WOMEN'S RUSHING CUT TO ONE WEEK UNDER NEW CODE

Panhellenic Council Abolishes 14-Day Period at Meeting On Tuesday Night

RUSHEES ALLOWED ONLY 3 FORMAL INVITATIONS

Ruling Bans Overnight Parties, Sets $45 Expense Limit For Whole Season

Rushing season for women's fraternities will be reduced from ten days to one week, according to the new rushing code adopted by Panhellenic Council Tuesday.

The committee on rushing code revisions, headed by Helen A. Hoover '33, will decide when the different fraternities will hold their formal parties. The committee will also set the date for the issuance of invitations.

Formal parties will be given at separate times and will not overlap as formerly suggested, but rushees will be allowed to accept invitations to only three formal functions. Invitations for formal parties must be sent out by all fraternities at the same time.

To Open September 20

According to the revised code overnight parties are banned. A fraternity may have only two informal dates with each rushee before the formal party and only one date may be made on the first day of rushing season, which will open with the beginning of College on September 20.

The number of fraternity women and rushees that may be present at an informal party will not be limited. In former years those present were limited to six rushees and six fraternity women. A silent period from 11:00 o'clock Tuesday night until 11:00 o'clock Wednesday morning will precede the opening of rushing season.

Expenses Limited to $45

Expenditures of fraternities for rushing purposes will be limited to forty-five dollars, which must include expenses of rushees, active members, and alumnae. Under the new code sophomore transfers may be rushed after one semester's registration here, along with juniors and seniors.

The proposal of the fraternity Presidents' Council to abolish the present system of choosing the Panhellenic Council president by rotation among the fraternities according to the priority of their founding on this campus, was rejected by Panhellenic Council.

Divinity School Professor of Yale University Will Give Address At Regular Services

Dr. Halford E. Luccock, professor of homiletics in the Divinity School at Yale University, will give the address at the regular chapel services in Schwab auditorium at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Dr. Luccock spoke here last April.

Following his graduation from Northwestern University in 1906, the speaker took graduate work at the Union Theological Seminary, New York City, where he was awarded a bachelor of divinity degree in 1909. In the same year he received his master's degree from Columbia University. His doctorate of divinity was awarded after study at Syracuse University in 1927, and his doctor of literature degree at Allegheny College in 1927.

In 1920, Dr. Luccock was ordained in the Methodist Episcopal ministry. After serving as pastor at Hartford, Conn. for two years, he taught at the Hartford Theological Seminary for two years, following which he accepted the pastorate of the St. Andrews church, at New Haven, Conn.

Among the books which the Yale professor has written are "Pares, Please," "Five Minute Shop Talks," "The New Map of the World, 1919," and "The Story of Methodism." He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

TRUSTEES APPROVE EVAN PUGH AWARD

5 Highest Ranking Students in Junior, Senior Classes To Receive Prizes

The Evan Pugh Scholarship will take its place among scholarships and fellowships given to high ranking juniors and seniors, as a result of approval by the Board of Trustees at its meeting last week.

Under the provisions of the new honor the Scholarship will be awarded to the five highest ranking juniors and seniors, provided that those students are not awarded another fellowship, scholarship or J. W. White Medal. No monetary value will accompany the new scholarship which will be of equal rank to other scholarships here.

To Honor Evan Pugh

No student will receive an Evan Pugh Scholarship who has not spent the previous five semesters in residence at this College. If more than one student shall have the same grade for fifth place, the Committee on Academic Standards may extend the number of awards, providing that never more than seven awards may be granted in each class.

The Scholarships were established to honor Evan Pugh, former president of the College here from 1859 to 1864. "The committee suggested this name for the scholarship as one that will honor a brilliant intellectual leader and commensurate, at the same time, the zealous efforts of the first president of the College to secure and develop the Land-Grant Endowment, to hold scholarship, and to point the way toward advanced work in the sciences and the arts," Dr. William S. Day, head of the academic committee, stated.

The Honor Society Council recently voted to give gold medals to seniors, and silver medals to juniors receiving the Evan Pugh Scholarship. It is further provided that the names of Evan Pugh Scholars will appear on the commencement program and in the annual catalog of the College.

