1933 SOCIAL WHIRL TO OPEN TONIGHT WITH SENIOR BALL

Emerson Gill Will Furnish Music
For Annual Dance Event
In Recreation Hall

GOOD ANNOUNCES TICKET SALES AT TREASURERS'

Old Promenade Superseded by
Novelty—Smilax, Palms
Decorate Floor

Opening the 1933 social whirl, seniors will dance to the music of Emerson Gill and his orchestra at Senior Ball in Recreation hall from 9 o'clock until 2 o'clock tonight.

Tickets for the function will be on sale at three dollars plus thirty cents tax at the Treasurer's office in Old Main today, John H. Good, chairman of the dance committee, has announced. Programs will be given out with the tickets.

Novelty Planned

A novelty to be announced at the affair tonight will replace the old promenade for seniors, a feature of dances in the past. Catering service will be from a central stand on the dance floor, while fraternity booths and two non-fraternity booths will be situated under the balconies of Recreation hall.

The hall will be solidly decorated with a large crystal ball suspended from the center of the ceiling, while spotlights at each end of the hall will throw vari-colored lights on the dancing floor. Groups of palms and smilax will also be placed at intervals surrounding the dancing floor.

Singers Featured

Emerson Gill and his band will come here from Pittsburgh where he played at a dance for the Junior Women's club last night. Recently the orchestra completed an engagement at the Lotus Gardens in Cleveland. The Gill band was first organized on the Ohio State campus and has since had engagements at the largest hotels in the country and has broadcast from more than fifty radio stations.

A feature of the orchestra is the singing of Miss Marion Mann, Cleveland debutante, "Pinky" Hunter, and Frank Devo. This will mark the first time that a woman singer has been featured by an orchestra at a large dance here. The band also carries its own amplifying system.

Programs for the function will feature transparent celluloid covers backed by silver foil, the chairman has announced. Winning posters in the poster contest were submitted by Arthur B. Bernstein '33 and Allen Rothert '36.

Varsity Debaters To Meet Juniata

Baldinger, Heagney Will Represent
Penn State in Oregon Style
Contest Here Tonight

An affirmative team of Milton I. Baldinger '33 and Dan Heagney '33 will oppose the Juniata College debaters on the question, "Resolved, that all intergovernmental war debts should be cancelled," in the Little Theatre, Old Main, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The contest will be conducted as an Oregon style debate with the first speaker presenting the constructive arguments, and submitting to cross-examination. Heagney will conduct the affirmative cross-examination, and will summarize the constructive arguments. The decision will be determined by the audience.

Defending socialism against capitalism, Ernest C. Miller '34 and Angelo Berbatis '35 lost an audience decision debate to St. Francis College orators at Loretto Wednesday night. The vote was 109 to 90.

The Penn State orators will debate against the Dickinson College team at Carlisle next Friday night. Dual debates with Washington and Jefferson and Franklin and Marshall colleges are included in the schedule of debates for next month.

STEIDLE WILL READ PAPER

Discussing the "Basic Trends in Mineral Industries Education," Dean Edward Steidle, head of the Mineral Industries School, will read a paper before the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers convention at New York Wednesday morning. The convention will open Monday and hold its final session Thursday afternoon.

Local Organizations Plan Loan Fund Aid

In order to supplement the Student Loan fund the Cathaum Theatre will donate one-third of the returns from the Loan fund ticket sale, while the Stetson D store has announced that it will contribute five percent of its daily receipts to the fund.

Theatre ticket books will be on sale by fraternity representatives and at the Student Union desk in Old Main. The ticket sale began Wednesday and will continue until March.

DUMONT REPORTS TO A.A.U.P. GROUP

Summarizes Changing Condition
In College World Before
Faculty Chapter

"Colleges and universities have developed too fast within the last ten years. They have expanded departments too much, and the time has come when programs must be contracted," Dr. Francis M. Dumont, head of the department of romance languages, said, in summarizing a committee report of the national convention of the American Association of University Professors before the local chapter Wednesday night.

