Page Two

PENN STATE COLLEGIAN			DADDOW WITT TROUTDR		MINERAL INDUSTRIES GROUP
		The Letter Box	DARROW WILL LECTURE HERE FRIDAY, SATURDAY	Campus Bulletin	INSPECTS PITTSBURGH MINES
Published semi-weekly during the College year, except on holidays, hy students of The Pennsylvania State College, in the interest of the College, the students, faculty, alumni, and friends.	OLD MANIA	To the Editor: I'm glad to read in last Tuesday's	Sigma Pi Sigma To.Sponsor Lectures	All members of the pre-medical so- ciety will meet to elect officers for	Eight students of the School of Min-
THE MANAGING BOARD CHARLES A. MYERS '34 Editor GEORGE A. SCOTT '24 Managing Editor WILLIAM M. STECMENER '34 BERNARD I. ROGEXZWEIG '31 DARK M. STECMENER '34 New Editor JAME M. STECMENER '34 DARK M. STECMENER '34 DARK M. STECMENER '34 DARK M. STECMENER '34 DARK M. STECMENER '34 New Editor RUTH M. HARMON '31 Women's Editor EVA M. RL/EUFFELDT '34 Women's Managing Editor Entered at the Pastoffice, State College, Pa., as Second-class Matter	Well, May-Day has come and gone and for once it was really interesting. In fact it was almost a panic. Between the wind blowing the page boy around, and the girls trying to keep the mud from rising above their ankles, and the throne falling over every few moments the whole affair was nearly ruined; and the foot-race at the end nearly spolled the effect, too. But all in all and taking everything into consideration it was a very lovely show, and in our opinion Beidler gave the best performance of "Sadie Theorement" thet was a very lovely show.	cditorial column that the cost of caps and gowns may be only $2.00 next year instead of $2.50 per head, (What's the dope about getting them free this time? Do you mean free— that is, paid a year in advance?) Anyway let's hope you keep after those four bits next year. But I have a better idea: Aren't the seniors all saps to pay $2.50 to rent an outfit that sells for only $10? For just a few days' rental you pay 25% of the cost. Anything over a dollar charge is a racket; you ought	Dr. Karl K. Darrow, an official of a national telephone Iaboratory, will give two open lectures on certain phases of physics Friday and Satur- day. The lectures are being sponsor- ed by Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary phy- sics society. Dr. Darrow will lecture on "Trans- mutation of Atomic Nucleii" in the Chemistry amphitheatre at 8 o'clock Friday night. He will deliver his sec- ond lecture on "Some Aspects of Nu-	Invitations and announcements for the commencement exercises will be available at the Student Union office, Old Main, from 2 until 5 o'clock Sat- urday afternoon. A meeting of Ph1 Eta Sigma will be held in Room 14, S. L. A., at 7 o'clock tomorrow night. Elections for next year's officers will be held at	trip of the coal mines in the Pitts- burgh district last week, visiting mines at Bruceton, Imperial, Library, and Wildwood. The trip was made under the su- pervision of Prof. John L. G. Weysser of the Mineral Industries department.
Editorial Office313 Old Main Business OfficeNittany Printing Building Phone 292-W	Thompson" that we've ever witnessed.	to be able to rent it at no more than 10% of the cost. How? By having some local or- ganizations buy the caps and gowns for $10 and rent them appually for	the leading writers and expositors on	Freshman editorial and business candidates for the Penn State En- gineer will report in Room 314, Old	(Matimee 1:30-Evening Opening 6:80 Complete Late Showing After 9 P. M.)
TUESDAY, MAY 16, 1933	Twas the Junior-Senior Girls' Reception and all the campus beauty was there, looking very lonely, and wistfully scanning the groups of faculty males	$1.00. Of this dollar, twenty-five cents could cover costs of pressing and moth balls, and seventy-five cents would be annual profit—a 7½%	has studied at the University of Chi- cago, University of Paris, and the University of Berlin. He is the au-	Distribution of La Vic will take place at the Student Union desk in	"THE WORKING MAN" WEDNESDAY
THE OTHER EXTREME? The announcement that Nate Cartmell, dean of the Nittany Lion coaching staff, has resigned his duties as	for someone with at least a twinkle in his eye. Things were getting pretty desperate and some of the girls were beginning to contemplate Naylor speculatively, when suddenly	profit, not counting small additional profits at February and August com- mencements. Fraternities could earn money this way—if they had money to invest. But since they don't, why	thor of the textbook "Introduction to Contemporary Physics" and numerous scientific articles in technical journals. Library? The explanation is this:		THURSDAY- Elisse Landi, Ernest Truex in track and field coach "under fire" has drawn more than passing attention from the student body of the College. The wave of indignation and criticism which followed	Enter Dunaway and Hesse resplendant in shining soup and fish Score: Thetas 2.	shouldn't local tailor shops get a good profit and at the same time save the seniors 50 to 60%? Now almost all the money goes out of town to agents	Money collected from over-due and lost books goes to the College, not to	The Student Council meeting sched- uled for tonight is postponed until further notice	Ruth Chatterton, George Brent in the announcement Saturday night is ample proof that student sentiment is strongly behind the deposed mentor. There are two sides to every case and the Cartmeil	Opponents 0.  We passed the Confection A. C. recently and had	gowns. With this dollar rental plan,	and "borrowed" books are usually those most in demand and purchases cannot be made until they have been out a certain length of time. It is		"LILLY TURNER" SATURDAY— Wheeler and Woolsey in "DIPLOMANIACS" situation is no exception. The administration may right- fully maintain that its action is justified on the grounds of future policy. Insubordination, failure to serve the required number of hours demanded in his contract, and	a very narrow escape. Just as we reached a point opposite the entrance to that estimable resort, the figure of a man came whizzing out and just missed knocking us into a History 21 final. It was Lachman.	a stiff deposit charge (perhaps $5) along with the rental fee so that none of the Thespians would walk off with the paraphernalia. But about con-	difficult, therefore, for the library to replace missing volumes immediately		NITTANY TUESDAY-