150 SCRANTON ALUMNI MEET

More than 150 alumni of the College attended a dinner sponsored by the Scranton Penn State Alumni club at Scranton Tuesday night. Gabardine, Tweed, Sackcloth Season Arrives With 'Best-Dressed' Contest

Arrayed in gabardine, tweed, and sackcloth, the next best dressed man will from this point until the final decision, appear in nothing but the most sharply pressed, correct clothes in competition for the Froth prize as best dressed man here. Chesterfield supremacy is at stake, in addition to the material awards from local clothing stores.

On the eve of clothing competition, visions of past smoothies disturb the prospective Lothario in his dreams of future success in capturing the "best dressed" title. Former "neat-men" have left shades of seersucker and bales of broadcloth in their wake as mimeographed standards of what to wear.

This year's contest will be sprinkled generously with many plaid combinations, since that particular fashion has swept this campus quite thoroughly. Some energetic candidates would do well to appear in completely plaid costume. Judges might be persuaded to favor plaid socks, plaid shirt, plaid tie, plaid suit, and plaid handkerchief to match. A plaid hat

COLLEGE LEADERS TO ATTEND FIRST GRIDIRON BANQUET

150 Students, Faculty Members Receive Invitations for Affair-April 4

FUNCTION WILL SATIRIZE TRADITIONS ON CAMPUS

Guests Must Obtain Tickets at Student Union Desk Before 5 O'clock Wednesday

One hundred and fifty student and faculty leaders of the College will receive invitations tomorrow to Penn State's first Gridiron Banquet, which will be held at the University club next Tuesday night, April 4.

Sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, the affair will satirize local institutions and prominent campus leaders in the style of similar social functions at other colleges and universities. Weaknesses and failings of campus customs and traditions will be played upon in clever dialogue and sketches.

Must Exchange Invitations

The limited number of invitations which were sent out this morning must be exchanged for tickets at the Student Union office in Old Main by 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Although a Gridiron Banquet is an innovation at Penn State, the organization sponsoring the affair expects to establish it as an annual social function here.

Included in the selected invitation list are captains and managers of varsity sports teams, student government officers, publications editors, fraternity presidents, and students who have been active in undergraduate activities. The faculty list is made up of the deans of the various schools of the College, administrative officers, and other well-known faculty men.

Committees Listed

Preparations for the banquet were started early last week by members of Sigma Delta Chi. The book for the occasion, which is composed mainly of skits and epigrams, was written by Sidney H. Benjamin '33 and Rollin C. Steinmetz '33. W. Curtis Montz '33 is chairman of the committee on invitations, while Richard V. Wall '33 and Richard G. Wolf '34 will assist him.

Finances for the affair are in charge of a committee composed of Donald P. Day '33, chairman, Richard S. Oyster '33, and Karl E. Knecht '34. George A. Scott '34, James M. Sheen '34, and William M. Stegmeier '34 are handling the publicity for the "roasting" banquet.

CONSERVATION COMMITTEE WILL HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Sponsored by the State College Conservation committee, the second annual "Fisherman's Banquet," will be held at the Nittany Lion tonight. Dean Ralph L. Watts, of the School of Agriculture, will act in the capacity of toastmaster.

Talks will be given by O. M. Diebler, State Commissioner of Fisheries, State Senator Scott, of Phillipsburg, Representative Laird Holmes, and Congressman Kurtz. Several reels showing wild life will also be presented.

Laid in a green panel scene, the first act takes place at a garden party at the home of Mrs. Gheyney. The second and third acts are at Mrs. Ebbly's home, and occur in her living room and bedroom. The scenery was designed by Horace C. McLaughlin '35 and M. Dean Ross '35.

Reba M. Michener '33 has been named stage manager of the production; Frederick H. Light '35, electrician; and Ethel H. Filbert '34, wardrobe mistress. Properties are in charge of Delbert C. Thomas '34.

WHITMORE SPEAKS ON ATOMIC HABITS

Chemistry, Physics Dean Addresses Third Liberal Arts Forum in Home Economics Unit.

With the "Habits of the Atom" as his topic, Dean Frank C. Whitmore, of the School of Chemistry and Physics, delivered the third Liberal Arts lecture in the Home Economics auditorium Tuesday night.

Two charts, Avogadro's Number and the elements, served as illustrations in his talk. Using the blackboard to point out the compositions of simple compounds, the speaker outlined the relative simplicity of well known substances in their chemical proportions.

