STURDY COLUMBIA LINE KEEPS LION ELEVEN HELPLESS

King Leo's Stalwarts Steamroll Way to 33-0 Victory Over Tired Nittanymen

SCORE TWICE THROUGH FORWARD PASS ROUTE

Higginsmen Threaten in Third Quarter, But Fumble Checks Drive

By FRED W. WRIGHT '35

Outweighed from ten to fifteen pounds at various stages of the game, a Nittany Lion line was unable to cope with Leo Columbia's forward wall and therein lies the story of Penn State's 33-0 defeat in Baker Field, New York City, Saturday afternoon.

Crushed by repeated failures to penetrate the impregnable forward wall—both on the defensive and offensive, the Nittany eleven battered itself to death in the beginning of the game like the petrydactyl of old.

Score in Spurts

Despite constant threats from the Columbia machine from the opening whistle, the Lions held King Leo at bay until the last eight minutes of the second half. Fumbles, penalties, and brilliant kicking by Quarterback "Red" O'Hara kept the hostiles in midfield most of the time. Columbia's closest threat was stopped on the thirty-five-yard line.

Worn out by futile attempts to pierce an impregnable forward wall, the Nittany Lions twice were scored upon late in the second quarter. Captain Cliff Montgomery ghosted through the Lion eleven from his own thirty-five-yard line to the Nittanymen's twenty-six. Only one play was necessary for a touchdown, with Al Barabas going the remaining twenty-six yards.

Newt Wilder, Columbia's 200-pound All-American center possibility, had to kick three times before the point-after touchdown was allowed. Both teams were twice off-sides.

Passes Score for Columbia

The second Columbia score came eight plays later. A fumble by "Lefty" Knapp, which was recovered by Right Guard Dzamba, gave Leo the ball on Penn State's forty-four-yard line. Tomb skirted right end for twenty-three yards, and then tossed a pass to McDowell, left end, on the goal line. Brominski's kick flubbed, but Columbia held a 13-0 advantage at the half and, except for two scoring plays, they had never been beyond their own twenty-yard line!

With the opening of the second half, the Columbia Lions began where they left off, and in eight minutes had two more touchdowns. Fullback Bill Cooper kicked off over the goal line and the ball was put in play on the twenty-yard line, where King Leo's stalwarts launched a sustained drive that culminated in a touchdown. Montgomery carried the ball five times and Barabas once to bring the ball to the Nittany thirty-yard line, and then Brominski tossed a pass to McDowell on the eight-yard line and he went across unmolested. Brominski's kick was good this time.

But an aroused Columbia eleven

CLASS TO PRODUCE PLAYS

Six one-act plays will be presented by students in stage production sometime the latter part of November. Students will direct the plays themselves and the technical staff will be composed of members of Professor Cloetingh's class in stagecraft.

A. A. Adds Game to Booters' Schedule

In order for the Nittany Lion soccer squad to become eligible for the eastern intercollegiate soccer championship, officials of the Athletic Association have scheduled an additional encounter with the University of Springfield, to be played here Saturday, November 25. This raises the number of varsity games to a total of six.

Heretofore only Navy, Lafayette and Syracuse were included in this season's varsity soccer schedule as contenders for the championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Association, but with the addition of this game, it will enable the Penn State squad to vie for the cup once more. Nittany booters won the championship in 1926, and again in 1929.

67 Honor Societies, Clubs To Receive Questionnaires

Honor Society Council Will Conduct Survey At Request of College Senate

In an effort to clear up the honoraries situation here, questionnaires are being sent today to sixty-seven honor societies and clubs by the Honor Society Council in cooperation with the Student Union. The survey is being conducted at the request of the College Senate, with Ernest J. Kaulfuss '34, president of the Council, in charge.

Because this is done at the Senate request, Kaulfuss pointed out that it is imperative that all societies answer this survey. All questionnaires are to be returned to the Student Union desk in Old Main by November 7.

