

POST TO CONDUCT MEMORIAL PARADE

Congressman Kurtz Will Deliver Address at Services on Field Next Tuesday

Contrary to rumors that exercises on Memorial Day would be abolished because of the recent withdrawal of all commissioned officers from Penn State, definite assurance that they would be held and that student participation would be entirely voluntary, was voiced by Herbert R. Kinley, commander of the local American Legion post, yesterday.

J. Banks Kurtz, Republican Congressman, representing the Twenty-first Congressional district of Pennsylvania, has been chosen to deliver the Memorial Day address on Holmes field Tuesday morning. Congressman Kurtz has been elected to the office for six consecutive terms and is a member of the Judiciary committee at Washington.

Students To Conduct Services Born in Altoona, Mr. Kurtz was graduated from Dickinson College in 1893 receiving his degree of Bachelor of Law. He immediately began law practice in Altoona and continued there until his election to Congress in 1925. Student services will be conducted at President's plaque in the rear of Old Main at 9:15 o'clock. The firing squad will fire three volleys in honor of the dead, followed by taps. The group will hold further services at the memorial trees on the front campus when wreaths will be placed on the trees in honor of alumni who gave their lives in past wars.

Penn State in China

To the Editor: It has been my privilege as a trustee of Lingnan University at Canton, China, to see something of the work of Dean G. W. Groff, a graduate of Penn State. For about twenty years Dean Groff and his wife have given their full lives to the welfare of the people of South China. They are people of outstanding charm and culture whose home life I have been privileged to see on the campus at Lingnan University. Their home is the kind which is needed in China in order to give the Chinese an idea of what is best in our American civilization. There are undoubtedly many people still living at State College who can speak for the importance of this work and for the consecrated service of Dean and Mrs. Groff. But I am glad to send to your student body this brief statement of my appreciation of their services in connection with one of the most influential and far-sighted institutions which Americans have founded and fostered in China.

'Collegian' Suspends Publication Today

With this issue, the COLLEGIAN will suspend publication until the opening of the regular College term next fall. Because of finals week and because so many seniors are leaving State College early this year, no paper will be published either Tuesday or next Friday. As the first issue of the next term, a special edition containing explanatory features and general instructive news will be mailed to all applicants for admission to the College approximately two weeks before Freshman Week begins.

Lack of space prevents further expansion of the pacifist's contentions. GAYLE V. STRICKLER '34

To the Editor: The "Informed Student" reserves the right to assert his idea of service to his country. So do the rest of us. We who refuse to become cannon fodder because of the blunders of capitalists and governmental officials look to a new way of serving our country. We are now convinced that the best way to show our allegiance is to use intelligence (which is genuine "common sense") in understanding the causes of wars, and to demand that those statesmen who represent us shall absolutely rely upon conciliatory methods to solve international disputes. We realize we owe a debt to our country for our glorious habit, but we differ in the way we shall pay that debt. We believe it is folly to try to convince men or nations of the rightness or wrongness of a point of view by slaughtering them. When the majority of citizens become pacifists, their wishes will have to be respected. ROLAND R. RITTER '34

To the Editor: In Tuesday's COLLEGIAN, an "Informed Student" states: "I do not believe in militarism or pacifism. I believe in good common sense." We hold the same view, but our idea of "good common sense" is not the glorification of war; it is the realization that the harm resulting from wars greatly outweighs any benefit one might claim for them. We cannot accept the argument that the next war would not be worse than the last. But suppose it should be no worse; would that convince anyone that we should start another war? Who wants another experience like that last one—millions of men killed and wounded, whole countries torn up, orphans and widows with no homes, disease spreading—and now, fifteen years afterward, we are still squabbling about who won, and what lands and rights each nation should have.

Cap, Gown Allotment Will Begin Tomorrow

Distribution of caps and gowns for baccalaureate and graduation exercises will take place in Room 305, Old Main, beginning next Saturday morning, according to Charles A. Landis '33, chairman of the caps and gowns committee. Students desiring to order either caps or gowns should call Landis, at 670 before Sunday night.

Hours during which distribution will take place are as follows: from 9 until 12 o'clock in the morning, and from 1:30 until 3 o'clock in the afternoon; Sunday, from 1:30 until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and Monday, from 2 until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A $10 cash or check deposit will be required upon acceptance of the gown, which fee, however, will be refunded upon return of the regalia immediately following graduation exercises. Checks will not be deposited unless gowns are damaged or not returned.

DR. BEAVENS TO MAKE BACCALAUREATE SPEECH

Dr. Beavens will give the valedictory address. The exercises will be closed with the singing of the alma mater. Eleven student marshals and eight faculty marshals were selected recently to head the various Schools in the Commencement procession. In each case, the student marshals are the highest ranking, scholastically, in their respective Schools, according to Prof. C. E. Bullinger, College marshal.

Eugene L. Jack '33, and Prof. A. L. Beam are marshals for the School of Agriculture, while Andrew C. Michel '33, and Dr. D. C. Duncan are School of Chemistry and Physics representatives. A. Elizabeth Endress '33, and Prof. J. F. Fries will head the School of Education division in the procession. From the School of Engineering are Paul L. Fox '33, and Prof. S. B. Colgate. Robert E. Teschan '33, and Dr. F. B. Krauss are marshals of the School of Liberal Arts, and Gilbert H. Espenshade '33, and Prof. O. B. Malin of the School of Mineral Industries. Jesse H. Brewster '33, and Prof. E. C. Dana are School of Physical Education marshals, while Clifford O. Jensen, graduate student, and Prof.

Campus Bulletin

Women candidates for La Vie will bring all assignments to the office by 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Final distribution of announcements and invitations for commencement exercises will take place in Room 302.

Charles C. Peters will represent the graduate school. William C. Burry '33, Jesse D. Conn '33, and William P. Nolan '33 will head the R. O. T. C. section of the annual ceremony.

Candidates for degrees will meet at the following places at 3:15 Monday: School of Liberal Arts—in front of South Liberal Arts building; School of Education—in front of Education office building; School of Agriculture—in front of Agriculture building; School of Chemistry and Physics—in west side of Pond Labor-atory; School of Engineering—in front of Main Engineering building; School of Physical Education candidates will meet in front of Recreation hall; graduate school candidates should assemble on the north side of the new Botany building.

Old Main, from four to five o'clock this afternoon. Notification of distribution of programs will be made by signs posted downtown tomorrow.

Students interested in trips to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago this summer, at greatly reduced rates, should call at the Penn State Christian Association office, 304 Old Main, for further information.

All persons interested in writing or editorial work on the Old Main Bell will meet in Room 315, Old Main, at 7 o'clock tonight. Manuscripts for the September issue of the Bell should be submitted to William Stegmeier at the Sigma Nu house before June 1.
