H. LAMAR CROSBY SELECTED TO GIVE GRADUATION TALK

Hetzel Announces Speaker for This Year's Exercises in
Schwab Auditorium

FEBRUARY 3 CHOSEN AS
DATE OF ANNUAL EVENT

Pennsylvania University Dean
Called Authority on Greek
Epic, Private Life

Dean H. Lamar Crosby, head of the graduate school at the University of Pennsylvania, has been selected to give the address at the twentieth annual mid-year commencement exercises in Schwab auditorium on February 3, President Ralph D. Hetzel announced yesterday.

After graduating from the University of Texas, Dean Crosby received advanced degrees at Harvard University, later becoming an instructor in Greek at the University of Pennsylvania in 1905. For the next three years he held the post of professor of Greek at Missouri University.

Directed Summer Schools
During the college year, 1909-1910, Dean Crosby was Preceptor of Classes at Princeton, and the next year assumed the position of professor of Greek at the University of Pennsylvania. He has been connected with the University since that time, serving also as director of summer schools there from 1918 to 1925.

The speaker has held the position of dean of the graduate school since his appointment to the post in 1928. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, and Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity.

Contributed Articles
As a member of the Archaeological Institute, the Philological Association, and the Classical Association of the Atlantic States, the graduate school dean has contributed many articles to Classical Weekly and Classical Philology.

The commencement speaker is also co-author of an "Introduction to Greek." From his studies in the classical language and archaeological remains in Greece, he is recognized throughout the country as an authority on Greek epic, drama, and private life.

L. F. BRIDGE TOURNAMENT TO ENTER FINAL ROUNDS

Teams Will Finish Contest Before
Start of Christmas Recess

With the list of thirty-one contestants narrowed down to four, the semi-final and final rounds of the Interfraternity bridge tournament will be completed this week, according to Ralph B. Vance '34, manager of the tourney.

Phi Mu Delta fraternity will meet Sigma Nu in the upper bracket of the semi-final round, while Delta Sigma Phi and Delta Theta Sigma will meet in the other semi-final match. Winners of the two matches will oppose each other in the finals, which will be held before the beginning of the Christmas vacation Saturday noon.

Sigma Nu defeated Theta Upsilon Omega to advance to the semi-final round, while Phi Mu Delta was the victor over Kappa Sigma in its quarter-final match. Sigma Tau Phi bowed to Delta Theta Sigma and Delta Sigma Phi defeated Pi Kappa Phi in the lower bracket quarter-finals.

SHEDD RESIGNS PRESIDENCY

Because his duties as journalism lecturer here and as editor of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin were requiring most of his time, Fred Fuller Shedd resigned as president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors Saturday. Mr. Shedd will continue to serve as a member of the board of directors and as chairman of the joint committee on schools of journalism.

JUDGERS GET FIFTH PLACE

Penn State's fruit judging team placed fifth in the annual eastern intercollegiate fruit judging contest last Saturday at Morgantown, W. Va. Prof. Frank N. Fagan, coach of the team, announced last week.

5 APPENDICITIS CASES LISTED

Five cases of appendicitis among the students have been reported in the last three weeks, according to Dr. Joseph P. Ritehour, College physician.

Freshmen Will Elect Class Head Tonight

Freshman men will elect their class president from a list of four trial officers at a meeting in the Chemistry amphitheatre at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Daniel L. Backenstose, Paul W. Brubaker, Richard H. Maurer, and Chester W. Moore are the four candidates who received the highest number of votes at a meeting Friday. A check-up will be taken on all freshman present, and absence from the meeting will be a Tribunal offense.

PINCHOT APPOINTS ZOOK AS TRUSTEE

Bradford Man To Succeed Mrs.
Chalfant—Connected With
Petroleum Groups

Appointment of Ralph T. Zook, of Bradford, to the College Board of Trustees was announced last week by Governor Gifford Pinchot.

Mr. Zook will succeed Mrs. Edia S. Chalfant, of Wilkesburg, as one of the six members of the Board appointed by the Governor. Mrs. Chalfant's term expired this year.

