Under the risk of again being charged with the high crime of unduoptimism, we're willing to ventur the opinion that Penn State is goin places on the basketball court this scason.

We'll concede right now that that 43-to-24 victory over a woefully weak Susquehanna quintet Wednesday night wasn't overly impressive. - But underneath the rough edges apparent in this first encounter was, we believe, a wealth of power, especially on the offense, which should give us an edge in court victories this season for the first time in years.

The Susquehanna game Wednesday night which ended 43-to-24 in favor of the Lions, turned out to be nothing more than a chance for Spike to give his charges a final onceover. And they looked end However the Grunder they are the conditions of the charges and they were the Crunder they looked end However the Grunder they are the charges as final onceover.

And now, cautious but hopeful, the who starred on the Quaker freshman club last year, Penn expects big things of its 1933 five. To get to the point, Penn Palestra. It's been years since if the Lions intend to shove the Red Lions have their eyes trained on the Penn has bowed to the Blue and White. But then-well, remember that victory over Pitt last March?

In the midst of all the acclaim and honor Temple University is receiving for having ponied up a new record high salary for a football coach, the comments of Mr. Daley in the New York Herald-Tribune, printed elsewhere in this issue, strike a new and sensible note. It is refreshing to know that the fight for de-emphasis in intercollegiate football is not being fought in the colleges alone.

Temple, incidentally, is quite disgusted with the tendency of "major" opponents to double-green and the colleges alone.

Aside from their grammatical errors, we're inclined to agree with the Cherry and White scribes. Major opponents do have a habit of playing the game a different way. So maybe, the best thing for the Owls to do is to stay in their own class. Ever if Mr. Warner does regard his job as an improvement

Finish '32 Season With .520 Figure Nineteen thirty-two will go down Nineteen thirty-two will go down in Penn State's athletic history as "just another year" if the yearly average of the twelve Lion varsity teams means anything. The Nittany teams harely managed to break even, gaining a total percentage of .520, a figure slightly under the 1931 mark of 541.

Penn State emerged on the long en of the score in thirty-nine contests and howed to opposing teams thirty-five times. Only one tie was registered in varsity competition during the year. Cross-country is the only sport which boasted an undefeated season.

Wrestling, boxing, and baseball turned in the next best records in the major sports, while golf stood at the top of the list of minor athletic activtities. The grapplers obtained four victories and a tie, losing only one contest during the season. The mitmen garnered a total of five victories and dropped only two dual contests in addition to placing second in the Eastern Intercollegiate meet.

On the diamond, Penn State's 1932 record shows nine wins against four losses on the wrong side of the ledger. Although breaking even, the Lion soccer mark of three wins and three defeats is the lowest average turned in by Penn State booters in years.

"I NEVER READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS"

You know this person. He thinks he is telling the truth. But quiz him and he will recite the make of his motor-car, his hat, his shirt, his suit, his shoes, his tooth-paste, his towels, ad infinitum . . . with the accent on the "ad." In other words, they are all advertised products.

Why, he could no more escape the presence and the power of the printed word than he could evade eating or sleeping. The advertisements are a definite part of contemporary American life. Their messages are vital to daily existence. They have a definite association with the pocketbook, than which there is nothing more intimate and personal.

The important thing is not merely to "read the advertisements," but to read all of them. The one advertisement you "didn't see" may contain information you would have given a great deal to possess. Certainly, it is as important to you to know that Smiths are having a sale of sheets or shirts, as to read that Congress will hold a special session!
