

COUNCIL DEFINES '33-'34 FRESHMAN CUSTOMS RULINGS

New Code Requires First Year Men To Carry Matches; Smoking Re-barred

REGULATIONS TO ALLOW WEARING OF JACKETS

Group Drops Stipulation That Yearlings Refrain From Using Front Walk

Final adoption of freshman customs for next year by Student Council, and the recommendation of Student Board increasing the powers of the Campus Police this week concluded the work of the two student government organizations for the school year.

Approving the report of the committee on freshman customs with a few minor changes, the Council revived the regulation compelling freshmen to carry matches and prohibiting them from smoking on the campus. A change in dress customs was made to allow first year men to wear jackets in place of coats, although the other regulations as to wearing the dink, black tie, and black hose remain unchanged.

Stands, Balcony Allotted to Plebes Other revisions include the elimination of the rule prohibiting freshmen from using the front campus walk, and the addition of the regulation compelling freshmen to occupy the East stands at New Beaver field and the balcony in Recreation hall. Move-up Day was set as the last Saturday in April, and all customs will apply until that time.

In giving their sanction to the regulations the members of Student Board emphasized the fact that the success of the customs for the coming year depends upon the entire student body. They reserved the right to suspend or abolish regulations at any time during the year if violations are not reported as they should be.

Recommend Police Power Increase The Board also recommended that Campus Police be given the power to take the names of students who may be guilty of gross misconduct in the vicinity of all-College dances on the campus, and at such other times and places on the campus where gross misconduct may be in evidence, this power to apply only in those cases when police are the only persons in authority.

The proposal provides that this power shall not apply to fraternity houses or the vicinity of fraternity houses on the campus. It also states that Campus Police shall not have the power to question or punish any offenders, their authority being limited to the taking of student offenders' names.

WELFARE MEETING WILL OPEN TODAY

Delegates' Registration at Nittany Lion Inn To Start This Morning at 10

Delegates from the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, and members of the College department of economics and sociology will hold the annual Centre County Welfare conference here today. Registration of delegates will begin at the Nittany Lion Inn.

"Welfare Work in Centre County" will be discussed by Mary S. Larabee, director of the Bureau of Children at Harrisburg, as the opening feature of the meeting, followed by a talk on "Helping a Community On Its Way To Self-Support," given by Prof. Roy D. Anthony, head of the department of pomology here. Prof. Willard W. Waller, of the department of economics and sociology, will preside.

President Ralph D. Hetzel will preside at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Inn, at which Mrs. Helen G. Tyson will talk on "Welfare Legislation, 1933 Gains and Losses." Mrs. Tyson is assistant deputy secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, at Pittsburgh.

At the final meeting, which will begin at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, two lectures will be given. "Pennsylvania's Program of Emergency Relief" will be the subject of Arthur Dunham, secretary of the Child Welfare Association of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, while H. A. Leitzell, a member of the Centre County Relief Relief Board, will talk on "Centre County's Program of Emergency Relief."

Plays Thespian Lead

H. GRACE BAER '34

THESPIANS TO GIVE 1933 SHOW AGAIN

Will Re-enact 'Old King Cole' in Auditorium on Friday Night, June 2

Closing their 1933 dramatic season, the Penn State Thespians will present "Old King Cole" for the third time as a part of Commencement Week activities, in Schwab auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Friday night.

As their last bit for the buskin organization, M. Dorothy Johnston '33, and Edwin S. Malmad '33, comedy artists, will appear in the roles of the "shady lady" and the talking third of the "unholy three" respectively.

Baer, Vance to Appear Mahlon L. Heist '33, and Mary E. Snyder '33, cast in lead roles, will also make their last appearance before a Penn State audience. Heist is playing the part of the young producer's father, while Miss Snyder will enact the "victim" role in connection with the "unholy three."

With the final curtain, H. Grace Baer '34, and Ralph B. Vance '34, juvenile leads, will have marked their third anniversary of Thespian stage work. Miss Baer will play the speaky dancer role, and Vance as the young producer.

Melodies from the pen of Willard E. Fichthorn '33 will be heard in the Friday night production. Fichthorn, who with Nevin S. Decker '34, and Charles F. (Duke) Morris '31, composed the songs for the show, will be lost to the club through graduation.

