

Spectres of Pristine 'Froth' Greats Leer From Pages of Silver Anniversary Edition

Last night the Froth emerged from a twenty-five year old chrysalis and broke out like a sudden rash on the leading newsstands of the continent in its Silver Anniversary issue, a packet of pleasure from its Robert Foster cover to its seventy-six color blaze of finish.

The shadows of former greats leer from the pages of this quarter century milestone. Roy Dunkle, Registrar Hoffman, Robert Foster, Wayne Weaver, Tom Waring and every other famed artist who walked the weary road of the Froth mug is represented in this historical cross section of the comic.

In the contemporary or near contemporary field there is offered for your subtle sense an enviable round of Don Gordon, Benno Hibler, Robert McKean, Fran Cohen, Ed Zern, Maynard Wood and Jimmy Dugan. Dugan and Gordon may be viewed in one man shows.

Maynard Wood, whose after college what? career has wound itself so definitely about transportation a la Great Lakes, contributes a tour de force in tragedy in "Passion's Awakening," a story believed to be autobiographical as well as biological. Charles J. Wetzel, one time mystery man about Frothian halls, is resurrected in his "Love Comes to Two-Gun Shapiro," a hair raising story of stolen bullet and gun play.

Edwin Malmel, better known as the Mongoose, sets down the account of a visit to a harem in which he was finally lost forever. He writes from his study that things are going smoothly, and wishes the staff success. He has a personal letterhead by this time.

"Merchant of Venison," and "Mr. Yapp Learns To Dance" are editorial features of the dim past, as is "Gas-light Love," a quaint old legend of beer fumes and romance in which the hero gets his hair mussed.

A Bug and Jester, said to be one of the most devilish in years, and an abstraction of the worst sort from the pen of the editor, complete the Jubilee number. Robert Foster, the cover designer, is one of the country's leading men in this field, having designed, in college work, several football illustrateds for Yale, Army, Navy, and Penn.

Committee Selected To Judge Alumni Day Decorations Contest

Fraternity house Alumni Day decorations will be judged this year by a committee consisting of Walter F. Gaylor '35, chairman, Prof. John R. Bracken and Prof. Walter Trainor, both of the department of horticulture, and Lloyd E. Hughes '35, president of Scarab, professional architecture society.

This year for the first time, the women's fraternities will also enter a contest for the best-decorated house. The prizes for this contest, which will be judged by the same committee, are to be selected and donated by Panhellenic Council.

The judging will begin at 7 o'clock tonight, with the trophy, a silver cup, to be presented to the winner by the Alumni association and the Interfraternity Council. The decorations which have become an annual feature of Alumni week-end, will be judged on the basis of lighting, originality, and their relation to the game.

In addition to the fraternity decorations, plans have been made for the display of the municipal holiday decorations throughout the business center. These will be put up by members of the Alpha Fire company.

Approximately 87 per cent of the colleges and universities of the United States are not broadcasting their football games this fall.

Beaver Field Pictorial Features Lion Sports For Alumni Weekend

Containing articles about every sport which will be played here tomorrow, the Alumni issue of Beaver Field Pictorial will be put on sale in all fraternities tonight and tomorrow morning as well as before and during the varsity football game on New Beaver field.

The magazine will contain twenty pages, four pages larger than the usual size. It will describe the varsity football team and the type of opposition which Syracuse will offer. It will also contain articles on the varsity cross-country team, the freshmen cross-country team, and their Orange opponents.

Statistics on the freshman football team, which has thus far gone through the season undefeated, will appear in the Pictorial, as well as "dope" on the Bucknell freshman team which will meet the Blue and White plebe eleven on New Beaver field before the varsity game.

The Pictorial will also contain a number of pictures of Penn State and Syracuse gridiron stars and will contain the line-up for the game as well as the squad roster of each team with each man's correct jersey number beside his name.

A list of principal penalties, an article on the "Syracuse-Penn State Jinx," and a summary of the Lion-

Co-ed Chatter

Alumnae breakfasts are being served by nearly all of the fraternities on Sunday morning. Alpha Chi Omega is entertaining at the Sandwich Shop and Chi Omega at the Nittany Lion Inn. Theta Phi Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Gamma, and Gamma Phi Beta are having breakfasts at their houses.

The Kappas are having tea for their alumnae at the house after the game on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Dengler entertained the members of Archon at their home on S. Gill Street last night.

M. Elizabeth Diffenderfer '35, Lillian J. Etters '35, and Gretchen H. Diehl '36, have been appointed by W.S.G.A. to serve as the Foods Committee which will confer with Mrs. Edith M. Johnson, supervisor of the dining commons.

Syracuse series, along with an article about the undefeated Lion soccer team which is playing Syracuse on the Hillmen's field tomorrow afternoon, concludes the table of contents of the Pictorial.

were among the more unusual masqueraders at the Mac Hall Halloween dinner Wednesday. Elizabeth K. Barton '35, Mary Louise D'Olier '36, and Ruth E. Koehler '36 were the committee in charge of the dinner which is an annual W.S.G.A. function.

L'Amitie alums and actives will be guests of Rosalyn Nieman '33 of Millheim, at a barn dance to be held in a cabin near here tonight.

Members of L'Amitie were the guests of Caroline Kalin '33, at her birthday party at her home last Tuesday night.

Emily Espenshade '35 entertained her senior sponsor group at dinner at her home on Beaver Avenue last Thursday night.

The Phi Mus are entertaining their alumnae at tea on Sunday afternoon.

the Wellman Process does this —
..it makes the tobacco milder

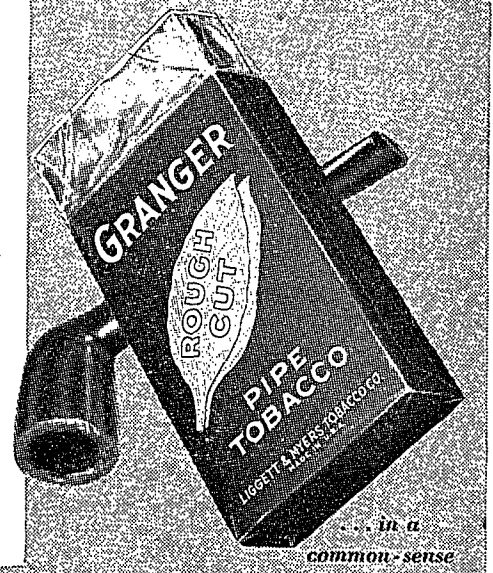

In the manufacture of Granger Rough Cut Pipe Tobacco the Wellman Process is used.

The Wellman Process is different from any other process or method and we believe it gives more enjoyment to pipe smokers.

- ... it gives the tobacco an extra flavor and aroma
- ... it makes the tobacco act right in a pipe—burn slower and smoke cooler
- ... it makes the tobacco milder
- ... it leaves a clean dry ash—no soggy residue or heel in the pipe bowl

LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

We wish in some way we could get every man who smokes a pipe to just try Granger
