I. F. C. Promotes Fraternity Cooperative Buying System

Interfraternity Council has succeeded in making a distinct advancement in the bettering of relationships between fraternity men and has laid the groundwork for a cooperative system of buying for fraternity houses, this year, a survey of Council activities shows.

The basis of a satisfactory plan for cooperative buying was one of the major accomplishments of the Council. Statistics on raw costs and possible savings have been worked out and filed for the 1934-35 Council to carry to completion. This system should prove to be of great value to fraternities next year, it is believed.

In this year's rushing code are embodied the composite results of years of experimenting with regulated rushing. One of the most noteworthy clauses in the code for next year is one that will make illegal rushing by "inactive" members of fraternities during the times when undergraduate fraternity men are not permitted to entertain freshmen.

With the incorporation of this new clause in the rushing code for the coming year, the Council believes it
