

Lions To Meet Johns Hopkins on Saturday

Penn State Eleven To Enter Game as Favorites

WEBER WILL REPLACE WOOLBERT AT TACKLE

Al Mikelonis Will Call Signals From Quarter—Bedoski Back in Line-Up

By FRED W. WRIGHT '33 Making their final bow of 1933 on New Beaver field, a Nittany Lion eleven will open athletic relations in football with Johns Hopkins University...

Although it will be a slightly patched and shuffled Lion that goes forth to do battle against the Bluejays, Head Coach Bob Higgins isn't particularly worried over the physical capabilities of his proteges.

If the Lions can forget they are odds-on favorites and take the field realizing that they have a tough afternoon ahead, they stand an excellent chance of closing the New Beaver field season with a victory.

Woobert Lest for Season Coach Higgins has made three shifts in the line-up for the Lions' final home stand of 1933.

To replace the injured Lion line stalwart, the Nittany mentor, has shifted Bob Weber from center to the right tackle position.

Between the halves of the Johns Hopkins-Penn State football battle on New Beaver field, an Armistice Day program will be conducted.

O'Hours To Start at Center Remmy Woolridge, 168-pound guard, has evidently satisfied Coach Higgins