mand the resignation of any employee. And the contention that Cartmell refused to cooperate in the new athletic policy is an important reason for the refusal to renew his contract. Nevertheless, there are several facts which argue against the action of the Personnel Committee. Members of the group might well have taken into consideration the prominence and natural prestige that Cartmell lends to Penn State athletics by his position and reputation among the athletic coaches of America. They might have taken into consideration the fact that more mutual understanding might have eliminated Cartmell's alleged insubordination, and failure to conform to the requirements of his contract. They might have considered his record as a successful coach here in the last ten years, a record that stamped him as one of the leading mentors in the country. They might have considered the personnel of his teams, and recognized that his work hasn't been confined to turning out champions alone, but is character-building as well.

Members of Nittany Lion track and cross country teams who have taken part in metropolitan contests can readily testify to Cartmell's wide acquaintanceship with sports celebrities and men of his profession. It is this acquaintanceship, particularly with sports writers, that has resulted in much favorable publicity for Penn State. and it is this favorable publicity that has attracted countless students to the College.

Nate Cartmell's record as a coach stands for itself-there is little need to point out that Penn State cross country teams are recognized among the nation's leaders, that he has developed at least five individual intercollegiate track and field title-holders.

If Nate-goes, others of the old school of coaches will probably follow him. Good physical education instructors may replace good athletic coaches. Unsubsidized, winning intercollegiate teams may be sacrificed to an extensive intramural program. Both should be striven for; not one at the expense of the other. It might be questioned, therefore, whether Penn State's athletic policy is not progressing too far in the other extreme.

TWO LETTERS

Old Fussbudget's communication in today's Letter Box points out one angle of the cap and gown problem which has apparently been neglected. His suggestion is that some group, probably the local tailor shops, could buy caps and gowns and rent them each year to seniors, making about seventy-five cents profit on each outfit annually. This appears to be a sound proposal. Why should seniors pay even $2.00 to an out-of-town company when they could rent them for half the price from a local concern which has purchased the outfits from the company? Several years ago some faculty members were prepared to undertake this project, but they were discouraged by College officials. Surely if these men vere willing to invest their time and mone in a pro ject which would have the seniors money, there can be little justification for the College's attitude. Why couldn't the Student Union, Interclass Finance .committee, or some other student organization buy about 600 outfits and rent them to seniors? The saving would certainly be worth the trouble, and the backers could still make a profit.

