GEIGER '36 WINS FIRST HONORS IN SWIM MEET

Keelch, Lesko, Parks Win Firsts in All-College Meet Saturday

Winning first place in two events, Richard A. Geiger '36 was awarded first honors in the all-College swimming meet held at the Glennland Pool Saturday night. Geiger won the 100-yard backstroke and the 220-yard freestyle events. John A. Keelch '36 finished first in the final heat of the fifty-yard freestyle, after he had won the first heat. The second heat was taken by Martin M. Hart '36, who finished second in the final. The 100-yard breaststroke was won by Eugene F. Lesko '37. Raymond E. Parks '36 took first honors in the fancy diving contest, using the full gainer and the front dive with a full twist as his optional dives.

'Collegian' Letter Box

To the Editor:

We noted in the last issue of COLLEGIAN that Director Bezdek sees vindication of the Athletic Policy in the Penn Tie.

We also noticed the statement: "Three victories, three losses, and a tie. We haven't had so successful a season since the adoption of the new plan."

Director Bezdek is right. We are vindicated. State beat Lebanon Valley, Lehigh, and Johns Hopkins. Of course these aren't big schools and none of them had particularly fine teams—but we beat them. And although Columbia and Syracuse and Muhlenberg beat us we shouldn't be discouraged; they had wonderful teams. We were saving ourselves for Penn.

And we tied Penn—that was all that mattered. Penn is a large school and has a good team. They beat F. and M. and Lafayette. Of course they were walked on by a few teams before we met them but what of it? The game was a tie. In our opinion State won a moral victory. A moral victory is as good as a win any day against a large school like Penn.

We've only one suggestion to make. Why not leave big colleges such as Syracuse and Muhlenberg and by all means Columbia off our schedule and book games with Grove City, Juniata, Hobart, Thiel, or Allegheny? With good luck we should win a large percentage of these games and then the Athletic Policy would be completely vindicated.

But keep Penn on the schedule. A Penn State team can always beat Penn unless they double-cross us and buy every member of the Penn squad a Spalding's "How to Play Football." Director Bezdek is right. Let us all remember that little piece of philosophy he gives us, "cooperative boosting is a fundamental of progress."

To the Editor:

The Interfraternity Council has begun an investigation in an attempt to improve further scholarship conditions of the fraternity man. It is a meritorious plan, but it is also unfair. Under the present plan, the Council will receive aid from the School of Education, a school which is supported by the non-fraternity man as well as the fraternity man. Now, I ask, why should only the fraternity men receive this proposed aid?

The plan will raise the low all-fraternity average, but why not extend the plan and include the non-fraternity man. After all, he is a student of Penn State, in fact he is a better student as to grades.

Why doesn't the faculty propose a similar plan which will include everyone. This plan will be fair to the forgotten student—the non-fraternity man. This plan will be better for it will raise the standards of the College twice as much as the unfair plan, which includes only the fraternity man.

Pennsylvania State College, why not extend a "New Deal" to the non-fraternity man?

Dr. Hasek Expresses Confidence In Roosevelt's Monetary Policy

Although yesterday's papers devoted much space to criticism of President Roosevelt's monetary policy, Dr. Carl W. Hasek, of the department of economics and sociology, still believes that the administration is following the most practical course yet devised. "I have confidence in President Roosevelt's efforts," Dr. Hasek said. "It's too early to begin throwing bricks at the plan—Congress will attend to that. At present, I believe the best thing is to go along with his program."

The idea is based on the fact that many private debts were contracted in the prosperous era prior to 1929, according to Dr. Hasek. As prices fell during the current depression, these debts became increasingly difficult to pay.

Inflation is part of the scheme designed by Roosevelt and his associates to raise the price level to approximately what it was in 1926, Dr. Hasek says. In this way, the dollar will lose value, become more accessible, and the debtors will be enabled to repay their obligations.

In commenting on the present policy of buying gold on the international market, Dr. Hasek said, "It's really a clever idea, because gold is added to our reserve, thus providing more sound backing if the policy of inflation continues."

With gold being bought on the open market at $33.76 an ounce rather than the former price of $20.67, Dr. Hasek foresees the sale of domestic bonds and the purchase of foreign bonds. This, he believes, is equivalent to offering more dollars on foreign markets.

This downward price of domestic bonds will discourage heavy industries, general expansion, and building, the economist believes. This can be offset, however, by a program of public building which the administration is apparently contemplating.

The advantage of dumping American dollars on the foreign market, according to Dr. Hasek, is that the international value of the dollar will go faster than prices will go up here. This makes the United States a good place to buy, as is shown by the fact that last month's exports exceeded the previous months by about forty-two million dollars.
