Scores Touchdown

By DONN SANDERS The Nittany Lion trotted off New Beaver field after its 13-to-0 defeat of Lebanon Valley eleven on Saturday afternoon leaving the impression that it had tried out its strength rather than expended it.

Fresh from winning a $100 prize for the State College Alpha Fire Company as the best appearing band in the volunteer firemen's parade at Sunbury on Thursday, the Blue Band gave fans a first official view of their new uniforms. Handicapped by ten minutes of drenching rain, Drum Major Jim Townsend gave on of the best exhibitions of baton-twirling seen on New Beaver field in many seasons.

35 C.C.C. Camps Ask College Help

Representatives of 7,000 Men Meet Here To Organize Teaching Program

For the purpose of organizing educational programs for the 7,000 Civilian Conservation Corps members, representatives of thirty-five Pennsylvania camps met in Old Main last week to ask the assistance of the College. They asked that full or part-time teachers of academic and cultural studies be provided under the F.E.R.A. regulations and College supervision.

Keller Urges Parents To Attend Dad's Day

Students are urged to invite their parents to visit the College on Dad's Day, Saturday, Edward L. Keller, secretary-treasurer of the Parents Association, announces. The College is striving to make this the most successful affair of the kind they have ever had, he said. At the meeting of the association Saturday morning, new officers will be elected and a new Board of Directors will be chosen. J. F. Torrance, of Export, is the present president of the association.

Players Will Give Comedy Saturday

Mrs. Kennedy Cast For Lead In Dad's Day Show; Curtain Will Rise At 8:30

Lucetta Parker Kennedy '33, an actress of considerable professional experience, will play the leading role when the Penn State Players present "The Late Christopher Bean," by Sidney Howard, as a part of the Dad's Day program in Schwab auditorium at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Mrs. Kennedy, wife of J. Ewing "Sock" Kennedy, director of These plays, began her stage career with Henry W. Savage and Mitzie Hojos. She appeared with Ann Harding and Margaret Anglin in 1930 as a member of the George Sharp Players in Pittsburgh and has played in several Shubert productions including the musical hit, "My Maryland."

As a student of Penn State two years ago, Mrs. Kennedy played the lead in the production of "Hay Fever" by Noel Coward. In the current production of "The Late Christopher Bean," she has been cast as Abby, the part played by the late Marie Dressler in the screen version of the comedy.

Bean Leaves Paintings Abby is the maid in the home of Dr. Haggitt, New England country physician. The play revolves around the scramble for paintings left in the Haggitt household by the late Christopher Bean, an unknown and impoverished artist whom Abby had befriended. New York art critics suddenly acclaim Bean's paintings and Abby comes into conflict with the Haggitts and the dealers over the rightful possession of the canvases. The supposedly worthless paintings, now valued at a fortune, are claimed by those who had disregarded them as well as the one to whom the paintings

Dr. Wueller Appointed Director of Taxation

Dr. Paul H. Wueller, of the department of economics and sociology, was recently notified of his appointment as Taxation Director of the Chase National Bank. Dr. Wueller's appointment came as a surprise. He was recommended by faculty members of Columbia University, where he was graduated because of his outstanding work in this field. His new position will not cause him to give up his work here at the College entirely, however. Dr. Wueller will meet his classes in economics for two hours every Saturday morning. At another meeting of these classes during the week, W. K. Schmeizle, graduate student in economics, will conduct a weekly quiz.

Kitchen of Alpha Tau Omega Scene of Fire

Over 500 students witnessed a fire in the kitchen of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at 4:15 o'clock yesterday. The Alpha Fire Company responded quickly and the blaze was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The fire was started in a barrel of waste in the basement kitchen of the building. The exact origin of the blaze is not known. Smoke filled the entire building and was responsible for the only damage done to the furniture. The argot of the various campuses is as different as the fashions. At Vassar they call their girdles "snoosans" while at Purdue they are known as "squeezeers." Soft crushable hats are "jam-ons" to co-eds at Iowa State, and to Smith students, socks are "footoes." At Florida State University tea time dresses are "sissy clothes" while the University of Oregon women call them "droops."