Heads Petroleum Board

As chairman of the petroleum advisory board to the School of Mineral Industries, Mr. Zook has been connected with the College for the past four years. He was one of the initial members appointed to that group.

The new appointment adds an experienced petroleum producer to the Board of Trustees, Mr. Zook being president of the Sloan and Zook company of the Bradford oil field. He is also head of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association.

Mr. Zook was actively interested in the Oil and Gas conference held here last year in his capacity as president of the Crude Oil association. His term as College trustee will expire in 1935.

SOCIETY TO HOLD SONGFEST TONIGHT

Louise Homer Club Will Entertain
Musical Organizations in Old Main Lounge

Louise Homer club, women's honorary musical society, will entertain members of the student musical organizations and faculty at an old-time Christmas party in the second floor lounge of Old Main at 7 o'clock tonight.

The party will take the form of a "Kristmas Kaffeeklatch," which is an old German custom of gathering at the Yuletide season to sing carols, drink coffee, and munch Dutch bread. This is the first time that such an affair has been held here.

Members of the men's musical fraternities, men's symphony orchestra, Blue Band, men's and women's glee clubs, choir, and faculty will be guests of the club at the affair. Carol singing and musical numbers by women students will comprise the entertainment.

Frances Christine '34 will sing a contralto solo, and Marion G. Blankenship '36 will play a selection on the harp. Numbers by the women's vocal ensemble and the string quartet are also included on the program.

DEAN STEIDLE, PROFESSORS TO ATTEND M. I. MEETINGS

Dean Edward Steidle and four members of the School of Mineral Industries will attend meetings of the bituminous and natural gas advisory boards in Pittsburgh Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Alfred W. Gauger, director of mineral industries research, and Dean Steidle will attend both meetings, while Prof. Harry A. Northrup, director of extension, will either attend or submit a report. Prof. Chesley A. Bonine, head of the geology and oil and gas production department, and Prof. William R. Chesley, head of the mining department, will attend meetings of their respective boards.

PROFESSORS CONFER HERE

Prof. John A. McLean, former head of the animal husbandry department at the Massachusetts Agricultural College and the Agricultural College of British Columbia interviewed members of the animal and dairy husbandry departments of the College concerning the feeding of farm animals recently.

Former Report Contradicts Proposed Objectives Code

Student-Faculty Committee Stresses Social, Cultural, Civic Development as Aim of Penn State

By CHARLES A. MYERS '34

Penn State's raison d'être, as outlined by the deans of the Schools last week in their proposed code of objectives for the College, differs radically from that submitted by a student-faculty committee in its report last spring.

"To provide education for earning a living" is the No. 1 objective of Penn State training on the dean's list. In contrast, "the development of cultural, social, and civic abilities, and preparation for effective parental relations" stands first in the opinion of the student-faculty committee, which characterizes the present objectives as "too narrow."

Dr. Carl W. Hasek, head of the department of economics and sociology, was chairman of the student-faculty committee, which was composed of five other faculty members and six representative senior students. After four months of study, the committee submitted a report to President Ralph D. Hetzel and Dean Charles W. Stoddard, of the School of Liberal Arts.

Training for creative living should be the primary objective of Penn State education, if the College is to render her best service, the report of students and faculty of the College maintains. On the contrary, vocational training is the College's first purpose in instruction, the administrative heads say.

In addition, the dean's report maintains that the College "is an agent in the educational, social, and economic progress of the Commonwealth and of the nation" and lists as the second objective of the instructional program, "to improve the various industries and professions of the Commonwealth." The report also points out the obligation of the College to the State and nation which help to support it.

The student-faculty committee, in summarizing its findings, states, "The educational objectives of Penn State must be based upon the fundamental principle that education should lead each person to extend himself to his capacity in the interests of society as well as of self. Our present aims are primarily vocational, our education training each person to make a living rather than to live creatively as an integral part of society."

