob Higgins explained that Penn State's football team was playing for two reasons: first, the love of the game; second, the honor of playing for Penn State. Twelve team members, who left for Harvard yesterday afternoon, were introduced on the platform by Coach Higgins.

STUDENT TRIBUNAL JUDGES VIOLATORS

6 Freshmen Must Wear Signs for 2
Weeks—McAndrews '33 Asks
Student Cooperation

Punishment was meted out to six freshman customs offenders at the first meeting of the Student Tribunal in Old Main Tuesday night.

Paul Kennedy and James Bray were sentenced to wear signs bearing the words "I Talk Too Much" for a period of two weeks. James Conahan will traverse the campus bearing large cards with the slogan "I Like Customs" on them. Albert Foster will advertise with "I Like The Co-eds" signs. Lewis Vignola will also carry posters for two weeks, while George Cope received punishment before the Tribunal members Tuesday night.

Upperclass students who attended the meeting voiced their disapproval of freshman smoking in public. The question will be placed before members of the Student Council and Student Board. After a decision is reached, the Tribunal will act accordingly.

ACTIVITY PARTICIPANTS EXCEL IN SCHOLARSHIP

Only 7 of 29 Groups Obtain Average Below
1.33, All-College Mark Last Year,
Compilation Reveals

Evidence that activity men and women surpass non-activity students scholastically is shown by a compilation of the individual grade lists made this week. Practically all of the important activity groups maintained an average scholastic grade above the all-College mark of 1.33 for two semesters last year.

Since most of the activity men and women were above the 1.33 mark, it follows that most of those who engaged in no activity last year were below it. Only seven of the twenty-nine activity units analyzed had group averages lower than 1.33.

Men debaters last year averaged the highest of any group, attaining a 2.28 collective grade, while the women's vocal quartet followed with a 2.08 mark. The two lowest activity groups on the list were the 1935 Druids, sophomore athletes' society, with .72, and initiates into Parmis Nous, upperclass campus society, with 1.01.

The four women's junior class officers secured a 2.07 mark, and the Old Main Bell staff topped the other publications with 2.02. This year's Cwens, sophomore women's campus society, made a 1.91 collective average, and were followed closely by the now active Lion's Paw, senior campus society, with 1.90.

Three widely-different activity groups came next in close succession. The 1935 women's class officers averaged 1.87; last year's P. S. C. A. officers secured a 1.86 mark; and the 1933 Archonai, senior women's campus society, reached 1.85.

This year's 1933 women's class officers averaged 1.74, while the present COLLEGIAN staff secured the second highest group average among the publications with 1.73. Men's senior class officers for this year lead the other men's political groups with 1.71.

Members of the Penn State Players last year, including those who took leads in productions, averaged 1.67.

I. F. C. TO SPONSOR DISPLAY CONTEST

Continuing a custom inaugurated last year, Interfraternity council will sponsor a house decoration contest for Alumni Homecoming week end, it was announced Wednesday by Herbert E. Longenecker '33, president of the council.

Fraternities entering the contest will decorate their lawns with novel football displays following the plan in vogue at mid-western universities at homecoming time. A silver loving cup will be presented to the winning house.

DELEGATES OF Y. W. C. A. WILL MEET TOMORROW

More rigid entrance requirements which raise the level of successive freshman classes was given as the reason for the 1.40 all-College average last semester, by William S. Hoffman, College registrar. This is the highest the all-College mark has ever been.

'Collegian' To Give Grid Game Returns

To provide students who do not go to Cambridge for the game tomorrow, with an opportunity to follow the Lions in their test against Harvard, the COLLEGIAN will furnish a short play by play detail of the game at the end of each quarter.

STATE LIBRARIANS WILL MEET TODAY

200 Delegates Hear Dr. Hasek
Present Opening Speech
At Dinner Session

With an address by Dr. Carl W. Hasek, head of the department of economics and sociology, as the feature of the meeting, more than two hundred librarians attended the opening dinner session of the Pennsylvania Library association convention last night.

Speaking on the subject, "The Challenge of the Times," Dr. Hasek declared the present depression is evidence of a conflict between the highly technical system of production and the individualistic system of economy, in his address last night. The depression is a challenge to the nation, he contended.