Dr. Dumont quoted a report to show that the United States pays a smaller percentage towards higher educational institutions than many countries of more limited finances. The local delegate to the convention also pointed out that no relation had ever been found between success in college teaching and courses in educational theory.

Lewis Addresses Group

Speaking on "New Library Developments," Willard P. Lewis, College librarian, presented tentative plans for the proposed new library. These include use of the ground now occupied by the Women's building, with the new structure facing on center drive.

"That campus sentiment is in favor of a new library is undeniable," Mr. Lewis said. "Complete plans are being drawn up for a new unit to accommodate 500,000 books, suitable for a college of 10,000 students, so that when the legislature is ready, we will be ready to start," he added.

Following a discussion of the effects of the possible deputizing of the campus patrolmen, the executive committee of the local chapter was requested to study and recommend action on the question of contemplated salary cuts among the College faculty.

MRS. DU BOIS TO TALK HERE

Mrs. Rachel Davis Du Bois, educator and author of a series of Assembly Programs on World-mindedness, will address members of local church student groups on the subject, "Youth and the International Mind," at the Friends Meeting House at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night.

BLANSHARD TO GIVE NEXT FORUM TALK HERE ON MARCH 14

"Technocracy Versus Socialism"
Announced as Subject of Reformer's Speech

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION WILL SPONSOR MEETING

Leader in Industrial Democracy
League Assisted Seabury
With Recent Case

Dr. Paul Blanshard, director of the City Affairs committee, a reform group of New York City, will again address a Penn State audience on Tuesday, March 14, as the next speaker of the Penn State Christian association's Forum series.

"Technocracy Versus Socialism" will be Dr. Blanshard's subject. When he spoke here last year his topic was "Racketeering, High and Low." The lecturer is known for the leading part he took in the recent civic investigation instigated by Judge Samuel Seabury of New York City.

Collaborated With Thomas
This lecture is the first feature of the Christian association program which is made possible partly through the success of the Lowell Thomas lecture last week. Financial returns from the Thomas lecture were enough to insure, to a much greater extent, the carrying out of the Forum program as originally planned at the beginning of the year, officials of the association said.

For several years, Dr. Blanshard has been connected with the League for Industrial Democracy of New York City. In addition to being the author of "The British Labor Movement" and "Labor in Southern Cotton Mills," the speaker recently published a book in collaboration with Norman Thomas called "What's the Matter With New York?" In 1928 and 1929 he was associate editor of the Nation, controversial magazine.

Other Lectures Planned
Dr. Blanshard studied at Michigan, Harvard, and Columbia universities. After serving as a labor union organizer and directing a labor college for several years, the reform director began lecturing in American colleges. He has studied social conditions in China, Japan, Russia, and Great Britain.

Since this is a feature of the regular Forum series, no admission will be charged. Negotiations are now being made by Christian association officials to bring several other nationally known speakers here before the end of the College year.

PROF. KELLER WILL SPEAK

Prof. J. Orvis Keller, head of the engineering extension department, will deliver the opening address of the Greater New York Safety conference at New York City on March 1.

Grid Team Will Meet Penn Eleven in 1934

First official confirmation of Nittany Lion football opponents for the 1934 season was made this week when Philadelphia newspapers announced that the University of Pennsylvania would meet Penn State in a football game at Philadelphia November 10, 1934.

The Lion gridgers will resume their series with Pennsylvania on November 18 this year after a lapse of four years in the traditional series. With the series beginning in 1890, this year's tilt will be the thirty-second between the two institutions, Pennsylvania holding a twenty-one to eight edge in victories with two of the games resulting in ties.

HETZEL APPROVES NEW SCHOLARSHIP PROPOSAL

Board of Trustees Must Sanction
Evan Pugh Honorary Award

The proposal of the Senate Committee on Academic Standards to designate Evan Pugh Scholars as recognition for high attainment by upperclassmen has received the sanction of President Ralph D. Hetzel. Before final adoption the proposal must receive the approval of the Board of Trustees.