The first of the nine questions that are listed asks the number of juniors and seniors elected yearly, and the size of the active chapter. The second point will try to establish the amount of constructive work that the society attempts to accomplish on the campus and among students. All honoraries will also be asked how often meetings are held and for what purpose. In addition, they will be requested the amount of the initiation fee, as well as telling what proportion fee is diverted to the national office from the local treasury.

The fifth question to be answered deals with the problem of yearly dues. If any considerable outlay of money is made every year, the purpose for which it is used, is asked. Each society will be asked to list the official key, pin, or shingle of the organization.

The survey will also attempt to determine the legitimate returns from assessments sent to a national office as well as the duties and projects of that national office. In conclusion, the questionnaire asks the exact number of members now in the society.

WOMEN WILL AID BOND ISSUE DRIVE

President Hetzel Asks W.S.G.A. To Help Distribute Cards To State Voters

At the request of President Hetzel, and in cooperation with the men's student organizations, the Women's Student Government Association has organized all women students in the campaign for the passing of Amendment Number 8.

Eva M. Blichfeldt '34, W. S. G. A. president, met last Wednesday with the members of the women's House of Representatives, the Public Affairs Committee of the Y. W. C. A., members of Archon, and Cyens, to explain to them the importance of the amendment and the method of campaign.

Will Interview Women

Elsie M. Douthett '35, as chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, is acting as head of the extensive drive through which each woman student will be interviewed by a member of the committee. In this way campaign cards will be distributed to the entire women's student body who are in turn requested to send them to their voting friends throughout the State.

The cards are printed, needing only an address and signature. They express a plea to the voters of Pennsylvania to support Amendment Number 8, explaining how very important it is to the welfare of the Pennsylvania State College and its students that the bill be passed.

Women students in charge of the card distribution are: Rosamund W. Kaines '34, Fern A. Shoemaker '34, A. Lorraine Graham '36, Anne M. McCaughey '36, and Solena A. Wunderlich '36.

SHORT COURSE IN POULTRY CARE STARTS NOVEMBER 13

Instruction in various phases of poultry care and management will be started here by the poultry department on Monday, November 13, and will continue until Thursday, November 16. This is the thirteenth successive year that these annual short courses have been offered.

Opportunity is offered for each member of the course to obtain personal advice and counsel from specialists. Speakers on the four-day program are Prof. Herman C. Kramdel, Prof. Ernest W. Callenbach, Prof. Dean R. Marble, and Mr. Robert R. Murphy, all of the poultry husbandry department; and Prof. Frederick P. Weaver, of the department of agricultural economics.

DEADLINE SET FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

Applications for Rhodes Scholarships must be sent in to Frank Aydelotte, American secretary, before November 18. The elections will be held the first week in January, according to a letter received here by Willard P. Lewis, College librarian.

The applications must first be approved by College authorities here. No limitation has been placed upon the number of applicants from any one college.

CORRECTION IN DANCE DATE

Friday night is the correct date of the dual dance of Varsity and Watts hall, which will be held in Recreation hall. The price of admission will be twenty-five cents per person, and customs will be off for the freshmen who attend.

'PANICS OF 1933' SHOW COMPLETED

Plot, Music Written by Norris, Cloetingh, Morris for Annual Revue

Houseparty guests will be given an opportunity to see a strictly Penn State production when the Penn State Players, Thespians and Glee club present the "Panics of 1933" in Schwab auditorium Saturday, November 11.

The plot and music for the revue have been written by Prof. Arthur C. Cloetingh, of the department of English literature, James S. Norris '32, who is back in school this year, and Frank F. "Duke" Morris '31.

Revue To Consist of 2 Acts

The revue will consist of two acts, including twenty scenes. The story is built around a radio broadcasting studio. The first act is laid in the casting office of a studio, while the second act will portray a big broadcast from a roof garden of a well-known New York hotel.

Four brand-new chorus numbers have been written for the "Panics," while several well-known numbers have been composed. More comedy than usual has been added to the plot by the co-authors.

The show this year has been written with the object of speed and fast changes between the scenes. The days so common to other productions of a similar nature will be eliminated by this, the directors of the show believe.