Women To Get Lounge

Plans which were made last year for a lounge in McAllister Hall are nearing completion. The furnishings will be done in American maple. Work will be started on the project as soon as the plans and estimates are approved by the W. S. G. A. The lounge will be located in Room 219 in which eighty books from the Carnegie library will be kept for the use of women students.

Hartmann Bombshell Adds To Scholastic Indignation

Study Supports Carnegie Report Statement That Sophomores Excell Seniors In Cultural Information

A potential bombshell was tossed into the already seething fires of scholastic indignation caused by the forthcoming Carnegie Report Friday, by Dr. George W. Hartmann, of the department of education and psychology and Socialist candidate for the National Congress. Substantiating one of the statements of the Carnegie report—"seniors actually have less cultural information than sophomores"—Dr. Hartmann declared, "A definite deterioration does take place in general cultural knowledge during a student's college career, here at Penn. State as in other colleges and universities."

"The knowledge of seniors and sophomores just about balances," he continued. "The seniors learn much that they did not know as sophomores, but they also forget a tremendous amount of knowledge which they possessed as freshmen and sophomores. It is simply a case of running as fast as one can in order to remain in the same place."

Based on Survey His statements were made while commenting on an article "Fluctua-

Question Chosen For I. M. Debate

Non-Subsidization Policy Faces Test in Forum Contest This November

"Is Penn State subsidizing its athletes at the present time?" This has been chosen by Forensic Council as the question for discussion in the annual intramural debate contest, scheduled to start the last week of November. With its selection, one of the major obstacles to the success of the contest has been successfully passed, according to James W. Townsend, president of Forensic Council. He calls the question practical, interesting, timely, and important. "The forum style of discussion will be used again this year. Under this system the speakers take either side of the question and a judges' decision is made on the excellence of the arguments."

Angelo N. Berbatis '35 was elected debate manager to assist Prof. John Henry Frizzell, head of the department of public speaking, in arranging this season's intercollegiate schedule, which will include between sixty and sixty-five meets. No topics have definitely been decided upon.

McSparran Will Speak

The Hon. John A. McSparran, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will address the freshmen in the School of Agriculture tomorrow. Secretary McSparran is a Lancaster county farmer and a past master of the Pennsylvania State Grange. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the College.

Some unpleasantness resulted when Lynn Christy refused to relinquish the bandstand to two Jews-harp virtuozos, aged eight and ten, who had been engaged by two Frothmen without the consent of the social chairman, Mr. Jack Martin. Mr. Martin gave a nice little talk during the intermission. Among those present were: Charles Myers, of the State College Myers', Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, Mr. and Mrs. William Ulerich, Lynn Christy, eight fellows named Joe and a thousand people. The stag line at no time reached over the length of the hall and only two complaints were registered by two freshmen men who claimed that they had not seen their girls from the time they checked their wraps until after the last number.

3 in L. A. School Tie for Highest Scholastic Rating

Banner, Jackson, Townsend, Miller Get '3' Averages

Brightman, Zarger Lead All Juniors

William Banner, Vaughn R. Jackson, Berwyn Miller, James Townsend tied for first place in the 1935 class honor roll of the School of Liberal Arts last semester with straight three averages. C. K. Lucas Brightman and Shirley J. Zarger, also with averages of three, led the present junior class, while Josef W. Fox was first among the class of 1937 with an average of 2.9.

Next in order in the present senior class were Julius Krebs, 2.9; Jack R. Heyson, Margaret W. Kinsloe, and Harold C. Shuck, 2.8; and Frank J. Burtzman, Leonard A. Cimbal, Mary M. Shaffer, and Margaret Zerbe, 2.7.

Sophomores Listed Following Brightman and Zarger in the class of 1936 were Walter B. Freunsch, Wesley C. Mohnkern, Edward A. Novack, and Nathaniel Wollman, 2.7; Arthur Berman, Mariana Frantz, and Donald S. Frey, 2.6; and Joyce Campbell, Anne M. McCaughey, and Lenore Morgan, 2.5.

Theodore E. Howe, 2.8, was second in the present sophomore class, followed by James E. Hackett and Harold H. Ruland, 2.7; Johnson Brenneiman, Frederick J. Holahan, and Elva A. Karwois, 2.6; and Joseph C. Barlet, Emily Frenzel, Joseph F. Griffith, Wilbur J. Perlstien, and Eleanor Stewart, 2.5.