Under the proposed plan the Evan Pugh scholarships will become one of the highest honors for undergraduates, and will be awarded to upperclassmen who do not receive other fellowships or scholarships. The Honor Society Council has voted to present medals to students receiving the Evan Pugh awards.

The Academic Standards committee originated the plan of awarding for high scholarship honors to juniors and seniors, not receiving other awards, deciding to call the honorary awards Evan Pugh Scholarships in honor of the former President. Students receiving these scholarships will be listed in the College catalog.

GRANT APPOINTED TO DIRECT CHORUS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Music Department Head Named
Conductor of American
Group in Festival

COLLEGIATE QUARTETS WILL COMPOSE SECTION

Varsity Unit Invited as College
Representative—Foreign
Gleemen Entered

Director Richard W. Grant, of the department of music, has been selected as leader for the American section of the International Festival of Student Chorus at the Chicago World's Fair August 7, 8, and 9, according to word received from directors of the project this week.

Professor Grant will have complete charge of a men's chorus composed of representatives of more than two hundred American colleges and universities, members of the Intercollegiate Music Council. Each member of the Council has been asked to send one or more quartet groups, which will be combined into one large chorus under Professor Grant's direction at the festival.

Quartet To Appear

In addition to representing American colleges and universities at the festival, the quartets appearing at the Fair will also engage in an intergroup competition, which will take the place of the annual national intercollegiate glee club contest this year. The College glee club, which placed third in the national competition last year, will likely be represented by the varsity quartet, according to Director Grant.

Planned as one of the features of the World's Fair, the International festival will also present student choruses from Denmark, Germany, Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Latvia, Poland, and Sweden in addition to the group directed by Professor Grant. Delegates of these countries at an international conference at Zurich, Switzerland, last summer indicated their intention of sending chorus groups to the festival.

Groups To Combine

Both American and foreign groups will combine to present two songs at the festival, while Professor Grant will direct the American section in singing a program of religious, miscellaneous and college songs. The American chorus will number approximately five hundred voices, according to Director Grant.

Under Professor Grant's direction, Penn State glee clubs have won the Pennsylvania intercollegiate championship in five of the past six years. Although he has never coached a national champion, Professor Grant has conducted Penn State glee clubs which have placed second twice and third twice in national contests, which are held every year.

Senator Introduces College Finance Bill

State Senator Harry B. Scott, of Centre county, this week introduced a bill in the Senate appropriating $4,120,000 of the State's funds to the Pennsylvania State College for the 1933-35 biennium.

This is $412,000 higher than the figure submitted by Gov. Gifford S. Pinchot in his estimated budget for the State last January. At that time he asked for a ten percent reduction in the appropriation for the College.

NEW YORK PASTOR TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Buttrick Will Address Chapel
Audience—"Lamp of Lord"
Named as Topic

Dr. George A. Buttrick will return to Penn State after an absence of two years to deliver the chapel address in Schwab auditorium at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. "The Lamp of the Lord," will be the topic of the New York pastor's speech.

The eminent theologian, who first spoke here at the 1931 baccalaureate services, is a pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church in New York City. He was born in Seaham Harbour, England, and after attending local schools, studied at the Lancaster Independent College, in Lancaster, England, where he was graduated in 1915.

Ordained in 1915

Immediately after leaving college, Dr. Buttrick came to this country, and was ordained to the ministry in 1915. His first pastorate, which he held from 1915 to 1918, was at the First Union Congregational church at Quincy, Illinois.

Dr. Buttrick then went to the First Congregational church at Rutland, Vermont, where he remained three years. In 1921 he was sent to the First Presbyterian church of Buffalo, New York, where he remained until he accepted his present position in 1927.

Soon after the chapel speaker succeeded famous Henry Sloan Coffin at the Madison Avenue church, the College asked him to speak here at chapel, and continued to do so successfully every year until 1931, when he was secured for the graduation exercises. This will be the first time he has ever addressed a chapel audience here.

FIRE CAUSES $250 DAMAGE

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed about $250 worth of initiation equipment in Pi Kappa Phi fraternity early Tuesday morning. Billows of smoke that rose to the first floor from the ritual room gave first indication of the conflagration.