'FROTH' WILL RELEASE NEXT ISSUE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Featuring a cover design of a type never before used by the comic magazine, the Houseparty issue of Froth will be released Wednesday night, according to Maynard P. Wood '34, editor. The final installments of the two serials, "What I Did For College," by "Jack Oakie," and the imaginary interview with the president of Washington and Jefferson College, will also appear.

"A Practical Use For Your Diploma," useful suggestions to the graduate, "How To Get a Job," also advice to the ex-senior, and the usual gossip column, editorials, and jokes will appear. Among the art work are contributions by Don Gordon and "O. Soglow."

Dissatisfaction With I. M. Athletic Policy Disclosed by Student Poll

Substantiating the sentiment of the student committee appointed to investigate the intramural athletic program, an unofficial survey conducted this week by the COLLEGIAN shows that student opinion is against the athletic policies in practice at Penn State.

Of 210 students who were interviewed, 160 declared that they were dissatisfied with the present program. Of this group, however, only twenty three were recorded as favoring the complete elimination of intramurals from the athletic system.

When questioned as to whether they would approve of the modification of intercollegiate sports to allow for additional stress to be placed on intramural activities, every man voted in the negative.

This point was included in the list of major objections to the present system. The majority of those students included in the survey declared that they felt that more emphasis should be placed on the varsity competition, and that there should be no interference from intramural sports at all. "Too sissified" was the expression of one objector, who referred specifically to the innovation of touch football last fall. Another pointed out that he believed the average student did not receive any direct benefit from engaging in an intramural sport once or twice a season, without any supervised training.

WOMEN'S RUSHING PERIOD SHORTENED TO WEEK BY CODE

Revised Regulation Adopted by Panhellenic Council at Meeting Tuesday

MAGDA '34 APPOINTED COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

Unlimited Number of Fraternity Members, Rushees May Attend Parties

Reduction of the rushing period for women's fraternities from two weeks to one week features the revised rushing code adopted by Panhellenic Council at a meeting Tuesday. A silent period preceding the opening of the rushing season extending from the hour dormitories close the night before until the hour of the season's opening is also a new feature of the code.

Victoria R. Magda '34 was appointed chairman of the rushing committee at the meeting by Jane E. Lee '34, president of Panhellenic Council; Margaret E. Barnard '34 and Jeanne S. Kleckner '35 were made chairmen of the social and scholarship committees respectively.

Expenses Set at $45 Any number of fraternity women and rushees may attend unorganized parties, according to the new code, while formerly the number of each group was limited to six. Unorganized dates may last for two hours rather than being unlimited as before.

The $45 allowed each fraternity for formal and informal parties has been definitely defined for next year to include the expenses of the active fraternity women, alumni, advisers, patronesses, and for the rushees. Itemized accounts for these parties shall be presented to the Panhellenic rushing committee the last day of the rushing season. No gifts may be accepted to aid in rushing.

Will Use Date Cards Date cards to be issued will allow no. fraternity more than two dates with one rushee. Formerly four dates were permitted. Of these two allotted dates only one may be arranged for by a fraternity on the first day of rushing season.

Invitations for formal rushing parties must be received by rushees no later than noon the first day of rushing season. No date was set in former years. Rushees may attend only three formal parties rather than the unlimited number formerly allowed.

Graduate students, sophomore, junior, or senior transfers may be bid after one semester's registration, according to the rules. Regulations concerning bidding through the hands of a disinterested committee as was put into practice this year will be continued. The usual party arrangement of two each night and none on Sundays will be continued.

CHAPEL ENDED FOR SEASON

Because of the imminence of finals week, no chapel services will be held either Sunday morning or next Sunday morning. The next religious service in Schwab auditorium will be the Baccalaureate service at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Student Committee To Investigate I.M. Program Next Fall

Although the Cartmell controversy was found to have been definitely settled, dissatisfaction with the present system of intramural athletics here was expressed by a majority report of the committee appointed by Student Board to investigate the Cartmell resignation and to sound out sentiment regarding the intramural program.

