Between the Lions with

The Sports Editor

If we were Winchell, we'd start off today's opus with a half-a-dozen bo-., quets for Charlie Speidel and his crew of bone-crushers. In hanging up a clean-cut, ungefeated season, the grapplers presented a practical application of the driving spirit that characterizes their enthusiastic coach. It is safe to say that it is only because of Charlie's vigor and the consequent high calibre of Lion wrestling teams that the sport has attained the hold it has on students here.

While student leaders cannot be blamed for their efforts to make boxing meets with service teams as colorful as possible, the feeling that making such meets formal is an unnecessary gesture has won general support among students. We understand that the formal movement firs arose from a misunderstanding of the y use of formal dress uniforms at the service institutions. Thus, a preced--ent was set up which has been follow ed, perhaps without reasoning the thing out, in meets since that time Whether the idea is to be continued or not, should at least be decided by an expression of student opinion.

Lions Suffer 48-to-32 Setback At Colgate-Orange Wins 44-to-29 Triumph

After being Marooned on a 48-te 32 score at Hamilton Friday night. the Lions found the Hill at Syracus just a bit too steep to climb the fol lowing day, and slightly dulled thei excellent record by dropping two games in a row. The final count of the Orange game was 44-to-29.

the Orange game was 44-to-29.

But even though the Blue and White finale was not uite so brilliant as some of the playing displayed in earlier acts of this year's basketball show, nothing could dampen our rabid enthusiasm over the excellent home average turned in by the Lions. Seven wins out of eight tries is a record which stands unequalled in Recreation hall.

The Colgate contest was the tough est one to lose so far as the Lion were concerned. Zeleznock Loses Close Fight

Mike Zeleznock showed unexpected ability as a boxer when he lost a close fight to Cleveland, undefeated Army 125-pounder. Although the Cadet probably won the first two rounds, Mike certainly outpunched his taller rival in the third canto.

Alex Turnbull, Leo's new 155-pound Alex Turnbull, Leo's new 155-pound find, was the victim of another close judge's verdict when he staged a slugfest with Cadet Shinkle but lost on the basis of the first two rounds. "Mutt" Kessler, fighting out of his matural weight class again, dropped the 165-pound decision because he didn't cover up against Olson's hard wights.

Although ready to open for business at a moment's notice, the banks of State College are remaining closed at the request of President Roosevelt who late Sunday night issued a proclamation asking every bank in the country to remain closed until at least Friday morning.

Our banks assure us that they will keep the student body informed at all times of the progress being made nationally. They will co-operate with any measure recommended by the government.

We can aid them by maintaining an attitude of patience and confidence until emergency measures are enacted at Washington to relieve the crisis.