LIBRARY COURSES INCREASED

To satisfy a demand from students for more advanced courses in library science, the College library is increasing courses of study for the 1933 summer session, according to Willard P. Lewis, librarian.

STUDENT COUNCIL WILL TAKE ACTION ON MERGER MOVE

Combination of Men's, Women's Government Agencies
Planned by Wood

CO-EDS WOULD SECURE CLASS SECRETARYSHIP'S

60 Colleges, Universities Have Similar Amalgamations in Campus Politics

First steps in the proposed combination of men's and women's student government will be taken at Student Council meeting Tuesday night when the move will be discussed and a permanent committee appointed to confer with a women's group.

Suggested by John A. Wood '33, senior class president, the proposal was delegated to a committee headed by Harry M. Wilson '33 for consideration. This committee will report to the Council Tuesday night, and a permanent committee with Wilson as chairman will be appointed.

Proposal Outlined

Women's student government agencies, as they now exist, would be done away with under the combined system. Instead, there would be proportional representation of women students in Student Council, one or more women on Student Board, and a woman would hold the secretaryship of each class, Wood said.

Elections would be conducted by Student Council for the combined offices. Women would be represented at men's cliques meetings, which as a recognized activity would be held under the supervision of faculty advisers.

Would Aid Cooperation

"Combining both men's and the women's agencies will result in greater cooperation and more effective operation of student government," Wood pointed out. "The merger will also give women a chance to participate in politics on an equal footing with men."

"If we are to recognize the women as legitimate members of Penn State's student body," he added, "then we must give them a part in our student government. Known now chiefly as a men's college, Penn State would gain the confidence of the people by being recognized as a true co-educational institution."

STEVENS TO OPEN 1933 L. A. TALKS

'Grover Cleveland' Named as Topic
Of First Lecture Planned
For Tuesday Night

Speaking on "Grover Cleveland, A Study in Political Courage," Prof. Sylvester K. Stevens, of the department of history and political science, will open the twenty-third annual Liberal Arts lectures in the assembly room of the Home Economics building at 7 o'clock Tuesday night.

Professor Stevens made an extensive survey of the life of Grover Cleveland last year while on a leave of absence from the College. He studied under Dr. Allen Nevins, noted historian at Columbia University, covering intensively the period of American history in which Cleveland was a central figure.

After graduating from Penn State in 1926, the lecturer received his master's degree here the next year. Since then he has been a member of the history department and has contributed historical articles to various magazines.

The lecture Tuesday night will be the first of six talks by members of the Liberal Arts school, continuing through the next three months. All lectures this year will be held in the assembly room of the Home Economics building unless previously announced.

WOMEN'S DEBATING TEAM TO ENGAGE OHIO WESLEYAN

Upholding the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that all intergovernmental war debts, including reparations, should be cancelled," the women's varsity debating team will meet Ohio Wesleyan University in the assembly room of the Home Economics building at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

Margaret E. Bernard '34, Jeanne S. Klockner '35, and E. Marion Tomlinson '36 have been selected to compose the Penn State team.

College Faculty Reveals Diversity of Alma Maters

187 Institutions Represented in Instructional
Staff—Foreign Schools Included

Revealing a wide diversity in their alma maters, a survey discloses that members of the College faculty list bachelor's degrees from 187 different colleges and universities, including eleven foreign institutions.

Penn State alumni form by far the largest single group on the instructional staff, no fewer than 182 graduates of the College holding positions ranging from extension workers to deans. Columbia University ranks a poor second with twenty-two representatives, while Cornell University trails in third place with nineteen.

Only eight other institutions can lay claim to ten or more graduates on the faculty. The University of Illinois is represented by sixteen faculty members, Ohio State University by fifteen, and the University of Minnesota by thirteen. Purdue University with twelve alumni, University of Pennsylvania, University of Michigan, and the University of Missouri, have eleven each and Massachusetts Agricultural College lists ten as its graduates.

Foreign universities which granted bachelor degrees to members of the
