

Between the Lions with The Sports Editor

Ring rosin's in the air again, and from far and near they come for the spectacle of spectacles the Intercollegiate present.

Meanwhile, another Lion team will be fighting for its place in the sun against the stiffest of competition. Charlie Speidel's undefeated grapplers are even now in New York awaiting the opening of the annual wrestling Intercollegiate at Columbia this afternoon.

The Eastern championship is not the only goal toward which the Lions may point. Holding of the National Wrestling Intercollegiate at Lehigh next week offers a fine opportunity for the Lions to gain ever higher honor if they can survive the grueling grind at the Intercollegiate successfully.

This and That We're sorry, "Fan," that the mistake you mentioned appeared... It was entirely unintentional, please feel assured, and one that we printed on the basis of a report in a Harrisburg newspaper which has a reputation for being authentic.

held in the 155 and 165-pound divisions this afternoon. Present titleholder Captain Joe Moran, of Syracuse, will fight "Mutt" Kessler in the first middleweight bout tonight, and Keyser, Western Maryland, will oppose Shinkle, Army. In the 165-pound semi-finals, Tony Balash, Syracuse, is slated to meet Hardin Olson, Army, while Andy Gorski, Western Maryland, and Tom Slusser will fight it out in the second bout.

Two light-heavyweight fights are scheduled for this afternoon, with Collins, M. I. T., meeting Kendall, Army, and Manson, Yale, facing Negrom, Syracuse. The winners of these two fights will meet in one of the semi-final setoffs tonight, as Captain Berne Kaplan, Western Maryland, takes on Anderson.

Since Anderson has moved down to the 175-pound division, one of the heavyweight entries will get a bye to the finals unless another man is entered. The present drawings place Pontcarvo, Western Maryland, against Army's captain, Joe Remus, with Joe Vavra, Syracuse, unopposed until the finals.

To Receive Medals

Admission for the preliminaries and semi-finals this afternoon and tonight will be fifty-five cents each, including tax, while the charge for the finals tomorrow night will be seventy-five cents, including tax. Tickets may be purchased at the Athletic association office in Old Main this morning and tomorrow morning or at Recreation hall before each event.

Following the finals tomorrow night, gold, silver, and bronze medals will be presented to first, second, and third place winners by Dr. Francis C. Grant, secretary of the association. The team trophy, awarded by the Baltimore Sun, will also be presented at this time. Team scores are calculated on the basis of five points for a champion, three points for a second-place winner, and one point for a third-place winner.

Officials Selected

Officials for this week-end will be Bryan Hayes, of Philadelphia, and Al Grayber and Stuart Robinson, of Pittsburgh. Each of the men served in the national tourney here last April, and Hayes and Grayber have refereed dual meets here this season.

In addition to the five member schools of the association, Army, M. I. T., Syracuse, Western Maryland, and Penn State, invitations to compete in the tourney were also sent to Dartmouth, Harvard, Navy, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and Yale. Only two of these non-member schools, Dartmouth and Yale, have entered boxers.

Harvard had tentatively entered Phil Hines, 155-pounder, but later withdrew him, while Navy officials replied several weeks ago that the Academy would not be able to send any boxers here. New Hampshire authorities said this week that none of their boxers would be able to compete because of final examinations at the institution this week, while the Pennsylvania director of athletics wrote that no team would be entered by the university.

All bouts will be conducted under the rules of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing association, which have been used in dual meets this season. Cheering will not be allowed during the progress of the rounds, but will be permissible between the rounds.

Rounds will be two minutes long, with an interval of one minute between each round. The usual ten-ounce gloves will be used, and no boxer may be more than three pounds over the weight class figure in which he is entered.

Hamas Will Reach Top of Profession, Lew Tender Thinks

"Steve Hamas has every chance of reaching the very top of his profession," Lew Tender, three-time challenger of the lightweight championship when Benny Leonard reigned supreme, said in an interview at Philadelphia recently.

"Hamas looks just like Dempsey did when he was a youngster just beginning the climb that was to lead to the heavyweight championship," Tender added. "The fact that he knocked out Tommy Loughran, a fighter of great ring experience and cleverness, is proof that he has the 'goods'."

"I've seen him in action several times and the thing that impressed me the most was his aggressiveness," Tender continued. "He doesn't waste a minute. He goes after his opponent from the opening bell, and finishes just as strongly as he started."

Tender has been retired several years now, and devotes his time to business in Philadelphia. He has never forgotten those three fights with Leonard almost a decade ago and still continues his contact with the ring. Pictures of ring "greats" of the past adorn the walls of his shop.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM WINS Defeating the University of Nebraska and the University of Minnesota, the women's rifle team won two of the three matches entered last Friday. Cornell won the third engagement. Helen C. Hoover '33, and Frances T. Paschall '35 were high scorers.

28 BOXERS ENTER CONFERENCE MEET

Mitmen of 7 Eastern Institutions Open Competition Today At Morgantown

While the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing association championships are being decided here this week-end, members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing conference will be holding their second annual tournament at Morgantown, W. Va.

Twenty-eight boxers representing the University of Pittsburgh, Bucknell, Duquesne, Temple, and West Virginia Universities, Carnegie Tech, and Washington and Jefferson College are entered in the Morgantown tournament. Following the plan used by the Eastern association last year, only the four outstanding mitmen in the conference are selected for the championship tournament.

Seven of the Conference title aspirants appeared in the National tournament held here last spring, including Pete D'Allesandro, Temple's National 112-pound champion, Puglia, 125-pounder, Neely, lightweight, and Payne, 175-pounder, of West Virginia. Kiel, Bucknell featherweight, Moore, Duquesne 145-pounder, and Jack Schricker, Pittsburgh 155-pound representative. The Conference has no heavyweight class.

With West Virginia already crowned the Conference team champion by virtue of a perfect dual meet record, only individual champions in the seven weights will be decided in the tournament. The team title is awarded on the basis of dual meet results during the season.

Competition for the heavyweight crown will be mainly between Captain Joe Remus, Army's 175-pound intercollegiate champion last year, and Joe Vavra, Syracuse's 220-pounder. Remus, being a more experienced boxer, should win the title, although Vavra's weight advantage may turn the tide in his favor.

plers as Dalling of Lehigh, titleholder last year, Finkelman of Penn, and Snelman of Princeton.

Lorenzo To Meet Peck Rosenberg, the Nittany Lion's best hope, will get his toughest opposition from Phillips of Yale, who eliminated him last year, the Cornellian, Hurwitz, and Kalajian of Columbia. Bill Cramer will have to take care of Henry, of Columbia, Byington of Yale, and Richardson of Cornell, to come out on top.

Princeton's captain, Hooker, Ben Bishop, Lehigh's pride, and 145-pound champion last year, and Haase of Yale, loom as the strongest opponents to Svede Johnston for the 155-pound honors. Captain Mike Lorenza is meeting the class of collegiate wrestling when he goes up against Captain Pete Peck, Lehigh; Captain McKean, Syracuse; Captain Kinzler, Columbia; Baneroff, Cornell; and Lee of Penn.

Although inexperienced, Kreizman stands a fine chance of upsetting the dope and coming through for the Blue and White in the 175-pound weight. Captain Mann for Penn, titleholder last year, may not wrestle because of injuries, which will leave King of Columbia, and Classen of Princeton as the greatest opposition. "King" Cole will meet some of the best heavyweights in the country in Snowden of Yale, Penn of Cornell, and Hirschberg, Lehigh.