Scoring the present system of courses as containing subject matter unrelated to life as a whole, the student-faculty report points out that "as a result many students are graduated without adequate bases for a philosophy of living, without any particular interest or knowledge concerning the affairs of the Commonwealth, the nation, and the world, and with very little resource for spiritual and mental development."

"It is the direct responsibility of the College and of each faculty member, a responsibility which is not being successfully met today, to provide an educational program which contains these essential elements," the report continues.

Although vocational training, is not considered the primary purpose of the collegiate instruction here, the student-faculty group admits that "effective pursuit of a vocation" is one of the elements of genuine education. A different color is given to this element, however, when it is qualified by the statement, "... as a constructive leader or as utilizer of the

GERMAN SONG PROGRAM WILL FEATURE MEETING

Yuletide Singing, Address by Würfl
Scheduled for Thursday Night

Featuring a program of German Christmas songs, a Yuletide gathering for students and faculty members will be held in Schwab auditorium at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night under the auspices of the German department.

Two selections in German by the women's quartet have been planned as a feature of the program. A violin solo by Mrs. Gregory, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Charles E. Govier, has also been arranged.

Speaking on "Christmas Customs in Germany," Prof. George J. Würfl, of the department of German, will give a short talk. The meeting will be limited to a half an hour, according to Miss Lucretia V. T. Simmons, head of the department, who has charge of the arrangements.

BEZDEK TO GIVE ADDRESS

Director Hugo Bezdek, of the School of Physical Education, will address the Kiwanis football dinner at Nanticoke tomorrow night.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS SONGFEST PLANNED FOR STUDENT BODY

P.S.C.A. WILL FURNISH PRINTED MUSIC SHEETS

Director Grant To Lead Singing
With Choir of 100 Voices
Rendering Harmony

A long-standing Penn State custom will be continued when students gather on the plaza in front of Old Main at 9 o'clock Thursday night to join in singing Christmas carols.

The songfest will feature old carols well known to everyone, according to Nathaniel G. Acton '35, who is in charge of the program. Song sheets, on which are printed all the songs scheduled, will be furnished by the Penn State Christian association.

Grant To Lead Singing
As in former years, the program is under the auspices of the association and the department of music. Director Richard W. Grant, head of the department, will lead the mass singing, with the College choir of one hundred voices forming a vocal nucleus.

A trumpet quartet, composed of Paul W. Filer '33, John W. Burkholder '34, Emery E. May '34, and Claude E. Shappelle '34, will play an instrumental obligato as a background for the carols. The quartet will also play old Yuletide selections from Old Main tower.

Dr. Robert E. Dangler, head of the department of classical languages, will give a short talk on "A Christmas in old Provence." The committee in charge of the program has arranged for the installation of amplifiers so that the speech and explanatory remarks by Director Grant can be heard plainly.

To enable students to read the songs on the sheets more easily, the department of grounds and buildings will install floodlights, and will decorate the evergreens at both sides of the steps with vari-colored lights. In case of stormy weather, the annual affair will be held in the front lobby of Old Main, according to Acton.

CO-ED DEBATING TEAM OPENS SEASON TONIGHT

Ferree '33, Tulin '34 Engage Women
At William and Mary College

Sarah A. Ferree '33 and Gertrude Tulin '34 will open the co-ed debating season tonight when they meet a women's team from the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va. The Penn State women will support the affirmative of the proposition "Resolved, that all intergovernmental war debts, including reparations, should be cancelled." Clayton H. Schug, women's debating coach, is accompanying the team on the trip.

Milton I. Baldinger '33 and James W. Townsend '35 will oppose cancellation in a debate with a William and Mary men's team at Williamsburg Monday night. Only one debate has been scheduled on each of the trips.

Home Towns Listed in Directory Lead to Varied Mental Responses

Foreign places, mental and picturesque images, and ideal spots are among the varied pictures conjured by the names of home towns of Penn State students, a survey of the student directory shows.

