Tragedy of 10 O'clock Co-ed Phone Regulation Uncovered by Reporter

"Sorry, the phone on second floor Mac hall is busy." If this happens to you, don't become discouraged...

The PBX or private branch exchange handles about 3,000 calls each twenty-four hours over its forty-two lines on the campus...

The busiest night of the week is Friday when calls to women's dormitories and fraternities begin at around 6:30 and last until 10 after which time no co-ed residence can be reached by telephone...

'Collegian' Solicits Senior Subscriptions

Members of the senior class are being solicited by members of the Collegian freshmen business staff for subscriptions to next year's paper...

2-YEAR STUDENTS TO TAKE CUSTOMS

Few Major Alterations in Rules Effected—Student Council Approves Regulations

The most important change in customs as accepted by Student Council for next year affects rule sixteen and makes it necessary for two-year agricultural students as well as four-year students to take one year of customs...

Another important change is in rule thirteen which now allows freshmen to associate with ladies within the three-mile limit only at their own house dances rather than at any house dances, as formerly.

Revoke 2 General Customs

Other amendments are in rules one and six which now allow the wearing of a jacket in place of a coat and require the printing of the name of the home town or city rather than the name of the preparatory school or high school on freshmen name cards.

The general custom forbidding the use of seals bearing the College insignia and the custom forbidding classes to wear caps bearing class numerals were both revoked.

Student Council at the same meeting elected Henry H. Sweeney '35 as their representative on the combined Student Board. Student Board the night before had selected Richard A. Sigel '35 as its representative...

'Penn State Day's' Success Exceeds Every Expectation

Brandt, Ryan, Steidle, Bezdek, Hoffman Voice Appreciation of Program—Think it Ought to Occur Annually

With the exception of one or two minor defects brought out over the week-end, "Penn State Day" was a success! This seems to be the opinion of officials in charge of last Saturday's program...

H. Carl Brandt '34, who was chairman of the committee on arrangements, declared in an interview last night, "Penn State Day" exceeded all expectations. I think there were four reasons for its great success: firstly, the large number who registered, very few of which were athletes participating in the interscholastic; secondly, the splendid cooperation of the various schools in sponsoring exhibits and holding interviews; thirdly, the way in which the fraternities took care of the visitors; and, fourthly, the large turnout for the athletic circus Saturday night.

WSYA TO SERVE ARMY FOR THIRD CORPS AREA

Station Named Alternate Net Control Under Army Call Letters WLQJ

The College radio station, under its army call letters WLQJ, has been designated by the United States Army to serve as alternate net control for the third corps area.

The army third area corps embraces four states: Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Delaware. The College station will operate on a frequency of 3497.5 kilocycles as the army alternate control, to supplement the services of the official army station WLM in Washington, D. C.

Official notification of the appointment reached Gilbert L. Crossley, director of the station and instructor in electrical engineering, by radio. The College station was selected from among a large number of amateur stations in the four state area.

SHATTUCK GETS APPOINTMENT Prof. Harold B. Shattuck, of the department of civil engineering, has been appointed a member of the committee on the Economics of Railway Location by the American Railway Engineering association.

NATIONAL ABSORBS LOCAL FRATERNITY

Theta Upsilon Omega Formally Initiates Phi Kappa Nu at Ceremony Yesterday

Phi Kappa Nu, a local social fraternity on the campus for the past ten years, was absorbed by Theta Upsilon Omega at formal ceremonies here yesterday afternoon.

Theta Upsilon Omega was organized in 1923, the result of a merger of ten local fraternities at different colleges and universities, one of them being Iota Alpha here at Penn State.

Phi Kappa Nu was organized December 1, 1924, as an outgrowth of a county club.

Theta Upsilon Omega faculty members conducted the installation ceremonies with the assistance of Mr. McGinnis. Willard D. Herr '36, president of the fraternity, announced that the former officers will continue to exist in the new chapter.