SHEEN ADDRESSES CHAPEL AUDIENCE

Catholic University Professor Talks On Divine Sense of Humor In Everyday Life

Stating that the world today has lost its sense of humor, Dr. Fulton J. Sheen, professor of the philosophy of religion at Catholic University, addressed a large congregation at the chapel services, Sunday morning. Using "The Divine Sense of Humor" as his subject, Dr. Sheen advised his audience to cultivate the ability of seeing humor in the ridiculous doctrines proposed by scientists and philosophers.

Dr. Sheen described humor as the ability to see through the bare facts of life into the deeper meaning beyond. "Humor was first brought into the world," Dr. Sheen continued, "by ancient man who looked at the sun and saw something more than an orb which rose and fell once a day and looked at the snow and saw something more than a white layer that covered the ground."

The spirit of Christ was used by Dr. Sheen to exemplify the divine sense of humor which was shown to the world in a new way after his birth. "Christ used his sense of humor," Dr. Sheen stated, "to give greater significance to common things in his parables of the blind veil, the fig tree, the soil and the vase of old wine."

Illustrating his subject in the life of present-day people, Dr. Sheen stressed the eternal significance to be derived from the performance of our common, ordinary duties each day. "When we are called to eternity," he explained, "we will not need to account for the marvels we have accomplished but we will be judged on the use we have made of our particular lot in life."

C. A. FINANCE DRIVE ENDS $1,106 SHORT OF $4,400 MARK

Incomplete Returns at Close of Canvass Friday Show $3,293 Total

WOMEN'S DIVISION MOST NEARLY REACHES GOAL

Drive Will Continue in Effort To Contact Every Remaining Student in College

With final reports still incomplete at the close of the Penn State Christian Association office on Saturday, the annual 1933-34 finance drive of the association was short $1,106 of the $4,400 goal sought by the canvassers.

Although an additional several hundred dollars is expected to be turned in by individual campaigners in the next two days, the final total will still be below the anticipated goal. Of the three groups, the women's division came nearest to their goal with the collection of $475 of the required $600. Faculty Raises Only $578

Of the hoped-for mark of the men's division, set at $2,600 at the beginning of the drive, the division managed to collect $2,230 during the four days of the drive. The faculty division raised $578, dropping short of their mark of $1,200 by $622.

Albert E. Diem '35 was chairman of the men's division, of the student drive, while Dorothy E. Mergenthaler '34 acted as chairman of the women's forces. Prof. J. Orvis Keller, head of the department of engineering extension, was in charge of the faculty drive.

Will Continue Drive

According to William L. Hamaker, assistant secretary of the P. S. C. A., the women's total is almost complete. However, the returns from the men's drive and the faculty drive will not be finished until late this week. During this interval, a final effort will be made to contact every remaining student in the College.

Charts kept from day to day during the campaign disclose that the combined divisions had collected $934.50 by Tuesday night, $938.55 additional by Wednesday night, $835.65 additional was checked in Thursday night, and $585.00 was collected on Friday, making the total $3,293.70 for the four-day canvass.

In the men's division, William L. Hamaker's team led with the collection of $694 during the four-day period. Albert E. Diem's team was a close second, with $604.25.

The team of Andrew A. Borland, head of the dairy husbandry department, led the faculty division in collections with the sum of $369, while the team of Harry W. Seamans, secretary of the association, secured $251.90 to lead the women's division.

In a notice issued at the Christian Association offices in Old Main this morning, the secretary of the organization requested all newly subscribed members who contributed $2.50 in the drive and did not receive a membership card, to apply immediately at the office where they would be given one.

FACULTY MEMBERS ATTEND REGIONAL A. S. M. E. MEETING

Several members of the engineering faculty attended a regional meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at Elmira, N. Y., on Friday and Saturday.

BLASINGAME WRITES BOOK

Prof. Ralph U. Blasingame, head of the department of agricultural engineering, is co-author with Dr. J. Brownlee Davidson of Iowa State College and Prof. Glenn W. McCuen of Ohio State University of a book entitled "Report of an Inquiry into Changes in Quality Values of Farm Machinery between 1910 and 1932." It is a comprehensive study of the development of twenty-five principal agricultural machines and their working parts.