Illustrating with a small flask of water, Dean Whitmore explained the possible complexities contained therein. "The number 606 plus twenty-one zeros, or Avogadro's Number," he stated, "is the number of atoms in the bottle. It is more correct than a census of the United States, because it is more consistent."

"Supposing that each atom in the small bottle were marked, one could pour the water into any stream on earth, and be able to find one of the marked atoms in a container of water dipped from any other stream at any other point on the globe," he explained. "Such an experiment seems almost unbelievable, yet it is true."

Election Campaigns To Begin on April 5

Campaigning for the spring elections will not be permitted before midnight, April 5, according to the elections code approved by Student Council last week.

Violations of this ruling will be dealt with severely by Student Board. No advertising may be distributed before that date.

His selections will include "Ballade et Polonaise de Concert," by Vioux; "To A Wild Rose," by MacDowell; "Ave Maria," by Schubert-Wilhelm; and "Spanish Dance," by Rehfeld.

Following its policy of presenting the works of only one composer, or of one nationality, at a concert, the Kappa Gamma Psi orchestra will play selections from Grieg, the Norwegian composer. As the first section of the program it will offer "Norwegian Dance," parts two and three.

Will Give Explanations

"Suite for Orchestra," from "Sigurd Jorsalfar," which is in three parts, will be the second number by the orchestra. "Vorspiel Duet," the first part of the suit, will be followed by "Intermezzo (Borghild's Dream)." The third section of the orchestral program will be "Huldigung's March," better known as Grieg's "Triumphal March."

Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, College examiner, will give notations and explanations of several of the works to be played by the orchestra. The usual free-will silver offering for the benefit of the Student Loan fund will be received at the conclusion of the concert.

Colton, committee chairman, announced Wednesday. A seal will replace the lion's head emblem on the pocket of the coat, Colton also announced.

Sale of the blazers will begin next week at a substantial reduction in price from that of last year, according to the committee chairman.

WOMEN SANCTION HANDBOOK MERGER

W. S. G. A., Panhellenic Council Approve Plans Proposed By Student Groups

A proposed merger of the men's and women's handbooks received favorable action Tuesday when W. S. G. A. and Panhellenic Council approved resolutions drafted by a student committee appointed to study details of the change.

Providing for a combination of both books next year, the plan would place publication under the P. S. C. A. and W. S. G. A., the latter also representing Panhellenic Council, W. A. A., and Y. W. C. A.

With the approval of this plan by W. S. G. A. and Panhellenic Council, the change will become effective immediately after Easter vacation upon final acceptance of P. S. C. A., W. A. A., and Y. W. C. A. who will consider the proposal in the near future.

3 Groups To Act on Plan

The proposed plan would place administration of the combined handbook in a staff of four seniors and thirteen juniors. An editor, women's editor, business manager, and his assistant would compose the senior group, while three men and three women would serve on the junior editorial staff and seven juniors would act as business assistants.

Under the plans for amalgamation, the senior editorial board will be held responsible for an evaluation of spaces in proportion to the importance of the different college activities. Appointments made by the editor, and business manager shall be subject to approval by the P. S. C. A., while women candidates shall be accepted by the W. S. G. A. Senate, according to the resolutions.

Headed by Robert E. Paxton, the committee which drafted the proposal consists of Manlio De Angelis, Edward Golob, Robert Tittle, Reba Michener, Ruth Crowthers, Margaret Borland, Eva M. Blichfeldt, editor of the Women's Handbook, and Ernest B. Zukauskas, editor of the Men's Student Handbook.

Dr. Joseph F. Ritenour and Prof. Nelson R. Walke, of the Physical Education School, have been requested to develop this phase of the committee's plans.

Investigation of the possibility of securing a swimming pool here, and of the inspection of nearby pools is being carried out by Professor Joel A. Sperry, of the department of dairy husbandry, and Prof. Harrison M. Tietz, of the department of zoology.

Among the newer ideas sponsored by the committee is a provision proposing the required withdrawal of teachers from direct contact with other teachers and students in the case of colds, grippe, and other communicable diseases. The A. A. U. P. committee investigating the rumor of a faculty salary cut will continue its study before making a report.
