

HARD DRILL PERIOD AWAITS SOCCERMEN

Coach Jeffrey To Stage Daily Practices Before First Game With Temple

By A. CONRAD HAIGES '35
With a well-defined training policy in mind, Coach Bill Jeffrey will enter another season of intensive practice with his soccer proteges. After a few days of experimentation with the varsity men and others who have returned, he will be able to disclose their weak "spots".

With only four weeks intervening before the opening major tilt here, Bill will supply the men with limbering-up exercises, scrimmages, lectures, and passing the ball. In an endeavor to build up their reserve strength, stiff preparation will be administered, he added.

Better Material Available

Daily practice will be staged on Beaver field every afternoon in an attempt to mould the 1933 aggregation of booters into a strong squad. Coach Jeffrey states that a better quality of material is prevalent this year and it is almost assumed that a better season will ensue. Last year's results proved the worst in eight years showing only three wins out of six tilts.

With Captain "Shorty" Edwards, Dick Sigel, Finsel, Fletcher, Bob Graham, Dutch Wolfe, and Lindquist all lettermen, practically assured of posts, Jeffrey will easily find men to fill vacancies on the soccer men's lineup. Unfortunately, Casterline, Varsity man, has been forced to leave the ranks because of heart trouble.

To Encounter Five Squads

The Blue and White booters will encounter five stiff squads during their fall meets. Temple University is listed as the first aggregation which will be fought on New Beaver field October 14. The strength of the Lion aggregation will be determined at this meeting, according to the mentor.

The following week, the Nittany men will travel to Annapolis, meeting Navy in presumably the toughest game of the schedule. Lafayette Leopards will offer opposition here October 28, while Syracuse is named to engage in another home tilt November 14. The final encounter will be fought here November 18 when the soccer men meet the University of Illinois team.

BOARD WILL PLAN FALL I. M. PROGRAM

Football, Horseshoes, Bowling, Cross-Country Included In Early Tournaments

Organization of an intra-mural athletics program for this fall will be effected at a meeting of the Intra-mural Board early next week, according to J. Perry Morgan '34, president of the board.

Plans for competition in the fall sports, football, cross-country, and horseshoes, will be discussed at the first meeting in an attempt to get the fall tournament started early. The first part of the bowling tournament will also be run off during the fall season.

Bezdek Award Delayed

Failure of the various competing units to submit complete reports of their activities before the end of College last spring has caused a delay in the selection of the winner of the Hugo Bezdek Trophy, Morgan declared. If all reports are submitted before the council meets, the winner will be selected and announced at a mass meeting early this fall.

A summary of last year's tournament winners shows Sigma Nu, Sigma Pi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon each holding championships in two sports tournaments. Sigma Nu emerged victorious in soccer and track competition, Sigma Pi won the basketball and horseshoes tournaments, while Sigma Phi Epsilon secured the football and volleyball titles.

Board Members Listed

In the other sports Phi Kappa Tau won the boxing crown, the Eta matmen won the wrestling finals, and Kappa Delta Rho the bowling trophy. The cross-country championship was won by the Tape Breakers Union, a non-fraternity unit team, while the miscellaneous tournament was won by the Associated Commons Club.

William H. Crown jr. '34 will direct the fall intra-mural program, Charles R. Gies '34 will have charge of the winter tournaments, and John B. Hewitt '34 has been named as manager for the spring sports. The three seasonal managers will serve as assistants to Morgan, who is manager of the intra-mural activities for the entire year, and all four are members of the Intra-mural Board.

Other members of the board include Herman C. Brandt '34 president of Inter-fraternity Council, John T. Ryan '34 Senior class president, Charles A. Myers '34, editor of the COLLEGIAN and Manlio F. DeAngelis, president of the Inter-unit council. Eugene C. Bischoff, assistant professor of physical education, serves as faculty advisor for the group.

Nittany Gridmen Will Face 2 New Opponents This Fall

Schedule Also Calls for Resumption of Athletic Relations in Football With 5 Other Teams on 1933 Card

Two new opponents appear on the 1933 Lion football schedule, while all five of the other games will see the resumption of gridiron relations.

Both Columbia University and Johns Hopkins University, are new opponents for a Lion eleven. Johns Hopkins, one of the oldest institutions in the country, and Nittany Lion representatives have never competed in any sport, but Columbia played the Blue and White baseball team last year.

Following a break of football relations as a sequel to the 1929 game, the Lions will again meet the University of Pennsylvania on historic Franklin Field, Philadelphia. The series with the Quakers began in 1890 and since that time thirty-one games have been played. The last game played was won by the Lions by a 15-10 score.

Lebanon Valley appears as the opener on the schedule for the second consecutive year. The series, which began in 1905 and has continued unbroken since 1920, is the longest that the Lions have participated in, and every game has resulted in a Penn State victory.

Muhlenberg College met the Lions twice in football, the first in 1914 and the second in 1920. Both games resulted in Lion victories, 22-0 and 27-0.

When the Lions meet Lehigh University in the third game of the season, it will be the thirteenth time that the two teams have clashed on the gridiron. The first game was played in 1888 and the last in 1931, a post-season unemployment-benefit game in Philadelphia. In that game the Lions routed the Brown and White by a 33-0 count.

The Syracuse game, scheduled for November 4, has been played on a home-return basis every year since 1922. Syracuse has won six times, the Nittany eleven twice, and three have resulted in tie scores.

HARRIERS TO SEEK LAST LEG ON CUP

Lion Runners Hope to Retire IC-IA Trophy in November Meet At New York City

With an eye to retiring the intercollegiate cup at the races in Van Courtland park this fall at the IC-IA meet, Coach "Chick" Werner, new Nittany track mentor, has started the training grind for the harriers.

Several outstanding men from last year's squad are back this year, including Captain Rischel. With Rischel will run George Harvey, who won a medal in his freshman year at the intercollegiate in New York City. These two men promise to be the mainstays of the team.

Among the likely sophomore candidates for the varsity runners this year are Vance Packard, who shows much promise, Jack Licht, and Book, who last year led the freshman team in its dual meet against Pittsburgh at the Point city.

Paul Vandermark and Joe Alexander have been watched carefully by Werner who believes that steady, hard training will give them an improved showing over last year. Werner hopes to have a squad of sixty or more candidates, all of whom will be given an opportunity to display their possibilities.

Miles of Bandages Play Part on Lion Calendar of Sport

Even those catiffs of campus sports kings, assistant sports managers, probably fail to realize the quantities of adhesive tape, anaesthetics, cotton batting, and salve that will pass through their hands before the current season ends. Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics has compiled the following statistical observations covering the coverings used on Nittany athletes.

Gauze bandages wound about Penn State athletes during a single season would, if tied end to end, form a kite tail two and two-thirds miles long. During the same period, one-and-one-eighth miles of adhesive tape lends its sticky self to keeping athletes "sticking in there."

To keep Lion athletes "contest conscious" 500 ammonia inhalants, five bottles of smelling salts, and a quart of aromatic spirits suffice for a season's revivals. Always well-dressed, Penn State athletes cannot go through a season on less than ten bottles of new skin, three quarts of mercurochrome, and a quart and a half of iodine.

In addition to the above, cotton seed oil features to the extent of six gallons while ten-and-a-half quarts of antiseptics, and eight quarts of alcohol (wood) are used during a sports season.

Much has been printed about tobacco

"cool" "burns slowly"
"doesn't smoke hot" "don't bite"

And all of these things can be said about Granger—the tobacco that's made to smoke in a pipe.

Granger is made of White Burley Tobacco—it's made by Wellman's Method, the right process—it's packed right. Folks seem to like it—just try it.
