STAGE CREW SELECTED AS PLAYERS REHEARSE

Property, Costume Managers Named For "The Butter and Egg Man"

Ralph H. Levine '34 has been named stage manager for "The Butter and Egg Man" to be presented by the Penn State Players in Schwab auditorium Saturday, October 14. Elsie M. Douthett '35 will have charge of properites, while Edith R. Cotton '35 has been named costume manager.

"The Butter and Egg Man," given in a modern setting, deals with the attempts of two theatrical producers, Joseph Lehman and Jack McClure, played by Paul K. Hirsch '35 and John E. Binns '36, to produce a big moral play, "Her Lesson," on Broadway. As the show is about to fail to open because of lack of finances, Peter Jones, played by Kutzer L. Richards '36, a potential "angel" from Ohio, is found who gives them twenty thousand dollars with which he wished to buy a hotel in Chilicothe, Ohio.

The plot from there goes on with his troubles as a producer, "Her Lesson" turns out to be a success, and Jones finds another butter and egg man, played by Henry K. Moulthrop '34, who buys him out, and he returns to Chilicothe and buys his hotel.

Sidney H. Benjamin '33 will be in charge of a dance transportation service for students who desire to hear orchestras playing near State College this winter. Under a specail contract one price will entitle a student to transportation to and from the dance and admittance to the dance, according to Benjamin.
