

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

By VANCE PACKARD
Harriers Shaping Up
 Students drafted to run on their lodges' cross-country team are working somewhat spasmodically and puffing around the golf links in preparation for the classic, Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It is required that every runner report for practice at least five times before the event.
 Manager Gehr stated that attendance thus far has been rather low, but is expected to pick up rapidly from now on. He also cleared up several questions which are perplexing the entrants. He says that the first ten freshmen on the yearling cross-country team will be ineligible to run this year; that any man having numerals in either track or cross-country is ineligible; and that any students who are out for varsity fall sports do not have to train, but only report to be checked off on the attendance record.

Horse-shoe Tossers
 Quarter-finals in the intra-mural horse-shoe tournament will be played off this week. Struble, Sigma Pi, is still pitching a stellar game and shows promise of repeating his performance of the past two years. His mate, Bar Riley, is also slinging a mean horse. Clubs still in the contest are Phi Psi, Sigma Pi, K. D. R., Alpha Zeta (two teams), and Phi Delt (three teams.)

Pie-skin Jugglers
 Touch footballers continued their onslaughts with unmitigated fury with seven congregations being dropped from the tourney last week. Manager Jacobs requests that when two teams decide by mutual consent that they don't want to play, they should report such matters to him before hand, and he will schedule another game instead. Results of games are listed below.

Thursday
 Sigma Pi 6; Phi Sigma Kappa 6 (7 first downs to 4)
 Delta Tau Delta 8; D. U. 0
 Theta Xi 6; Triangle 0
Friday
 Sig Phi Sig 7; A. C. R. 0

Women Make Changes In Way of Handling Organizations' Money

Recent changes in the financing system of the women's organizations places their money matters in the hands of Neil M. Fleming, Graduate Manager of Athletics. Greater efficiency and more coherence are expected from the innovation.

Bills contracted by the Women's Student Government Association and the four classes will be checked through Dean Charlotte E. Ray's office. Miss Marie Haidt, director of women's athletics, will check on the Women's Athletic Association bills. Signed orders for checks are to be sent to Fleming who will take charge of the remainder of the transactions.

Fees for all women's organizations were collected by the College at registration. For this reason the Treasurer's office is assuming the management of the money. No restrictions about the spending of the money will be placed on any of the groups.

Indorsed by the W.S.G.A. and W.A.A. last spring, the plan was approved by the Board of Trustees at their June meeting. Ellen M. Burkholder, Assistant Dean of Women, Eva M. Blichfeldt '34, Neil Fleming, and Raymond H. Smith, Comptroller of the College, were on the committee which organized the plan.

University Women To Hold Conference

The Penn State branch of the American Association of University Women will act as hostess to the members of the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division at their Fifth Biennial Conference at the Nittany Lion Inn Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

This conference will bring to State College many distinguished speakers from Washington, Philadelphia, and Harrisburg, in addition to several jets, who will represent the College on the program.

More than 40,000 women belong to the A.A.U.W. and all are graduates of the 350 eligible colleges. The Penn State branch was founded in 1916.

Membership in this international organization, with its branches in every country from South Africa to Iceland, carries with it privileges in the A.A.U.W. offices in the larger cities in America as well as in almost all the foreign capitals.

The primary purpose of the organization throughout the world is to foster educational activities and interest.

From Brooklyn comes the news that the student activity fund at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute last year had a surplus of $6,000 and there was no legal way to spend it.

Who said girls' rules were strict? Only last year the trustees of Muskingum College abolished a 97 year old rule prohibiting dancing and card playing. Probably another new deal!

Charles Barnet and His Orchestra.

One of radio's youngest maestros, Charles Barnet, is a perfect example of youthful originality and flexibility. His music sparkles with brilliant arrangements and fluctuates between the soft, velvet smooth type of interpretation and the hottest of Harlem-style syncopation. A specialist in the American brand of dance music, Barnet believes most dancers prefer domestic tunes to Continental waltzes and tropical tangos, although his repertory includes many foreign numbers as well. Charles Barnet has been heard over the Columbia Broadcasting System from such prominent New York locations as the Park Central and Paramount Hotels.

Enoch Light and His Orchestra . . .

were chosen to follow Paul Whiteman on his tour of Europe four years ago. They proved a sensation . . . being headlined at the Winter Garden in Berlin, Ritz in Paris, the Casino in Cannes and the Casino in Biarritz. Enoch's band scored the first musical picture made in France, and played at a special performance before former President Doumergue. The foreign influence finds expression in Enoch's trick of interpolating popular American song hits with tuneful lyrics picked up abroad. Vocal solos by Enoch, alternating with "cute" numbers by lovely Mary Danis, are a program highlight. This orchestra has been featured at the Governor Clinton Hotel, New York, and the Shelbourne Hotel, Atlantic City. It is also a Victor Recording unit.

Sam Robbins and His Orchestra . . .

are a band with a distinct flair for being original. Their tuneful novelties, however, are always super-imposed on a background of consistently smooth dance rhythms. Restless, dynamic Sam Robbins himself, former vaudevilian, maintains the music at an ever lively pace, using all his old stage tricks and directing with all mobility of an acrobat. Robbins intersperses his novelty arrangements of popular dance tunes with vocal specialties by June Joy, personality vocalist. This orchestra has been heard extensively both on the radio and in vaudeville, and has acquired a nation-wide following.