Students from the following places are not paying out-of-state tuition because these towns are in Pennsylvania: Wyoming, California, Newfoundland, Corsica, Athens, Rome, Milan, Canton, Liverpool, Moscow, Berlin, Nazareth, and Bethlehem. Matter of fact or idealistic places are Freeland, Industry, Imperial, Universal, Republic, Fairchance, Power City, Noble, Liberty, Endeavor, Excelsior, Gravity, Midway, Emporium, Export, and Union.

Penn State men and women come from Lilly, Marion Center, Jeannette, Aloppo, Ulysses, Atlas, Cecil, Natlie, Elizabeth, Marietta, Alicia, Annville, Marysville, Jeansville, Port Matilda, Darling, and Billemever. The family friends is suggested by such names as Home, Homestead, Mountainhome, and Shingle House.

Leys, Green Castle, Barnstable, Hickory, Slippery Rock, Picture Rocks, and several other rocks. In addition, Angels, Plains, Meadowlands, Beaver Meadows, Mann's Choice, Plymouth, Meeting, Bird-in-Hand, White Deer, Red Lion, Quakertown, New Galilee, Pennsylvania Furnace, Warrior's Mark, Old Forge, Fort Fort, Roullette, Highspire, Snow Shoe, Lock No. 4, Driftwood, Strawberry Ridge, and Sugar Grove may be found.

Some students from the woods claim Rockwood, Maplewood, Forest City, West Grove, Breezezwood, Cherry Tree, and Blooming Glen as their home towns. Indian names are in the directory along with some unusual place names. These are Tunkhannock, Calicoon, Peach Bottom and Hop Bottom, Mehoopany, Meshoppen, Shick-shinny, Punxsutawney, Tamaqua, Wampum, Moosic, and Throop.

Penn State must have some swimmers from "Lake Ariel, Lake Como, Conneaut Lake, Erie, Atlantic,

1933 Lacrosse Team Reduced to 10 Men

Penn State will comply with the ruling of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse association at its meeting Sunday to reduce the number of players from twelve to ten, according to an announcement by Director Hugo Bezdek, of the School of Physical Education and Athletics, yesterday.

Since Penn State, as a member of the association, schedules only contests with other members, the logical move for the College is to comply with the changes, he said. Besides reducing the number of players, delegates to the national lacrosse convention, which was held in New York City, decided to shorten the playing area and permit the use of face masks.

EDDY TO LECTURE HERE NEXT MONTH

Prominent Speaker Will Discuss
International Problems
January 8, 9, 10

Sherwood Eddy, world traveler and lecturer, will return to the College after an absence of two years to conduct a series of meetings in Schwab auditorium on January 8, 9, and 10.

Sponsored by the Penn State Christian association, the talks will be a part of the Forum series. Although a definite program has not yet been arranged, Dr. Eddy will probably discuss a number of current international problems. He will also address the regular Sunday morning chapel audience that week-end.

Addressed Other Students

Since lecturing here, the speaker has traveled once again around the world to study social and religious problems in other countries. Recently, he has been addressing student meetings at colleges and universities in the United States.

Dr. Eddy is the author of many books. His more recent publications include "The World's Danger Zone" and "The Challenge of the East." He also wrote "The Challenge of Russia," "Sex and Youth," "Religion and Social Justice," and "The Awakening of India."

The speaker was graduated from Yale University in 1891 and received his master's degree from the same institution several years later. He has received honorary degrees from universities in China, India, and the United States. For many years the lecturer was associated with the Y. M. C. A. movement in China, Japan, India, and other countries in the Far East.

FOSA TO READ IN FIRESIDE SESSION

Selections From Italian Literature
Will Feature Program of
Wednesday Group

Prof. Joseph W. Fosa, of the romance language department, will read from current Italian literature at the weekly Fireside Reading in lower lounge of Old Main at 4:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Translations will be read from the prose and poetry of the last quarter century of Italian literature, in which the manner of the writers is poetic and lyrical. Italian writers using this style are Pas, Tozzi, Vivanti, Marinetti, and Deledda.

