

Between the Lions with The Sports Editor

The assertion that a team can look worse in victory than in defeat was never proved more conclusively than on Saturday when the Lions, although they were successful in chalking up a victory over the well-intentioned but woefully weak Sewanee eleven, exhibited their poorest form of the season. It is fortunate that their letdown came against a team of Sewanee's calibre, for otherwise, victory, or even a good showing, could not have been attained. It is also fortunate that Sewanee's quarterback did not elect to pass more often, for the Lions' defense against aerial warfare seemed to crumble entirely; almost the only passes that Sewanee men missed were due to errors of direction rather than Lion intervention. The touchdown punch that was apparent in earlier games was, for the most part, lacking. In short, we feel the result of the game revealed no real strength on our part—rather, even less strength on the part of our Houseparty opponents.

Because the showing of the team, as a whole, was disappointing does not mean that brilliant individual performances were entirely lacking. The work of Mel Morrison, Harry Sigel, and Tommy Harper on the offense was almost spectacular, while those two hard-fighting ends, Slusser and Brewster, took care of the defensive end of the thing very competently, and Tommy also was placed in the prominent position of being the only Stater to catch a forward pass. Captain Collins' catch of a pass, this time thrown by a Purple back, and his beautiful run down the field is also deserving of one of the few bouquets available for distribution.

Although the play of the Lions Saturday was lethargic, we hold high hopes for their victory chances against Temple Saturday. We cannot help but feel that the deterioration of the team against Sewanee was temporary, whereas the retrogression of the Owls, which struck a new low when a badly battered bunch of Haskell Indians tied them 14-to-14 Friday night, is very possibly the outcome of a deadening process which strikes aggregations of Temple's type, nullifying any semblance of spirit and fight the team may have displayed early in the season. Temple is in for a very difficult Saturday afternoon (their first daylight game this season, incidentally) if the Lions recover and consistently display the form they flashed against Harvard and Syracuse. The Lions will be in for a glorious Saturday night if they end their season in a blaze of glory by toppling one of the few remaining undefeated elevens.

It is characteristic of Houseparty contests that cheering and spirit should vanish when distracting H. P. Q.'s are present, or was the very apparent lack of enthusiasm Saturday due to the dullness of the game and the unimportance of the opponent? That State rooting suffers at Houseparty games four years of observation has taught us, but we feel that the other reasons we mentioned were major causes for the crowd's lethargy. We shall have quite a bit to say about schedules at a later date, but we feel that Sewanee, small and comparatively unknown in the football firmament, was not the best choice of a Pennsylvania Day opponent. We'll grant that Houseparty time is no time to play a strong, traditional opponent, but there are many schools with whom keen, evenly-matched rivalries might be set up that would appeal more to natural interests of the student body, as a whole.

Our Opponents

- Lebanon Valley, 0—Springfield, 27
- The boys from Annville are weakening fast after some good early season work.
- Waynesburg, 13—Juniata, 12
- This was a close one but Rab Currie & Co. are still up among the undefeated and doing nicely, thank you.
- Harvard, 9—Army, 46
- The Crimson now refers to the color of John Harvard's cheeks.
- Syracuse, 27—Oglethorpe, 6
- The Orange also went intersectional Saturday with no bad effects for the Hill boys.
- Colgate, 32—Mississippi, 0
- The Lions didn't do it, and neither did the River eleven.
- Temple, 14—Haskell Indians, 14
- See paragraph above, and watch what happens Saturday.

This and That

Someone (possibly a Phi Kappa Tau) is responsible for the assertion that Saturday's game was a Merrill victory. . . . What that Sewanee "cheering section" may have lacked in numbers, it made up in enthusiasm. . . . We'd like to be around when Bob Higgins and his sister, Mrs. Sanger, hold a technical discussion. . . . while Charlie Spidel gets in a few words on girth control. . . . When you heard the boy friend say to the girl friend, "Sure, go on out; they'll let you in again" you might have known she had just asked why they didn't let that cunning Sewanee tackle carry the ball. . . . The COLLEGIAN award for the best performance between the halves still goes to the gentleman with the cane at the Waynesburg game. . . . although those Beta dates in the East stands Saturday run a close second. . . .

tioned on all four until it came time to use a passing offense, and then it stopped with a heavy jolt. Six of eight passes attempted went into visitors' hands and only one of the eight was successful.

Morrison, Sigel, Harper, Lohr, and Skemp led the ball carriers, and a pretty piece of work they did. The two sophomores, Morrison and Sigel, stood out in particular.

Slusser Stars

Tommy Slusser and Jesse Brewster, ends, and Cole, tackle, featured the line play for the Lions, the trio being responsible for a large part of the thirty-seven yards lost from scrimmage by the Southern Conference eleven. Slusser was on the receiving end of the one other successful forward pass, and intercepted another late in the fourth quarter.