Twenty-one percent of the three upper classes had averages of 2.0 or better. Compared with fourteen percent in 1928-29, this is a high average, Dean Charles W. Stoddard declared.

20 Students Appear As Court Witnesses

Richard H. Allen '36, Robert K. McQuiston '37, and Richard C. Grove '37 left for Pittsburgh Sunday where they are appearing under subpoena at the Allegheny County court house for the plaintiff in a damages recovery case. The plaintiff, Robert Darrow, a student at the University of Pittsburgh, a friend of the students, accompanied Allen, Grove, and McQuiston to a dance at the Penn-Lincoln hotel in Wilkensburg late this summer where he sustained head injuries caused by the fall of a flower pot from the balcony.

The students were leaving the hotel when the flower pot became dislodged from the balcony railing, fell toward the street and struck Darrow. The injured student was rushed to the Wilkensburg hospital where an examination disclosed a fractured skull. Darrow, a Pitt football player, is attempting to recover damages from the hotel. The case is being contested by the insurance company with whom the hotel holds its policy.

Judgers Compete in Baltimore Contest

Penn State's livestock judging team is competing in the contest at the Baltimore Livestock Show today, according to Professor William L. Henning, coach of the team. Members of the squad who will take part in the contest are: Thomas W. Ferguson '35, William V. Godshall '35, Samuel E. Keichline '35, D. Lee Mohney '35, William J. Poorbaugh '35, Sedwizke E. Smith '35, Robert G. Struble '35, and Morgan A. Wolfrom '35.

A trip over the United States Experimental Farm at Beltsville, Maryland, is scheduled for Wednesday morning, while that afternoon the team, on its return trip, will visit the farm of E. A. Nicodemus, Waynesboro, owner and exhibitor Sir William, grand champion stallion at the 1933 International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

Reserved Seats Plans Announced

Fleming Assigns Various Groups To Sections for Contests On November 3, 17

Seating arrangements on Beaver Field for the Syracuse and Lafayette football games on November 3 and 17, respectively, were released last night by Neil M. Fleming, Graduate Manager of Athletics. All seats are reserved for these two games.

For the Syracuse game, on Alumni Homecoming Day, the alumni, faculty, College guests, seniors, and co-eds will be seated in the west stands. These stands hold 2,360. Temporary stands will probably be erected at both ends of these stands, Mr. Fleming said.

In the east stands, which hold 5,260, will be the Syracuse cheering section, the Blue Band, the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen. For the Lafayette game, on Pennsylvania Day, the alumni, faculty, seniors, women, College guests, and some of the fraternities will be located in the west stands.

The Lafayette cheering section and the rest of the fraternities will be seated in the east stands. The Blue Band will be located on a platform extending from the east stands over the track.

Questionnaires Reveal Oddities Of Fashions at Girls' Schools

College fashions as revealed by a questionnaire published in the August issue of Harper's Bazaar are like unto each other, only in their eccentricity. From Maine to California, the average American college girl brightens her own campus with fashions unheard of at other institutions of learning.

At Wellesley, if one is in the know, one wears ear muffs and no hat in the winter. The thing at Smith is a string of pearls with a sweater and a ribbon or bandeau around the hair. Co-eds at the University of Alabama wear a sort of sock stocking with an elastic band to keep it up while at Vassar the only thing to wear is a short tweed skirt, sweater buttoned on backwards, and flat heeled shoes.

Bright shawls like those of Czechoslovakian immigrants adorn the heads of Vassar students who go in for shorts in warm weather, ski suits in cold, and bare legs until the snow flies. Only on week-ends when the women depart for town do well cut suits replace their campus garb and smooth waves miraculously appear on feminine heads.

College Acquires Keith Volumes Through Will

Recent accessions to the College Library include the gifts of Judge H. Walton Mitchell, formerly chairman of the Board of Trustees of the College and the estate of the late Prof. Walter J. Keith. Judge Mitchell has presented the library with the annual volumes of the session laws of Pennsylvania from 1801 to 1849 inclusive. This accession makes the set of these volumes complete from 1801 to the present. Willard P. Lewis, College Librarian, said.

The Keith estate's gift consists of 200 volumes of Professor Keith's library, for the most part travel, especially in the polar regions.