Hetzl Welcomes Delegates
Social insurance, re-organization of taxation and better financial control are three solutions to the problem offered by Dr. Hasek. The delegates were welcomed by President Ralph D. Hetzel at the opening of the dinner session yesterday.

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of the State department of public instruction, will address the convention at a luncheon session at the Nittany Lion tomorrow noon. The interrelation of work in school and public libraries will be the general topic for discussion by the delegates at this meeting.

A report of the library school conducted during Summer School this year will be given by Willard P. Lewis, College librarian, this morning. The convention will close with a dinner meeting at the Nittany Lion tomorrow night.

Nittany Lion Gridmen Leave for Harvard Contest---Will Oppose Strong Crimson Foe Tomorrow

Harvard Writer Predicts Crimson Victory, 35-to-6

Believes Victims of Waynesburg Debacle Hold
No Threat for Casey's Uninjured,
Untried Grid Eleven

Harvard is expecting a fairly easy victory over the light aggregation of Penn State this Saturday. A prediction of a 35-to-6 score would strike a happy medium of the general Harvard opinion as to the outcome of the game.

One reason for expecting an easy Crimson victory is the fact that Coach Eddie Casey has not yet had his first string in the games for much more than one period, and even then the rest of the squad has been able to pile up a large margin of victory.

With its magnificent first line still untouched by injury, Harvard should be able to break up most of the plays of the Nittany Lions, and if the veteran halfback, Crickard is in form, the visitors will find plenty of difficulty protecting their own goal line.

Casey has apparently started off his second year as varsity coach with a first team fully as good as last year's. Taking the end positions first, we find Captain Carl Hageman and Tommy Nazro, both lettermen with a year of varsity experience behind them, and unquestionably as good a pair of ends as any coach could desire.

In the two tackle berths are Irad Hardy, All-American last year, and Malcolm Baneroff, six-foot-five captain-elect of crew, and a player with two years of varsity experience behind him.

COMPANY PRESIDENTS MEET TO DISCUSS REFINING PLANS

Over sixty presidents of the leading refineries in Pennsylvania along with members of their technical staffs attended a meeting of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association at the Nittany Lion Wednesday.

Professor Merrill R. Fenske of the chemical engineering department, and Professor W. B. McCluer, petroleum research assistant, reported on the progress of the work being carried on at the College, which consists of identifying the properties of Pennsylvania lubricants.

Higgins Takes Squad Of 27 Players on Cambridge Trip

BLUE AND WHITE TEAM.
LIGHTER THAN OPPONENT

'Big Three' Eleven Favored in Battle—Lohr To Start
At Halfback Post

Encouraged by the cheers of more than three thousand students who gathered in Recreation Hall Wednesday night for the all-College pep rally, Coach Bob Higgins and the Nittany Lion football squad of twenty-seven men left last night for Cambridge, Mass., for their scheduled meeting with Harvard University tomorrow afternoon.

Outweighed nineteen and one-half pounds to a man, crippled by injuries, and generally considered a "set-up" for the powerful Harvard eleven, the Nittany Lions will enter tomorrow's fray with the odds considerably against them. Harvard looks forward to a 35-to-6 triumph, sport writers throughout the East predict an easy win for the Crimson, and those are few in the Lion student body who will venture the hope of even a tie.

Nittany Morale High
None the less, Captain "Spike" Collins and his mates promise a battle that will make Harvard realize that it's a football game that is taking place on Soldiers' Field, rather than a simple signal drill. The morale of the Nittany squad hasn't dropped an iota since the start of the season, and the Lions aren't prepared to enter the game with heads drooping.

Seventeen linemen and ten backs were included in the Blue and White squad when it entrained at 6 o'clock last night. Captain Collins, Lohr, Skemp, Conn, Harper, Sigel, Long, Morrison, Wille and Wantshouse comprised the backfield section of the squad, while the linemen who made the trip were Slusser, Brewster, McKee, and Meredith, ends, Cole, Woolbert, Berry, Flood, and Park, tackles, Hesch, Kreizman, Kane, and Johnson, guards, and Zawacki, Anderson, and Rich, centers.

Slusser, Cole, Hesch, Zawacki, Kreizman, Woolbert, and Brewster are scheduled to start on the line for the Blue and White, and Captain Collins, Lohr, Harper, and Wantshouse or Skemp in the backfield. "Shorty"