Fain Cravens, a 150-pound speed-boy, and Joe Kellerman, quarterback, did most of the ball carrying for Sewanee. Captain Jack Morton and Nelson, an end who did all of the kicking, were the outstanding linemen for the visitors.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT I. M. GRID YARDAGE MONT ALTO, 33-TO-0 SYSTEM RETAINED

Walke Uses Entire Squad in Game Against Foresters—Cooper, O'Hara Score Twice

In what turned out to be just another practice scrimmage, the Nittany yearling grid machine amassed five touchdowns and a safety here Saturday when they pushed back a light but scrappy Mont Alto eleven by a 33-to-0 score.

Three of the Lion scores came in the final period of the game, O'Hara claiming two of these. Cooper ran over the goal line twice in the first quarter and Frazer secured the other last-minute score. The freshman gridgers annexed the safety in the opening minutes of play.

One of the prettiest plays of the game was a long forward pass from Maurer to O'Hara which eventually netted the Lions their first score. Only one of the five placement kicks for points after touchdowns were made good by the freshmen.

Coach Nels Walke used his entire squad during the game. Douglas and Orlando started at the end positions. Buczowski and Coppola at tackle berths, Esterly and McAndrews, guards, and O'Hara at center. Dyson, Frazer, Kilfoil, and Small officiated in the backfield for the first few minutes of the game.

I. M. GRID YARDAGE SYSTEM RETAINED

Team Making Greatest Gain From 20-Yard Line in 6 Downs Captures Contest

Having proved successful in settling touch football games deadlocked in a tie, the new system of awarding a victory on the basis of greater yardage gained will be continued, William H. Crown jr. '33, intramural touch football manager, has announced.

In explaining the tie-game ruling, the manager said, "At the end of a tie game each team will be given six downs from the twenty-yard line, and the side amassing a yardage advantage will be awarded a touchdown victory."

First round touch football contests scheduled for today include games between Theta Kappa Phi and Beta Sigma Rho at 4:15 o'clock, Alpha Sigma Phi and Sigma Phi at 6:30 o'clock, and Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Chi at 7:45 o'clock.

In games tomorrow Watts hall will meet Theta Xi at 4:15 o'clock, while Pi Kappa Phi will engage Phi Kappa at 6:30 o'clock. Kappa Sigma will play Phi Delta Theta at 7:45 o'clock.

SYRACUSE DOWNS LION BOOTERS, 2-1

Orange Victory Saturday Marks First Nittany Loss to New York Team

By BERNARD H. ROSENZWEIG '31

There's a time for breaking every record and Syracuse chose Saturday for administering the first defeat ever suffered by a Penn State soccer team at the hands of a New York State eleven, conquering the Nittany Lions here by the score of 2-to-1.

Opening up with a powerful attack Coach Bill Jeffrey's Lions scored the first goal early in the initial quarter after a swift passing exchange, Casterline making the kick into the net. The rest of the first half was marked by persistent though unsuccessful drives at the Orange goal by the Nittany forward wall.

At the start of the second half the contest settled into an even struggle, with Syracuse led by the all-American center forward, Johnny McEwan, repeatedly running the ball through the Nittany defensive wall. Holly, substituting at center halfback, deflected a swift pass from Signoretto, sending it out of the Lion goalie's reach for the first Orange tally.

McEwan Scores
A superbly executed corner kick by McEwan was too swift for the straining Lion goalie and with about five minutes to play Syracuse took the lead. The Orange played a purely defensive game for the remainder of the contest.

Repeatedly the Nittany booters advanced the ball into the shadow of the Syracuse goal with Captain Al Daykin moving up from center halfback to form the key of the attack. Eluding the Orange halfback wall Daykin twice passed to Edwards in scoring position, only to have the ball blocked by the much-pressed Syracusean, Weltman, at goal.

To the very end of the game, the veteran Nittany halfback combination, Daykin and Evans, kept continually feeding the ball to the Lion forward

Venerable Veneroso Varies Environment On College Gridirons

A slightly reminiscent smile should spread over the features of George Veneroso, giant Temple tackle, when he faces his Nittany Lion foes in the Lion-Owl tilt Saturday.

For George played football here in 1929. George, in fact, not only has played football here but has also been known to roam the gridirons of Pitt and George Washington before transferring his allegiance to the Cherry and White.

You'll find George listed as a "sophomore" when you thumb the pages of your program at the game Saturday. But it won't be a typographical error. For, George, like Peter Pan, never grows up!

line and on two corner kicks by Casterline the Lions seemed certain to score, only to be repulsed by the concentrated secondary defense of the Orangemen.

Chesterfields are Milder

Chesterfields Taste Better

You know how it is. If a cigarette is mild—that is, not harsh or bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you like it and don't worry about how many or how often you smoke. And if it tastes right—that is, not oversweet, not flat—then you enjoy it all the more.

The right kind of ripe, sweet Domestic and Turkish tobacco. . . the right ageing and blending. . . make Chesterfields milder, better-tasting. . . They Satisfy!
