

Hetzel Pronounces Cut in Appropriation 'Fair, Just'

10 Percent Reduction Passed by Legislature Viewed as Proper by President

In a short statement issued Saturday afternoon, President Ralph D. Hetzel declared that the ten percent cut in the College appropriations, approved by Governor Pinchot over the week-end, is "just and fair under all the circumstances."

"We can accept it with the feeling that it represents a proper participation on the part of the College as a necessary program of public economy," the President maintained in the statement.

Bond Issue Proposed

Carrying with it the appropriation of $3,708,000, providing for the operation and maintenance of the College during the 1933-35 biennium, the bill passed both the House and the Senate of the State legislature late Thursday afternoon and was approved by the Governor.

Of the sum appropriated by the act, thirty-three and one-third percent will be abated unless the voters at the November elections approve a $25,000,000 bond issue floated to defray the expenses of the State government for the biennium. This would mean that the total slash would amount to $2,884,000 as the figure asked for in the College budget was $4,120,000.

College Awaits Decision

The College must now operate until November 4 with a tentative budget awaiting the decision of the voters. If the voters decide against the bond issue, the total amount of the abatement will be prorated among and deducted from the remaining payments.

This means that the College must adopt a policy of rigid expenditure during the summer and early fall months, as the defeat of the bill in November would make a complete revision of the budget necessary. If the bond issue is approved by the voters at that time, the College is prepared to efficiently under the original slashed appropriation.

Pending consideration of these factors, the College has not yet adopted a budget for the coming biennium. The question of salary reductions and budget appropriations will not be settled for several weeks, as news of the federal appropriations for the College has not been received, administrative officials have disclosed.

SENIORS TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

'33 Men, Women Will Decide on Disposition of Balance in Class Treasury

Senior men and women will hold a combined class meeting in the Chemistry amphitheatre at 8 o'clock tonight for the purpose of determining the disposition of about $3,000 remaining in the class treasury, according to John A. Wood '33, president of the class.

The meeting has been called as a result of separate meetings held by the men and women last week. At that time both sections of the class agreed to give $1,000 to support an Artists' Course here. At the end of five years, any balance is to be returned to the 1933 treasury.

Requests Full Turn-out The men at that time voted to award the balance, approximately $3,250, to the student loan fund, to be given without interest, to worthy students. This amount also was to be paid back to the permanent class treasury at the end of five years.

The women, however, recommended that this amount be invested and the interest used to establish a scholarship. The object of tonight's joint meeting is to decide which course to pursue. It is for this purpose that Wood requests a full turn-out of both men and women.

At the meeting held last week, the men recommended to the inter-class finance committee that of the $2,900 remaining in the treasury, a sufficient amount be taken to provide for permanent class reunions. It was recommended that the balance go to pay for the caps and gowns necessary for graduation.

50 STUDENT HEADS TO ATTEND DINNER

Student Union Board Will Consider Coordination Plan for Extra-Curricular Work

Approximately fifty student activities heads will attend the Student Union dinner in Old Main Sandwich Shop at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night, according to Paul W. Flier '33, chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner. Cards have been received from members of the various organizations who will attend the affair which will be featured as a "Dutch treat."

The function will be an innovation in that the Union board has never before attempted to conduct a dinner for the purpose of stressing the importance of the Student Union as a coordinating unit for all extra-curricular activities at Penn State. In addition the board plans to discuss propositions which may arise during the coming year.

Raymond H. Smith, College Comptroller, will deliver a short talk concerning the inception of the Union while Dean of Men Arthur R. Warnock will consider the possibilities of the organization in the future. President Ralph D. Hetzel will attend the function if plans permit.

Organized in 1930, the Union has undertaken and completed many projects. All-College dances were held free of charge after several basketball games last season, the Student Loan fund has been aided, and general services were extended through the information bureau at the Student Union desk.

SENATE APPROVES OPEN COURSE RULE FOR ALL STUDENTS

Undergraduates May Schedule Any Subject Regardless Of Curriculum

PREREQUISITES NAMED AS ONLY REQUIREMENT

Scholastic Rank To Determine Preference in Conflicts For Chosen Courses

Facilitating the scheduling of courses in curricula other than the one in which a student is enrolled, the College Senate passed a ruling Thursday night that any course in the College is open to any student possessing the scholastic prerequisites.

"Any course in this College shall be open to any student possessing the scholastic prerequisites and such personal qualifications set as prerequisites for the courses for all students as certified by the dean of the school in which the student is enrolled," the new ruling states.

Must Meet Requirements "In case of over-crowding, preference shall be given to the students in order of scholastic rank. In R. O. T. C. subjects, certain legal and war department requirements must be met," the new ruling provides.

Recognition of the need for scheduling courses in other schools and departments was responsible for the decision. Under the new provision, for example, a student in the School of Engineering shall be able to take a course in the School of Agriculture, provided he has the necessary prerequisites.

78 Attend Session The largest number of senators in the history of the organization was present at the meeting due to interest in the provision. The total of seventy-eight men surpassed a previous figure of seventy-four made over a year ago.

A recommendation for assisting instructors, graduate students, and faculty members in their research work was made by a Senate committee. Lightened teaching loads, release from routine duties, and better library facilities were suggested as remedies and aids for programs of research undertaken by faculty members.

'Elections Code Developed Almost to Limit' - Tschan

Chairman of Balloting Committee Proposes No Changes in Present System For Following Year

"At the present time, the elections code, and the manner in which elections are run off here, is about as well developed as can be expected in student polling," declared Robert E. Tschan '33, chairman of the elections committee this year, when queried as to proposed changes for next year.

"The one thing that worked better this year than previously was the manner in which voting by proxy was controlled. Strictly prohibited under this year's system here, signatures of voters were checked with matriculation cards and additional identification was required when any question arose as to the legality of the prospective voter," the chairman said.

"The elections code, in its present form, is the result of many years of experimenting with different systems under which to regulate student voting. I believe that is at present certainly better than the average at colleges and should not be changed materially for next year," Tschan added.

Under the plan of voting and checking used this year, any chance of ballot box "stuffing" is eliminated, and every voter entering the enclosure where voting takes place is checked, the chairman disclosed. No one but a regularly approved voter is allowed to insert anything into the ballot box, and voting by classes, as it was conducted this year, eliminates the chance of ballots being mislaid, he pointed out.

"Counting of ballots as it is conducted now, with four men checking each vote as it is counted, and with representatives of each clique making a count of all ballots cast at the same time that the official count is being made, also seems to be the best possible to develop for elections here," Tschan concluded.

According to the new system of preferential voting, the number indicating the voter's order of preference must be placed after the name of every candidate for an office or the ballot will not be counted. In case no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast, the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes is dropped from the list, and the second choice appearing on the ballots thus excluded are tabulated for the remaining candidates.
