Thespians Combine With Men's Glee Club To Stage Production for Fall Houseparty

Because of the reluctance of the Players to undertake the production of a show for Saturday night of Houseparty, November 17, the Penn State Thespians will combine with the Men's Glee club to present a revue at that time, according to an announcement made by J. Ewing "Sock" Kennedy '26, director of Thespians, and Jacob C. Forney '35, president of the club.
The show which will be a regular revue such as presented in Radio City, New York, will be produced under the joint direction of Kennedy and Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the department of music education. Prof. Hummel Fishburn, also of the department of music education, will aid in staging the production.

No Plot in Revue
Rehearsals for the revue got underway last week when preliminary try-outs for the cast, chorus, and technical staff were held. Kennedy stated that rehearsals will be held through this week until the final cast and chorus have been selected.
The revue will probably consist of seven or more scenes, Kennedy said, and will contain no plot but will be of the straight revue type, a series of vaudeville skits, and musical numbers.

Kennedy emphasized the fact that the revue would not be of the type as have been presented here for the last three years by the Players in collaboration with the Glee club and the Thespians under the name of "The Panics of 1933."

Technical Staffs Listed
The scenery for the entire revue will be designed and executed by Henry K. Porterfield and his staff of scenic artists. Porterfield's work won much commendable comment both here and in Phillipsburg last May when the Thespians presented "My Stars."
Forney announced that the technical staffs of the Thespian club for the coming year will be as follows: Robert D. Keleo '35, business manager; Gordon P. Davis '35, stage manager; C. Lamar Hollar '35, master electrician; Richard P. Barzler '35, master carpenter; William B. Edwards '35, make-up manager; Daniel A. Jones '35, property manager; Vernon D. Cronister '35, costume manager.

Hitler Maneuvering To Create 'Stooges' Out of Collegians

It's not much fun being a freshman anywhere. Practically all American colleges believe that the neophyte freshmen must undergo a certain amount of "hazing" and humiliation before they can assume the dignity of being upperclassmen. Even here at Penn State the fledglings are apt to moan about the abuses which they have to suffer.

But in Germany, and Hitlerizing to hazing. The Nazis, with their regulations, have even invaded the portals of Old Heidelberg. Gone is the care-free, stein-hoisting existence so fascinatingly portrayed in the operetta.

The University Student Union, only university undergraduate organization recognized by Der Fuehrer and his henchmen, has decreed a standard uniform which must be worn by all neophytes in all German universities. Outlawed are their brightly colored caps and ribbons so cherished by them. Now they must feel more like convicts than scholars—especially since they must live in houses which are furnished in uniform style.

These regulations "to secure the uniform education of our academic youth in the National Socialist spirit" is beginning to brew a revolt among the collegians of Germany.

Speakers Will Address Poultry Short Course

Seventeen speakers will appear on the program of the fourteenth annual Poultry Short Course, October 22 to 26. The Pennsylvania State Poultry association will cooperate by having its semi-annual meeting at the same time.

Poultry husbandry department staff members taking part include: Prof. Herman C. Knandel, head of the department; Prof. Ernest W. Callenbach, Dean R. Marble, Robert R. Murphy, and Paul H. Margolf. Dr. Jesse E. Hunter, of the agricultural and biological chemistry department, also will speak.

College Life . . .

Several hundred freshmen, stirred up by Friday night's mass meeting, played "college life" late Friday night when they paraded around town and built a bonfire in front of Recreation hall.

Clad in pajamas, sweat shirts, the freshmen, led by two cornetists and a cheerleader, wandered around town and finally up to Recreation hall. There they dragged out a pile of crates which had been used to ship basket-locker equipment and started the bonfire.

The only damage done was when the freshmen carried off the borough traffic dummy from the Co-op corner and threw it into the midst of their bonfire. They also ambitiously rolled a heavy concrete paving roller from the vacant field across from the Phi Delta Theta fraternity up the hill to Recreation hall.

Legislator To Speak To '38 Agriculturists

Joseph R. Ziesenheim, State Senator, will speak to the freshmen of the School of Agriculture on October 17. Miles Horst, a representative in the general assembly and field editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer, will talk to the freshmen on October 24. Both Horst and Ziesenheim are graduates of agricultural courses from the College.

University Club Lists '34 Social Functions

A formal dinner-dance opened up the season for the University Club on Friday night, October 5. New members of the faculty were invited as guests of the club. Other October events will include a contract bridge party on the 19th, and a Halloween Dance on Saturday the 27th.

For November 8, a duplicate contract bridge party is arranged and for November 23, an informal dinner dance. December promises an auction bridge on the 4th, an informal dance with refreshments served on the 14th and the usual children's party on the 15th.

The new year will be ushered in with a duplicate contract bridge party on January 4, contract on the 19th, and a formal dinner-dance, the 26th. A report of the social committee shows that twenty-five per cent more people attended social functions of the Club during the second semester of last year, than during a similar period the previous year.

Women Assigned

Reserved tables in the McAllister hall dining commons have been assigned to the women students who take their meals there. Women students will be required to sit at the same table for the remainder of the semester. No freshman women will be allowed to sit at the tables of the fraternity groups.

... and while we're talking about cigarettes
I don't suppose you were ever in a warehouse where they were storing hogsheads of tobacco. Any-way here's something interesting: Liggett & Myers, the people who make Chesterfields, have about 4 1/2 miles of storage warehouses where they age the tobacco.
Down South where they grow tobacco folks say . . .
It's no wonder so many people smoke Chesterfields. The tobaccos are mild and ripe to start with, and then they're aged the right way to make a milder, better-tasting cigarette.