ENGINEERING EDUCATION SOCIETY WILL CONVENE

Doggett, Nesbitt, Rhodes, Neyhart To Speak at Meeting Wednesday

Addresses by faculty members on various phases of engineering will be delivered at the spring meeting of the Pennsylvania State College Branch of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education in Room 107, Main Engineering at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Prof. Leonard A. Doggett, of the department of electrical engineering, will speak on "Applied Pedagogy" and Prof. Russell B. Nesbitt, of the department of civil engineering, will discuss "New Ideas in Engineering Education."

"New Ideas in Hydraulic Instruction" will be discussed by Prof. Leonard S. Rhodes, of the department of civil engineering. Amos E. Neyhart, instructor in industrial engineering, will talk on a "Study of Correlation Coefficients." A general discussion will follow this program.

Yougel Received No Special Order To Arrest Students, Survey Shows

Officer Albert A. E. Yougel, borough policeman, did not receive special instructions by the incoming Burgess or by members of the police committee of the Borough council to make all possible arrests during the past five months, a survey of the police committee by the COLLEGIAN last week revealed.

Since the publication of the account of the student arrests, no order has been given to Yougel to be more discreet in the matter of arrests, the investigation also showed.

"Burgess Leitzell bears no grudge against the students of the College," Prof. Samuel B. Colgate, member of the police committee, explained. "He intends to enforce laws, but contrary to student opinion, he is not concerned with hatching up schemes to 'get' students for minor offenses."

"I know that he spends long hours studying cases of student offenders before they receive a hearing, in order to make a just decision," Colgate said. "In every instance, cases have been tried under the Borough ordinances, rather than under State laws or in the jurisdiction of higher courts. There, penalties would be more drastic."

CORNELIA SKINNER WILL IMPERSONATE HENRY VIII'S WIVES

Entertainer in Artists' Course Series To Present Original Character Sketches

PROGRAM TO START AT 8:15 O'CLOCK TOMORROW

That strange group of variously fated women, destined for short periods of time to be the ruling Queens of England as the wives of Henry VIII, will again be revealed in the flesh as the talents of Cornelia Otis Skinner revive them in Schwab auditorium, at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night.

In this production Miss Skinner will impersonate each of the six wives of this notorious king single-handed. The six queens to be depicted in this internationally famous program, taken in the order in which they will appear, are Catherine of Aragon, Anne Boleyn, Jane Seymour, Anne of Cleves, Katherine Howard, and Katherine Parr.

Skinner Writes Own Sketches Although onlookers may be prone to regard it as a kind of stunt, theatrical critics insist that it is nothing of the sort. It is rather a grouping of a half-dozen ill-assorted queens; six portraits, each of which fades into the other. Each is a separate impersonation, depicting both history and human nature. Yet each remains an important part of the whole.

To Miss Skinner's way of thinking, the immortality of these various queens is assured through their enduring counterparts in every age. Although she is herself the author of these character sketches and is widely versed in the historical background of Tudor England, she insists that her greatest assistance in moulding her interpretations has come through the observation of modern prototypes of these women.

Sketches Originated 3 Years Ago

Miss Skinner firmly believes that each of the six queens has a counterpart in life today. She believes that human nature does not change very much, and that time and again one meets these same women in modern life. For example, she believes that were alive today, she would be present at every important social function and a popular visitor at every fashionable resort. She would also probably loathe hiking and be fascinated by night clubs.

The idea of giving an impersonation of the six wives of the Blue Bearded king originated three years ago, as a result of a telephone call from Miss Skinner's mother. In the call her mother requested that she present a character sketch of the celebrated wives before her club in Philadelphia. At first Miss Skinner dismissed the invitation because it seemed too difficult. But the idea captured her imagination, and so she spent much time in research on the subject and on all its historical background.

Needless to say, the impersonations were an immediate success, and soon she was invited to give the performance in Knoke Castle, England, which is the original site of King Henry's marital adventures. The invitation was given by Lord and Lady Sackville, the present owners of the castle, and when Miss Skinner appeared there she conquered the guests and critics alike with her production.

Confidence that the students will not start unnecessary disorders and movements was expressed by the committee. The unfavorable publicity to the College in newspapers through the State would be detrimental to the reputation of the institution, they stated.

The members of the police committee are: George B. Jackson, chairman, Charles Schlow, local merchant, and Samuel B. Colgate, of the department of industrial engineering.