"Because of the final action of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, this committee considers the Cartmell case definitely settled," the majority report read. "However, it is the sentiment of this committee that the program of intramural sports in itself and in relation to intercollegiate athletics at Penn State is not satisfactory."

The committee, which will conduct a thorough investigation of the system and report to the student body and administration next fall, is composed of John T. Ryan jr. '34, chairman, Walter C. Moser '33, Thomas J. Harper '34, Charles A. Myers '34, Thomas A. Slusser '34, William M. Stuegmeier '34, William G. Van Keuren '34, John M. Stocker '35, Richard A. Maurer '36, and J. Briggs Pruitt '36.

$3,250 GIVEN LOAN FUND BY SENIORS

Committee of 12 Men, Women Award Balance Remaining in Class Treasury

$3,250, the balance remaining unplaced in the senior class treasury, was awarded to the Student Loan Fund by a committee of twelve seniors Wednesday. At a previous meeting of the men's and women's classes, $1,000 was voted to support an Artists' Course here, necessitating a balance remaining to be returned to the class treasury at the end of five years.

The committee, appointed by John A. Wood '33 and Phyllis G. Beidler '33, senior class presidents, include Milton D. Baldinger, A. Albert Blass, Angelin Bressler, Elsie W. Darling, William T. Douglas jr., Harris Ebenbach, and Mable I. Hering. Alfred W. Hesse jr., Ralph D. Hetzel jr., Helen A. Hoover, Edwin S. Malmad, and Marian E. Potts are other seniors named on the committee.

Joint Committee Compromises The decision of the committee resulted as an aftermath of separate senior class meetings held May 3. At that time, both sections of the class voted to give $1,000 to the support of the proposed Artists' Course.

The men and women recommended different methods of disposition for the balance of $3,250. The men voted to give the money to the Student Loan Fund, to be used without interest, for five years, and then returned to the class fund. The class could then return that amount to the fund if so desired.

CODE FOR RUSHING AMENDED BY I.F.C.

Fraternities' Activities Chart Next Fall Will Require Approval Of Council Group

Two articles, embodied in an amendment to the Ebenhoch code, concerning rushing fraternity activities charts as an aid to individual rushing were passed by the Interfraternity Council Wednesday night.

Fraternities wishing to compile an activities chart to aid during rushing season will be required to have it approved by the Council rushing committee, according to one clause in the amendment. The second article provides that violators of the first clause be penalized in accordance with the regulations governing other rules of the 1933-34 rushing code.

Edward W. York '34 was appointed chairman of the Council rushing committee for next year by President Herman C. Brand '34. Others included on the committee are Jack R. Aldrich '34, Ray I. Longenecker '34, Ralph B. Vance '34, Robert O. Graham jr. '35, Edward W. Jones '35, and A. Kenneth Maier '35.

During the summer the Council committee on housing will compile a complete list of rooms available only during the duration of the rushing period in September.

HONORARY SOCIETY INSTALLS CHAPTER

11 Members of Local Association Initiated Into National of Alpha Delta Sigma

Eleven members of the Penn State Advertising club were installed as the twenty-fourth chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national honorary advertising fraternity, at an initiation held yesterday afternoon. At a dinner meeting last night, the new organization was addressed by Dr. Carl W. Hasek, of the department of economics and sociology, and by Guy Z. Stover, as a representative of the local Commerce club.

Robert M. Harrington '33, who was president of the local organization, and Willard D. Nester '33, secretary, are the temporary local officers of the fraternity. Other new members of the advertising honorary include James R. Gallagher '33, Robert E. Gray '33, William A. Ridell '33 and Harry A. Will '33. The list concludes with Harold J. Batsch '34, S. Jack Caraher '34, John G. Keeney '34, Frederick L. Taylor '34 and Richard G. Wolf '34.

Installation of the group was in charge of Arthur Hallam, grand secretary of the fraternity, who arrived recently from Evansville, Wisconsin, to prepare for the affair. The national honorary was established at the University of Missouri in 1913.

Among the chapters of the fraternity are organizations at New York, Boston, and Syracuse Universities, and at the Universities of Illinois, California, Washington, and at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, as well as at sixteen other colleges and universities in the United States.
