

41 SCHOOLS TO FACE R. O. T. C. RIFLE TEAM

15 Others May Accept Challenge Of Military Unit To Enter Marksman's Contests

Forty-one military schools and colleges have accepted challenges to compete against the R.O.T.C. varsity rifle squad, it was learned this morning. Fifteen additional schools have not as yet been heard from, but it is likely that the majority of them will also be added to the schedule. The meets will take place in their respective institutions, each team forwarding their official scores to national army headquarters.

Colleges already signed include: Week of January 12, Valley Forge Military Academy, Concordia College; week of January 19, Oregon State Agricultural College, Wilberforce University, University of Washington; week of January 26, University of Washington, University of Pennsylvania, Rhode Island State College; week of February 9, University of Pittsburgh, Drexel Institute, Virginia Military Institute, Davidson College, University of Wyoming, Harvard University; week of February 16, Carnegie Institute, University of Pittsburgh, Clemson College, University of Maryland, College of C. N. Y., Cornell University, University of California; week of February 23, Western Maryland College, Iowa State University, North Dakota Agricultural College, Columbia University, Michigan State University, Auburn University, Ripon College.

Others are: Week of March 2, Kemper Military School, Washington University, University of Oregon, University of Georgia, Syracuse University; week of March 9, New Mexico Military Institute, University of Akron, University of Missouri, University of Illinois, Massachusetts State College, University of New Hampshire, University of Kentucky.

NITTANY BOOTERS SWAMP DICKINSON

McEwan Tabs 6 of 10 Goals; Lions Tied With Cornell

By WALT FREUNSCH

Playing a rather listless game, in which the players moved swiftly to keep warm rather than for any other reason, the Lions sadly ruined the pitchforks of Dickinson's Red Devils by taking them over, 10-0-1, on New Beaver field Saturday in the season's finale.

Six seniors made their valedictory appearance: Captain Jack Fletcher, Bob Graham, Dick Sigel, Don Masters, "Nip" Ambler, and Julie Krems. Many substitutions and switches were used, such as fullbacks playing in the line, and reserve goalie Ben Palmer at fullback, but the carnage went unabated.

The possibility that State might garner another championship this year was aided materially over the week-end when Brown defeated Springfield 2-0-1, thus eliminating the latter from the title race. As it now stands, State and Cornell are in a tie for first place, each being undefeated, although tied once.

The Big Red will play Haverford in a crucial league match Thanksgiving day morning on the Main Liners' field and if Cornell is held to a tie or is defeated, this automatically gives the Jeffreymen the championship.

To Bill McEwan, sophomore sensation, goes the unique honor of having scored twice as many goals in a season as any previous Lion booter. Al Debonis, as a sophomore on the championship team of 1929, scored ten goals to hold the high-scoring honors until now. The season's record of thirty-eight goals, or an average of over five markers a contest, also sets a new high for future elevens to shoot at.

"Mac" was high scorer in Saturday's game, with six goals. Captain Fletcher scored the most spectacular tally, caging one from about twenty-five or more yards out. Masters, Biebeck, and Ambler also assisted in the melee to the extent of a goal apiece.

With this season now a pleasant memory, Coach Bill Jeffrey, can turn his thoughts to next year's chances. A veteran forward line will return, but the loss of "Fletch," especially will leave a gap that will take a "lot of filling."

WRIGHTING BETWEEN THE LIONS

By FRED W. WRIGHT

This is the story of Gerald Gates and State College H. S., undefeated this morning after meeting Tyrone Saturday on New Beaver field. Since we don't know yet which is Gerald and which Vincent, we'll call Gerald "Peeney," the same as everybody else.

Dean Warnock, with blanket and wife, arrived at 1:45 and at 1:59 the game was ready to begin. We're not sure but we suspect Gates Sr. (not Prof.) Olewine Sr., and Blanchet sr. were there, too. Doc Ritourn arrived shortly after and made sure of having the press box as a wind breaker.

Gerald Gates took a pass from Mitchell about 2:02 and ran over the goal line unmolested. Correction: It was Vincent. No, it was "Peeney." About the same time Tyrone's Orange and Black were looking sort of crushed and bruised.