Deledda won the Nobel Prize in 1927, and is the most familiar name in America. Marinetti is the originator of the fad of futuristic expression in poetry which spread from Italy to Russia and then to France. Beginning Wednesday, January 11, the second section of Fireside Readings will be held at 4:15 o'clock in the afternoon in the upper lounge of Old Main instead of the lower lounge.

Dr. Carl W. Hasek, head of the department of economics and sociology, will open the second series with "Readings from the Russian."

PROF. DUNCAN TO GIVE TALK

Dr. David C. Duncan, professor of physics, will deliver a non-technical lecture on "What Keeps the Sun Hot?" in the Chemistry annex at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. The program is being sponsored by Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity.

DISPENSARY TREATS 2,118

The College dispensary treated 2,118 patients during the month of November, according to Dr. Joseph P. Ritehour, College physician. Of 1,859 were men and 259 were women students. An average of 100 patients were treated daily.

PERMANENT LION FUND
PLANNED FOR STUDENTS

Committee Recommends Use of Personnel, Facilities in Aiding Conditions

Members of the College faculty will again give voluntary contributions for a general relief purposes this year as a result of the authorization of a second relief fund campaign by the Council of Administration of the College yesterday morning.

Two specific forms of relief are provided in this year's plans, with contributions being accepted for general relief in Pennsylvania, including relief in Centre county and College township, as well as for a student loan fund. Disbursing of funds received for general relief will be at the discretion of the committee in charge, the council ruled.

Establishment of a permanent faculty-student loan fund is included in the plans, and members of the teaching staff will be permitted to designate that all or part of their contributions be used for this purpose. In addition to contributions turned in this year, money received through the payment of loans to students from the 1931-32 relief fund will be placed in the permanent fund.

Contributions Voluntary

"Contributions will be purely voluntary without thought of any specific amount to be raised or subscribed, and without suggestion or inference that any member of the College staff is obligated in any way to contribute," said Dean Edward Steidle, of the School of Mineral Industries, who is acting as general chairman of the project.

Subscription cards accompanied by a letter of explanation will be mailed to members of the faculty this week, and contributions will be accepted until March 31, 1933, according to the Council report. Faculty members may make one complete payment on or before February 1, authorize the College treasurer to deduct the amount of their contributions from their salary checks on January 1 or February 1, or make equal monthly deductions over a period of three to four months.

$18,231.15 Given Last Year

A recommendation that the College utilize its personnel and facilities in rehabilitation studies and other measures tending to correct or prevent the recurrence of present conditions, was also made by the Council. Such corrective or preventative measures constitute an activity of more permanence than money contributions for direct relief, the Council pointed out.

Last year's faculty contributions for relief amounted to $18,231.15 with 957 members taking part in the project. A total of $5,267.16 of this amount was turned over to the student loan fund at the direction of the contributors, and the balance was disbursed through recognized relief agencies serving small communities throughout the State.

Dr. David C. Duncan, of the School of Chemistry and Physics, heads the executive committee directing the project. Additional members are Wes W. Dunlap, of the department of public information, Prof. R. Adams Dutcher, of the School of Agriculture, Edward K. Hibbsman, alumni secretary, Prof. Julius E. Kaufuss, of the School of Engineering, W. J. Mills, of the comptroller's office, Prof. Sheldon C. Tanner, of the School of Liberal Arts, and Dean Steidle.

2 CO-EDS ELECTED TO W. A. A.

Olive D. Morris '36 was named by the Women's Athletic association board as its second freshman member at a meeting last week, while Margaret E. Oeschman was elected to the board by the freshman class. Bernice H. Jarek '34 was chosen basketball manager for the junior class, Kathryn M. Hertzler '35 for the sophomores, and Jane A. Roope '36 for the freshmen.

LIBRARIAN GROUPS RARITIES

Cataloging of autographed books, first editions, and other valuable pieces of manuscript into a special "Treasure Collection" has been started by Willard F. Lewis, College librarian. A separate room will be available for these books in the proposed new library building.
