Van Keuren Writes Biographical Sketch of Burgess for Spring Quarterly

Following up the recent controversies between students and Burgess Wilbur P. Litzell, the Old Main Bell will feature a biographical sketch of the Burgess by William G. Van Keuren '34 entitled "Old Soldiers Never Die" in the spring issue which will go on sale on the Corner Monday night, June 4, and continue through Houseparty week-end.

"Buy a Subscription, Lady" is the name of a story by William Hastings '34 and it describes the incidents and technique of working one's way through college selling magazines during the summer months. James B. Beatty '35 has contributed a short story entitled "Minor Maria" which deals with a small boy and his desire to frighten himself. Emma M. Herbst '35 returns to the magazine with a fantasy, "Mr. Lamp and the Muses," which tells the story of a would-be writer and his troubles. A graduation sketch by William M. Stegmaier '34, editor, will describe the impressions of a graduating senior as he goes forward to receive his diploma. The first play to be run in the magazine in two years will be Maynard P. Wood's '34 "For Such Is the Kingdom." It tells of a Rotarian who goes to heaven. Institutions and People, written anonymously by a staff member of the magazine, will be a parody on "R. O. C. and an Advanced R. O. T. C. Officer." Several items of student service will also be included in this issue.

change in the educational system in the United States," Adrian O. Morse, executive secretary to Dr. Hetzel, said. "By the time we are ready to use one we shall probably have one worked out for us by Russia, Italy, and perhaps Germany."

"Human nature is often misinterpreted," Dr. Hartmann explained taking a moment from his duties as "referee" of the discussion, "the error is in the belief that human nature cannot be modified; but humans are not limited by behavior possibilities."

The meeting was adjourned at ten o'clock after two and one half hours of discussion. The six speakers were kept so busy answering members of the audience and defending their opinions that a pitcher of ice water and six glasses passed unnoticed and unused throughout the evening.

LIBRARY RECEIVES BUSINESS INDEXES, NEWSPAPER FILES

Copies of Moody's annual, Business Index, Management Review, and Personnel magazine have recently been received by the College library as a gift from John C. Hill, president of a large life insurance company. This brings the total number of volumes in the library to about 150,000.

The library has also received a set of bound Lancaster newspaper files from the Franklin and Marshall library. Total accessions for this year number 9,500, which is more than twice as many as were received in 1929.

Schnozzle-Blowers Invite Conjunctivitis

"Believe it or not, spring fever is not the only prevailing illness that strikes the campus on days like these," Dr. Charles R. Dieterich, assistant college physician, said today.

At present there are quite a few "sore eyes and ears" victims about the college, possessing what is more commonly termed as conjunctivitis. Although there is no alarming epidemic of it, numerous cases have been reported during the last month.

It is all a result of blowing one's nose too hard; causing an irritation of the nasal passage leading to the eyes. Dr. Dieterich explained that the best remedy for it is to bathe the eyes for about ten days, and give them plenty of rest.

Ulerich '31 Marries Former State Co-ed

The marriage of William K. Ulerich '31 of State College and Miss Edith W. Orton of Philadelphia took place in Philadelphia Saturday. The immediate families were present at the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the College in the class of 1932 while Mr. Ulerich was graduated from Penn State in the class of 1931. Miss Orton was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta while Mr. Ulerich belonged to Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

While in College Mr. Ulerich was editor of the COLLEGIAN and since graduation he has been associated with the State College Times and the Centre Daily Times as managing editor and advertising manager.

DEDRICK TO SUBMIT REPORTS ON AIR CONDITIONING IN MILLS

Prof. Benjamin W. Dedrick, assistant professor of milling engineering, will contribute comments and material in reference to application of air conditioning in flour mills in the next report of the Electric Bond & Share Company of New York City.

Professor Dedrick's comments and reports will also appear in the technical department of the "Northwestern Miller" under his column "Notes At Random." He will further contribute "The Effect of Cold Weather in Milling" to the "National Miller" and "Miller's Review." The latter article will be a discussion on the regulation of temperature and humidity in flour mills.

LION THINLYCLADS FAIL TO PLACE AT 2 MEETS

By JACK BARNES

IC-4A and Atlantic City invitation meets were not in the least bothered by point-winners in the person of Lion trackmen over the past weekend. Harvey was the only varsity thinlyclad to reach the finals at Franklin Field and was not able to take better than ninth place on Saturday.

Although the freshmen cindermen took a second place in the mile relay at Atlantic City, their performance was not even as good as that of the varsity, as Temple first-year men took first place and there was no third. The boys liked the city, though.

Standing out like Stanford's big weight men at Philly, was Harold Osborne who a week ago on New Beaver field broke the world's exhibition standing high jump record.

Nearly forty years of age, the ex-collegiate star broke the world's running high jump record by 1/4 inch with a leap of 6 feet 3 1/2 inches at the seaboard city. Official recognition will probably not be sought, however, as this mark has been surpassed this year by Marty Fresno State Teachers College gift to the high jumping art, who cleared 6 feet 9 1/2 inches about a month ago. This height needs only official approval to become the new world's record.

DOGGETT TO ATTEND MEETING

Prof. Leonard A. Doggett, of the department of electrical engineering, will attend a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering at Hot Springs, Va. from June 25 to 29.

Lion Spring Sports Teams Lose 27 Of 67 Regulars Through Graduation

Out of approximately sixty-seven players on Lion spring sports teams—baseball, tennis, golf, lacrosse, and track—who can be classed as regulars, twenty-six are seniors, and will consequently be lost through graduation this year.

Track and lacrosse are the teams hardest hit, while baseball will be affected almost as badly. Eight regulars are leaving the track team, while Coach 'Mike' Loeb's squad will be minus eight next season also.

Captain Mel Sayland, who was unable to compete this season; 'Van' Van Keuren, hurdler; 'Jack' Jackson, hurdler and broad jumper; 'Rem' Woolridge, 440 man; Danny O'Shea, high jumper; Al Kershner, pole vaulter; Jack Aldrich, who specializes in the dash; and Tom Adams, discus and javelin thrower, are the regulars lost to Coach 'Chick' Werner.

'Hank' Moulthrop, 1st defense; Johnny Rathmell, 2nd defense; 'Eric' Kaultuss, home; 'Deb' Kline, center; Ray Reed, point; 'Hank' Bosman, attack; Pollack; and Shaffer will be missing from the line-up when the Nittany lacrosse ten takes the field next year.

Even though they are losing six regulars—two of them pitchers—the Lion diamondmen will have plenty of material left next year because of the present plabe squad. Captain Bill Kascak, left fielder; 'Zev' Zawacki, catcher; 'Shorty' Edwards, third baseman; Jack Lutecher and Keith Parks, hurlers; and Al Marsh, substitute first baseman, will turn in their uniforms for the last time after the Penn game.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM LOSES

After winning contests at Briar Cliffe Farms, Pine Plains, N. Y., and at Cornell University, members of the stock judging team returned home last Saturday to drop their return match with Cornell. Eight men, Joseph A. Stahl, graduate student, Ow-wick E. Smith '35, Robert G. Struble en B. Evans '35, Samuel E. Keich-'35, and William V. Goldshell '36, line '35, Daniel L. Mohney '35, Sedg-

made up the team.
