

BANKS WILL OPEN TODAY, ISSUE SCRIP

local vaults. If it is deemed necessary or advisable, the five dollar limit may be raised to a higher figure tomorrow, officials said.

Scrup as a temporary medium of exchange for State College had been considered earlier this week. However, it was postponed then as it was felt that there was not yet need for it. Due to later national developments in the banking crisis, both College and bank officials were of the opinion yesterday that some immediate action should be taken to prevent any suffering.

Merchants Affected
No cases of serious inconvenience to students had been reported to Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock up to Wednesday. However, the Dean said that unless some action was taken he expected a number of such cases.

Evidencing optimism on the part of State College business men, a partial survey of various types of businesses shows that with only one or two exceptions every place of business in the town will accept checks for merchandise.

Clothing stores are suffering most from the financial conditions. Several haberdashers said that their business had fallen off approximately fifty percent, while one stated that his business had dropped at least ninety-five percent from normal.

Druggists reported that their business had been slowed up about twenty percent since the closing of the banks. Restaurants were the least affected, sales in these places of business dropping on an average only fifteen percent. The theatres showed only a slight decline which could be traced to present financial conditions.

Jovialty, Not Formality, To Feature Fine Arts Ball in Armory Next Friday

Formality will be cast to the winds and genuine jovialty, aided by novelties every minute, will prevail when Scarab, honorary fine arts fraternity, sets a campus precedent by holding a Fine Arts Ball in the Armory next Friday night.

Stiff shirts and flowing gowns will not be the costumes for this "depression dance," for even the meanest looking hobo will be admitted if he has the necessary entrance papers. A limited number of these tickets, in the form of scrolls, will be secured from members of Scarab and the arrangements committee.

The usual flat rate for admission will not be charged. Instead, when the couple arrives at the dance the girl will be weighed on scales and her escort assessed at the rate of one-half cent a pound. In addition, each couple will be charged a small lump sum.

A replica of a Greenwich Village street, bordered by houses, will greet the dancers as they enter. Each couple will be given a $15,000 roll of make-believe money which can be used in the gaming room of the "village."

Novelty in every possible way will be the keynote of the dance. Members of the Thespian chorus will put on a floor show, the Varsity Ten will furnish dance music, and a myriad of balloons will descend upon the dancers at some time during the function.

Exhibits of choice bits of painting and sculpture by art students will be placed about the hall, with a specially-composed replica of "The Last Supper" as the main feature. Proceeds from the dance will go towards furthering art exhibits and securing interesting speakers on art subjects.

Eugene D. Hagerty '33 heads the committee in charge of the arrangements. Assisting him are John S. Frizzell '31, R. Andrew Bustard '33, Ross B. Davis '33, Charles D. Forbes '33, S. Dale Kaufman '33, Frank A. Kendall '33, Wayne B. Mengel '33, Robert W. Pierson '33, and George W. Wickstead '33.

Records of the last four years show that two-thirds of the transfers to Penn State enter the sophomore and junior classes. Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, College examiner, disclosed. Of the 210 undergraduate transfers of the last four years, seventy-nine were sophomores, sixty entered as juniors, fifty-two were freshmen, while only nineteen entered as seniors.

In commenting on the large number entering in the two middle classes, Dr. Marquardt pointed out that many go to nearby small colleges before transferring to Penn State. Because of the extremely high entrance requirements for transfer students, many are not able to enter the junior class with their previous credits and are obliged to repeat their sophomore year, he said.

Because of the stricter entrance requirements, the transfer students are of much higher calibre than the regular students, Dr. Marquardt added.

6 TALKS PLANNED FOR M. I. FACULTY

Steidle Announces Lectures Series At Meetings By Members Of Other Schools

Seeking to stimulate thought among its own faculty members on subjects relating to other schools of the College, the School of Mineral Industries will inaugurate a series of six lectures by faculty members of other schools as a feature of its own faculty meetings, Dean Edward Steidle announced Wednesday.

Dr. George W. Hartmann, of the School of Education, will present the first lecture of the series, speaking on the subject, "Arts of Learning and of Thinking," at a meeting of the Mineral Industries faculty next Thursday. The second talk of the group will be given by Dr. Robert E. Dengler, of the School of Liberal Arts, on the subject, "Culture and the Arts."

Speaking on "Character, Conduct and Cooperation," Harry W. Seaman, secretary of the Penn State Christian association, will address the Mineral Industries faculty on March 29, and on April 5, Dr. Asa E. Martin, of the School of Liberal Arts, is scheduled to lecture on "Knowledge, Abilities and Attitudes Making Citizenship."

Adrian O. Morse, executive secretary to the President, will deliver the fifth lecture of the series on the subject, "The Responsibility of Leadership," and the concluding talk will be given by Dr. Carl W. Hasek, of the School of Liberal Arts, on the subject, "The Effective Place in Economic, Political and Social Life." Mr. Morse will speak on April 12 and Dr. Hasek on April 19.

ARCHITECTS TO MEET HERE
Members of the southern chapter of the American Institute of Architecture will hold their spring meeting here, according to Dr. Lewis F. Pilcher, acting head of the department of architecture.

Lininger Believes Senate Farm Bill Not Satisfactory

That the Domestic Allotment Bill, as presented to the Senate, would not offer a satisfactory solution to the Pennsylvania farm problem is the contention of Dr. Fred F. Lininger, of the department of agricultural economics.

The bill contains measures designed to relieve the growers of cotton and wheat, whereas Pennsylvania farmers buy cotton, not sell it. The passage of the bill may possibly mean harm to Pennsylvania agriculture, according to the economist.

"It is evident, therefore, that even though the proposal would accomplish its purpose—that of relieving the growers of cotton and wheat, Pennsylvania farmers would not be benefited," he concluded.

Campus Bulletin

Don't you get Pipe Hungry

once in a while?

TEN CENTS

The Granger pouch keeps the tobacco fresh

"MAYBE it's back to Nature. Maybe it's something else. I don't know just what it is; but somehow or other I've just got to slip out in the woods and sit down on a log. I always take the old pipe along. Thinking somehow seems easier when you are smoking a pipe. I can fill up my pipe with Granger, and somehow just seem to see things clearer than at any other time.

"Don't know what it is about Granger, but it must be made for pipes—real pipe tobacco.

"Somehow, there's a flavor and aroma about Granger I never found in any other tobacco. When I pack my old pipe tight and good with these big Granger flakes, it's about the coolest smoke I ever enjoyed. It makes me downright pipe hungry every time I look at the package. Some years ago we made a painstaking, scientific study to find out, if we could, the kind of tobacco best suited for pipes.

Down in the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky, we found a tobacco called White Burley. There is a grade of this tobacco between the kind used for chewing and the varieties suitable for cigarettes that is best suited for pipes. This tobacco is used in Granger.

This tobacco is prepared by a method worked out many years ago by Mr. J. N.

Wellman. It gives Granger a fragrance and mellowness that pipe smokers like, and makes it burn to a clean, dry ash. Granger never gums a pipe.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has come to be popular, and there is this much about it: We have yet to know of a man who started smoking it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.