M. E. FACULTY HOLDS PARTY

Fourteen members of the department of mechanical engineering and their guests held their annual party at Cyprus Hall Saturday night. After a chicken dinner, original games were played. The committee in charge consisted of Dr. Clarence H. Kent and Clarence G. Vandegrift of the mechanical engineering department.

Pinchot Names 5-Point Plan of Liquor Control In Address Here Friday

Stand Called 'Famous Pinchot Straddle' By Hazlett

"A beautiful example of the famous Pinchot straddle," was the observation of James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Republican city committee. "He threw a sop to the wets because he knows repeal is inevitable and nothing can be done about it."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Mr. Pinchot has been anticipated by Senator Reed and others, both wet and dry, who favor a different method of issuing licenses if licensing is to be instituted.—Public Ledger.

If it had been the thought of many citizens that the Governor was ready with a definite plan of his own, that thought is not borne out by his own statements of yesterday. Rather, he has laid down certain propositions which, on their face, are conservative and lend themselves to dispassionate discussion at Harrisburg. . . . He pins his faith for a solution of the liquor problem upon these two forces, ignoring an in-between class with "a personal thirst, a personal money profit or a personal political profit" to serve.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Whether the Governor will go into conference with legislative leaders with an open mind, and be ready to agree to conclusions honestly arrived at remains to be seen.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Governor's speech of yesterday, while lacking in specific suggestions, indicates that he has been giving much consideration to this subject.—Public Ledger.

Governor Pinchot 'Solidly Backing' Amendment No. 8

"I want the students at Penn State to know that I am solidly backing the drive for the passage of Amendment Number 8 in November," Governor Gifford S. Pinchot replied on Friday when asked to make clear his position on the proposed bond issue. "If there is anything that I have left undone to secure its passage, I want to be told just what it is."

"I believed that the chances of the passage of Amendment Number 8 are very good," the State's chief executive answered, "but every man, woman and child in the State must work their hardest between now and election day in order to insure its approval."

Old Main most impressed the Governor on his visit here. In answer to questions concerning his stand on government-operated liquor stores after repeal and his possible candidacy for United States Senator next year he was smilingly non-committal.

Alumni Compose More Than Half Of 97 Graduate School Members

Over fifty percent of the new students entering the graduate school for the first time this fall received their bachelor's degrees from this College, according to figures released by Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, College examiner.

While the usual admission to the graduate school includes from sixty-five to seventy percent of students receiving bachelor degrees from other institutions, the decrease in entrants of this class establishes a record for recent years.

"This is not to be taken as an indication of the limited attraction of the graduate school," stated Dr. Marquardt. "Quite the contrary exists," he explained, "in that students this year have enrolled from various parts of the State as well as from every section of the United States."

Included among the ninety-seven new students who have enrolled thus far in the school are graduates of the Universities of Chicago, Colorado, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Michigan, Washington, Columbia University, Northwestern University, and Syracuse University. The University of Pennsylvania has contributed three graduate students; M. I. T., three; Juniata, two; Franklin and Marshall, two; and Goucher College, two.

So far, the total number of ninety-seven new admissions is less than the normal number of last year which is taken as a probable indication of better economic conditions.

Capacity Crowd Hears Governor Submit His Views

Advocating a five-point program of policy to be followed when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, Governor Gifford Pinchot made known his stand on the liquor problem in a speech in Schwab auditorium Friday afternoon.

"Nothing is more obvious than that the American people have decided against the Eighteenth Amendment. The decision has not yet been recorded. But beyond all question it has been made," he stated.

1,500 Crowd Auditorium

About 1,500 people filled Schwab auditorium to capacity to hear the Governor, who was introduced by President Ralph D. Hetzel. About 200 people were enabled to hear the

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY PLANNED BY UNION

Calendar of All Weekly Events Will Appear in Alternate Issues of 'Collegian'

A calendar of weekly events to be published officially in the COLLEGIAN each week was definitely decided upon by the Student Union at a meeting held in Old Main last Thursday night.