"Hitlerite!"

The D. U.'s have at last found out the identity of the mysterious female who has been in the habit of calling the House at odd moments and having a nice chat with the brother who happens to answer the phone and refusing to divulge her name. Credit one more to Mr. Hines. Hello, Nancy! How's for giving us a ring some time? * * * * * *

It has always been our policy to keep as far away from serious or sensible material as possible. But even a columnist has a right to think once in a while,

For the last hour we've been sitting here listening to a reporter call faculty and student representatives for their opinion regarding Cartmell's resignation. The statements have been variously worded but they all boil down to the same thing.

The faculty states: "We have nothing to say. Our hands are tied." The undergraduates state: "It's a damn shame " Being an undergraduate we'll sign along with the student body and offer once again an old slogan of ours, "The Bez is none too good."

AS OTHERS SEE IT

CLASS ASSIGNMENTS

There is nothing more stifling to true initiative than the usual semester lists of class assignments. Write them or be damned, seems to be the helpful attitude that the college professor assumes.

It is really small wonder that the universities of the United States produce so few scientists. Of course Americans do stand fairly high in the ranks of scientific investigators, but very few of America's men of learning have been able to make more than a half-hearted beginning in their field while in school. It has only been after they have escaped from the unceasing flow of class assignments that they have been able to advance.

The fact is that the American system of universities is arranged to defeat the progress of any student above the group. The reasoning, if you can call it that, behind the arrangement has been most succintly put by a professor squelching a complaining student with, "Rats, college students can't think!"

And the professor may be assured that college students won't think as long as they are forced to do stereotyped lessons and notebooks.

ON LYING IN BED

One of the transient joys in this hectic world of ours, one of the most ecstatic, is the Olympian pleasure of lying deliciously relaxed on the soft surface of a bed and letting the body, mind and soul float away of their own volition.

used to cover the temporary deposit harge. Old Fussbudget To the Editor: Will a "stodgy student press" pro-test more vigorously with us against those who steal hundreds of dollars worth of books every month from the

© 1933, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO

Although those new ugly, grey bars look threatening, we'd like publically to toss our bouquet on the desk of Mr Lewis for his many other improvements and help him fill the stacks Now if the library could recover mor

Vours

Dwarf de Faa

of those books

"THE WOMAN I STOLE" WEDNESDAY-"PICTURE SNATCHER" THURSDAY-"FROM HELL TO HEAVEN"

The Corner

unusual

FRIDAY-"THE WARRIOR'S HUSBAND"

SATURDAY-"LILLY TURNER"

Just two words...

Yes, I have heard about two words; and now and then three words-but "They Satisfy"means"To gratify fully."

Why do these two words "they satisfy" fit Chesterfields? Because Chesterfield Cigarettes are milder. Because Chesterfield Cigarettes taste better.

Chesterfield's way of blending and cross-blending fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos brings out better flavor and aroma.

They Satisfy!

Another communicant, Dwarf de Faa, asks the "stodgy student press" to protest against those who purloin books from this library. But this "stodgy press" can do all the protesting and berating that it wants to, without so much as touching the sort of student who steals from the library. A previous editorial which appeared in this paper still applies to the book thieves. with a few stronger words thrown in for good measure. A matter of this sort is not so much the concern of the paper as it is of student groups such as Interfraternity Council and the new Non-Fraternity Inter-Unit Council. These organizations should consider the problem at their next meetings and devise some definite punishment for students found guilty of stealing library books.

To savor this delight to the utmost, it is necessary to be lying abed when common sense demands that the Sybarite be up and about his business. Unless certain such conditions are fulfilled, it is little or no pleasure to indulge in the experience. In fact there are times when it is a downright hardship to be tucked under the covers. Take for instance the fellow who is confined to his bed because of a slight illness. and who looks longingly out of the window at a soft. warm sky calling to him

Set the alarm for the time you should get up, or leave a call. Pull yourself upright and hang your feet over the bed. Hear the voices and movements of those who are beginning the day's labor. Feel the warm breeze on your face, gently closing your eyes. Think of the many reasons why you should get up. Topple over backwards and surrender, while saying slowly but with little conviction: "I simply must get up!" University Daily Kansan.

the cigarette that's milder the cigarette that tastes better