HONORARY COUNCIL PLANS CHANGES IN MEDAL AWARDING

Will Give Scholastic Prizes to Deserving Seniors Under
Proposed System

SOPHOMORES, FRESHMEN
NOW PRESENTED HONORS

Committee Seeks Recognition
Of Students With High
4-Year Standing

Changes in awarding of Honor Society Council medals were formulated at a meeting of a committee appointed by the Honor Society Council Wednesday afternoon, and will be acted upon before the end of this semester, Benjamin L. Wise '33, chairman of the committee has announced.

By the new plan honor medals will be awarded to deserving seniors, instead of to freshmen and sophomores as has been the program in the past. Presentation of these medals will take place on Scholarship Day in May.

Cause for Change Cited

"We believe that senior students who have high averages for the four years and who do not receive scholarships or fellowships should receive some recognition for their work during the four years of college," Wise stated in commenting on the proposed plan. "The Honor Society Council proposes to present such seniors with medals in recognition of their scholarship ability," he said.

Under the present system the Council presents medals to thirty students of high scholarship average in the freshman and sophomore classes. Selection of students receiving awards are made by the Honor Society Council together with the Senate Committee on Academic Standards.

Committee Listed

"When the Honor Society Council was formed to award honor medals to freshmen and sophomores, there was no other recognition for students of high scholastic ability in those two classes," the committee chairman said. "But, since the advent of scholastic honorary fraternities for those groups, sufficient reward for good scholarship is granted," he added.

Eddy Predicts 'Death of Capitalism, Dawn of New Era' in Lecture Series

Capitalism is doomed! A new day is in store for the masses! But before the brighter day—dark days, darker than the present generation can possibly realize!

Flinging this prophecy to the audience that heard his concluding lecture Tuesday night, Sherwood Eddy attempted to open the eyes of his hearers to a realization of the great change and social movement now taking place in the world.

"Greater than the Renaissance, more profound than the Renaissance, and of far greater importance than either the French, American, or Industrial revolution, is the social change which the world is now undergoing. And, in a quieter tone, the internationalist also said, "Here, unfortunately, in your secluded educational retreat at this College, most of you fail to take cognizance of this new movement. You don't think of these things."

From Sunday morning, until Tuesday night, Dr. Eddy has been talking at the College with one purpose in view—to show that the world must adjust itself, and that people must learn to live creatively by use of religion. Starting off with "The World Situation" as a foundation for his message, he discussed "Why Religion?" and "How Can Religion Be Made Useful?" at following meetings. "Revolution? That all depends on

10 Percent Appropriation Cut Recommended by Gov. Pinchot

President Hetzel's Statement

It is evident from the Governor's budget that The Pennsylvania State College will be called upon to share in the enforced economies which this depression has put upon the State. I have repeatedly stated that the College stood ready to accept its fair share in any necessary and constructive program of public economy, and consequently, this proposal of a reduction in State appropriation is not unexpected. The amount recommended in the Governor's budget for the biennium 1933-35 is ten percent less than was appropriated to the College for general maintenance for the current biennium. The College has been experiencing other shrinkage in income for the last two years, but all of this we have tried to anticipate by most searching studies of organization, instruction and research for the purpose of determining upon ways and means for meeting these decreases without devastating effect upon the vital elements of the College program. While the picture is not yet clear, I hope that we shall be successful in maintaining the essentials of our program and the high quality of our service.

Proposed Budget Plan Will Give College $3,708,000

$292,000 SLASHED FROM
TENTATIVE 1933-35 FUND

Hetzel Says Penn State Ready
To Accept Fair Share in Economy Program

Slashing governmental expenses throughout the State organization, Governor Gifford Pinchot's budget message to the General Assembly Tuesday recommended a $292,000 reduction from the College appropriation, leaving $3,708,000 for the general maintenance of the institution for the 1933-35 biennium.

If passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor as submitted to the Assembly, the ten percent cut from the College expenditures will necessitate an extension of the economies program instituted here.

Desirous of co-operating with the State in the present financial stress, President Ralph D. Hetzel in a formal statement said, "The College stands ready to accept its fair share in any necessary and constructive program of public economy."

Economies Instituted Here

President Hetzel did not indicate to what extent the present economies, instituted in the College maintenance program because of a shrinkage in income during the last two years, would be increased. The degree to which the program will be curtailed, will also depend upon the other sources of income for the College, he declared.

Following the policy as set down by the President, the Senate last week approved recommendations to the Board of Trustees for the first great curtailment of the College program, when it passed on a report calling for the elimination of eight of the present seventy-one curricula.

Governor Praises Schools

In his budget message to the General Assembly Governor Pinchot paid tribute to the four State-subsidized universities for their initiative in eliminating duplication of instruction among themselves to further the establishment of a policy of higher education in the State.

This attempt of the higher educational institutions to co-operate with the State during the present financial depression the Governor termed as, "a service of real value to the Commonwealth and deserving of recognition as such."

The change was recommended by the Senate committee on student welfare which pointed out that the women students are required to be in the dormitories and their own houses by 10:30 and 1 o'clock. The committee's recommendation that these hours apply only during the regular session and that there be no dating in the fraternities over vacation periods was also approved by the council.