Deans of all the schools and secretaries of various organizations are requested to make a notification of all meetings and events planned, at the Student Union desk each week for publication. The calendar of events will be published in this paper as soon as arrangements are completed.

Carson W. Kulp '34 was appointed head of the Student Loan Fund committee, which will be composed of one junior from each activities group. Jacob M. Stark '34 was appointed head of the Student Union dance committee aided by K. Jane Lee '34, Herman C. Brandt '34, John T. Ryan Jr. '34, and Prof. Hummel Fishburn, a member of the faculty.

The date of the first of a series of free all-College Union dances will be decided by the dance committee before the next meeting of the Student Union. With the list of all public occasions, all major dance dates will be drawn up within the next two weeks, which will be subject to approval by the Student Board.

Monthly reports were given by the Women's Student Government Association, Men's Student Government, Honors Society Council, Interfraternity Council, Penn State Christian Association, and the Non-Fraternity unit at the meeting. Additional reports will be given later.

Included in the first-year enrollment this term are seventy-four men and twenty-three women. Fifty-four are working for the Master of Science degree, twenty-five for their Master of Arts, ten for Doctor of Philosophy and eight for Master of Education degree.

The largest number have selected work for their majors in the School of Liberal Arts, with an enrollment of twenty-nine, followed by the School of Chemistry and Physics with twenty-five; School of Agriculture, thirteen; School of Engineering, thirteen; School of Education, eleven, and School of Mineral Industries, three. However the chemistry curriculum has enrolled the largest group working for a single major. The number seeking majors in the School of Chemistry and Physics is the only group to show an increase over that of last year.

A total of sixty-two entering students have the bachelor of science degree, while the number of bachelor of arts students is twenty-four; bachelor of philosophy, two; chemical engineering, one; master of science, five; master of arts, two, and one student admitted is within four credits of his degree.

POLICE OFFICIALS HOLD FRATERNITY ROBBERY SUSPECT

Description of Alleged Robber Given by Teletype Aids In Apprehension

THIEVES LOOT PHI KAPPA TAU, THETA NU EPSILON

11 Suits, Leather Jacket, Watch, Topcoat, Pin, Fountain Pens, $4 Stolen

While police in Morgantown, West Virginia, captured a suspect wanted for larceny of fraternities here, and in Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall colleges, late Friday night, additional robberies were being perpetrated in Phi Kappa Tau and Theta Nu Epsilon fraternities here in which eleven suits, and quantities of jewelry and money were taken.

Phi Kappa Tau reported the loss of six suits, one leather jacket, a fraternity pin, and a watch valued at $50 to police authorities who began an immediate investigation. Theta Nu Epsilon, robbed during alumni homecoming week-end of $55, was looted for the second time of five suits, one topcoat, $4 and three fountain pens. It is believed that the thefts were committed between the hours of 4 and 6:30 o'clock.

Police Send Warnings

With the continuation of crime here, police have sent out warnings to fraternities asking them to be more cautious and to guard their houses by locking doors in order to prevent recurrence of robberies. A plan, drawn up by Chief of Police Albert E. Yougel whereby the house would have one man "on duty each night to keep guard" has been submitted to fraternities for further action.

Enabled by descriptions of suspects sent out over the teletype systems to all college towns in five eastern states, State police closed in on the alleged robber who had registered in the Morgantown hotel, late Friday night. It is believed that a prisoner in crime of the captured suspect registered elsewhere, and changed all physical appearances.

Descriptions Tally

The descriptions of the alleged culprit given by the Morgantown police tally with those of Chief Yougel, and authorities in Lancaster and Carlisle, so it is believed that police have at last apprehended the leader of the daring fraternity house robberies. Although the suspect who posed as a photographer in the college towns that he had visited, drove a green Ford coupe bearing a Georgia license, when captured was using an Oklahoma license.

If the prisoner waives extradition, he will be brought back immediately for trial. If he does not waive extradition, it will be necessary to secure a request for extradition by the Governor of Pennsylvania and of the governor of West Virginia. Witnesses here will then be required to go to West Virginia, at the expense of the county, to prove a prima facie case at a hearing there.
