Luccock Gives Chapel Speech

Yale Divinity School Professor
Calls 'Struggle of Ideas'
Greatest Battle

"The great battles are not fought in wars but in the struggles of ideas for domination in the minds of men," said Dr. Halford E. Luccock, professor of homiletics at the Yale Divinity School, in his sermon on "Adventures in Ideas" in Schwab auditorium Sunday morning.

"Basing his address on the text, 'We packed up and started,' written of Paul's journey to Jerusalem in the face of resistance and danger, Dr. Luccock stated that the real danger today was not in making mistakes, but in not getting started at all.

"If we are to be among the great personalities of the day, we must orient ourselves to the potentialities of an unimpeded opportunity rather than to the actualities," the speaker declared, pointing out a parallel in Paul's courage in setting out at a time when both a new faith and a new order of life were in the making.

Students in school now were adjudged fortunate by Dr. Luccock, for their opportunities of intellectual stimulus and experimental thinking, in these times of change and ferment. An evidence of changes that have taken place in recent years is that few thoughts dominant twenty-five years ago are held today, Dr. Luccock declared.

CHICAGO U. FILM SHOWS MAN'S CLIMB

Movie Released To Schools Is Designed To Raise Cinema Standard

The University of Chicago, which has been for some time a producer and user of educational movies, recently announced the completion and release, by its Oriental Institute, of a full length feature picture, "The Human Adventure."

The eight-reel talking picture which the Oriental Institute labels "a sketch of man's rise from savagery to civilization," will be "road-showed" to the leading colleges and universities throughout the country in exactly the same manner that a theatrical picture is shown in key cities.

"We believe that the release of 'The Human Adventure,' at the very time when so many organizations are clamoring for better movies, will prove beneficial to the motion picture industry and that it will stimulate further production and use of educational films," declared Charles Breasted, executive secretary of the Oriental Institute.

The film, requiring more than three years to complete, was produced under scientific supervision of Dr. James H. Breasted, famous archeologist and historian, and director of the Oriental Institute, largest archeological research organization in the world.

"The Human Adventure" grows directly out of the researches and explorations of the Institute. The picture carries the audience by airplane through the lands where civilization first arose—Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Anatolia, Iraq and Persia—where the Institute has dispatched altogether some 14 expeditions. Eight of the latter are observed while actually engaged in the scientific recovery of the lost chapters of the human adventure.

Symphony Orchestras Will Play 3 Concerts

Plans of the College symphony orchestra and women's symphony orchestra for this year as announced today by Prof. Hummel Fishburn, of the music department, include two concerts by the former and one by the latter organization, with increased membership in both.

Among compositions to be studied this year by the College symphony are "Les Preludes" by Liszt and "March Slav" by Tschakowsky. The membership will be increased from sixty-five to seventy players.

Membership in the organization includes both men and women. Try-outs for men will be held in 401 Old Main at 7 o'clock, Monday, October 1 and are open to freshmen.

Officers of the orchestra for this year are Webster M. Christman '35, president; Forrest W. Hunsicker '36, secretary; and Julius T. Lodzsun '36, librarian. The concertmaster and principal of the seconds will be appointed by Professor Fishburn after try-outs for new members.

Katherine M. Hertzler '35 is president of the forty piece women's symphony which is beginning its fourth year. Try-outs for women for both the College symphony and women's symphony will be conducted in 401 Old Main, Wednesday, October 3 at 7 o'clock.

Extension Bureau To Hold Conclave

Preliminary plans for the statewide retail conference to be held on Tuesday, October 2, were announced today. The conference, held under the auspices of the retail bureau of the extension service of the College will be the fourth annual meeting devoted to problems of retail distribution. It is to be held cooperatively with the Pennsylvania Retailers Association.

Among the speakers who will appear are: Harry C. Carr, NRA deputy administrator in charge of codes for the retail trades; Dr. Reavis Cox, Columbia University, managing editor, American Marketing Journal and marketing editor of the Journal of Commerce, New York City; Alexander Kaylin, associate editor of Retailing; John E. Means, secretary, The Pennsylvania Retailers Association, Lancaster; and Dr. Paul Nystrom, professor of marketing, Columbia University.

Still others are: Channing Schweitzer, managing director, National Retail Dry Goods Association; Dr. Wilford White, chief, marketing research division, U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and Ralph D. Withington, assistant cashier and credit specialist, The Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia.

Kisses Here Warm As in Movies, Prof. Wray Report Says

Penn State co-eds may complain occasionally that kisses in this territory are not as "warm" as those handed out by John Barrymore, Clark Gable, or Franchot Tone in the movies, but take it from Robert P. Wray, of the department of education and psychology, they are.

At least, that's what Mr. Wray reported to members of the National Education Association at a meeting in Washington, D. C., this summer. His report was the result of an extensive investigation.

Of course, Mr. Wray didn't state it just that way; the whole report was couched in highly academic and professorial language.

To wit: "The data as a whole may be interpreted to mean that conduct in the movies in respect to kissing and caressing almost precisely parallels life, from the standpoint of both approvals and practices."

But Mr. Wray's statements didn't go unchallenged. Lafayette College's president, William Mather Lewis, called emotional instability a "growing disease" in America and said lurid sex and crime films have much to do with it.

Patrick Makes Survey

Prof. A. L. Patrick, of the department of agronomy, in cooperation with the Federal Soil Erosion Service, is conducting a series of studies on soil erosion, being in charge of the work in this state. An appropriation of $50.00 has been made for the work, which will include a study of soil types in Pennsylvania. Extensive experiments are being laid out on the College farms as well as in other parts of the state.

33 Chemists Employed

Of the total number of students majoring in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering who received degrees during the last year, forty-nine per cent now have positions. Thirty-out of sixty-seven students are employed. Seventy-seven per cent of those who received doctorates are employed and fifty-three per cent who received Master's degrees have work.

Son of College's First All-American Enrolled

Not only is he the tallest freshman but William E. Dunn is also the son of Penn State's first All-American, William T. Dunn '08. The younger Dunn is six feet six inches and has the distinction of having the largest pair of shoes ever ordered for a Penn State player. They are size 15 1/2.

Dunn's father made Walter Camp's All-American team in 1908 and is now practicing medicine in Hawaii. In addition to having these other honors Dunn's son is also the man who has traveled the furthest to enroll at his Alma Mater.

College Library Exhibits Stephen Foster's Work

Reproductions of first editions of the earliest available editions of one of Stephen C. Foster's work are being exhibited in Room K of the College Library. A complete file of all of this author's work has been given to the Library recently.

Josiah Kirby, one of the donors, established Foster Hall in Indianapolis as a depository of Fosteriana to have in America, in permanent form, as complete data as possible concerning the life and work of Stephen C. Foster, to be made available for view or study by any one interested in the subject. The staff of Foster Hall has collected the first editions of the songs and other Fosteriana, and publishes the Foster Hall Bulletin.

a good cigarette gives you a lot of pleasure

... just about every cigarette smoker knows that—but here are some other facts to keep in mind . . .

For a cigarette to be milder and taste better it must be made of mild, ripe Turkish and home-grown tobaccos.

We wish you could go into the factories and see Chesterfield made. The mild ripe tobacco is cut in long even threads—then packed into the cigarette so as to make Chesterfield draw right and burn evenly.

A good cigarette can give you a lot of pleasure, and we would like for you to try Chesterfield.