The remainder of the quarter was a rather dull affair, Hum Fishburn having arrived late by the circuitous route from the Hollow and wanting to catch up with the game. Just before the end of the second quarter, Fishburn was satisfied and the spectators looked up in time to see Rog Maurer, varsity Richard's brother, leap over center for another touchdown.

At this point Dean Warnock got to his feet and shook his fist at son Roy, co-captain with the Doc's John, for not scoring. He had only run to the six-inch line the play before. But that's our dear for you.

Young Warnock apparently wasn't watching his father at that particular moment, however, for he made no attempt whatsoever to leave the field and get an excuse.

Later, "Peeney" Gates wandered off to the 30-yard line and was blissfully watching Sherm Lutz's red plane when Warnock heaved a pass into his arms and he ran almost for another touchdown. We didn't see the play either; we were watching one of the girl cheerleaders. On second thought, it was Vincent. Gates sr. is said to have made remarks that could not exactly have been tolerated by Prof. Espenshade, even in a Wednesday night poker session.

By this time, Coach Ken Haines, ex-Lion, was pointing for Bellefonte. Maybe that was the wrong impression. Add: "his proteges" and reread. So the Gates plan was very much in evidence Saturday afternoon. Query: Why doesn't Penn do a Little Lion? Or why do they?

While the boys were wondering whether Lutz would bounce off the uprights or go over for a field goal, Tyrone scored a touchdown, making it 18-7. Lutz soon left, however, and shortly after so did Tyrone. Feeling that double pneumonia was not far in the offing, so did we.

35-yard line, putting the Lions in a hole from which they did not recover until half-time. This period was dominated by the Bisons even more than the first had been dominated by the Lion.

Reznichak let loose a series of passes that set the Lions back on their haunches twice. Taking the ball on the State 37-yard line, the Bisons began an uninterrupted march that was stopped half a yard from the goal. Barth, who stopped Reznichak's plunge for a touchdown, was injured on the play and had to be replaced by Latorre.

After half-time Coach Higgins sent in Cooper, Maurer, and Knapp as running mates for Silvano to give the first-string men a rest for the final quarter. In the whole second period State completed six plays, two of them punts.

Early in the third quarter Furiell was able to jump on one of Sitarsky's punts just before it bounded across the goal line, and Maurer had to kick from the end zone. He got one off

FRESHMEN ELEVEN STOPS GETTYSBURG 26-0 IN FINAL PLAY

Owens, Wear Star in Closing Game of Season

With "Rabbit" Wear and Fred Owens leading the way, the freshman football team defeated the Gettysburg plebes on the Bullets' field Saturday afternoon, 26-0, closing one of the most satisfactory seasons in the history of recent freshman teams.

The Gettysburg team fought hard during the first two quarters and things were fairly equal until half-time, although the Lion cubs did manage to shake Wear loose on a twenty-five yard off-tackle play in the second quarter to score the first State touchdown.

In the second half the Bullets were unable to cope with the terrific running and passing attack put up by the entire freshman team, led by Owens and Wear, both of whom got away frequently for long gains. However, the work of these two brilliant backs would have been nil if Johnny Economos, Danny DeMarino, and the rest of the linemen had not been clearing aside the Gettysburg line and backfield.

The star "thriller" of the game came in the third quarter when Fred Owens broke through the Gettysburg left tackle, Gacha, and raced through the entire Bullet team with wonderful interference from his team-mates to score another touchdown. In the same period Carl Waugaman, left end for State, snagged a pass from Owens and stepped across the line to chalk up another tally.

Acting captain Johnny Economos, State's left guard, who has played stellar ball all season, made himself one of the outstanding stars of the game, when he broke through the Gettysburg line to intercept a Bullet pass from a fake punt formation and score a touchdown in the last period. Cornman, who did the try-for-point kicking for the Lions, scored on only to his 30-yard stripe. Reznichak's pass to Wilkinson was good for eleven yards and Smith added four more on a line buck. Reznichak then faded back to the 26-yard line and tossed a pass to Smith in the clear on the 2-yard line. He scored, and Reznichak kicked the extra point.

Several plays after the kickoff Maurer was attempting to punt out of danger on the fourth down from his own 25-yard line. For once the Lion line weakened and the whole center of the Bucknell forward wall, led by McLaughlin, came forward to block the punt. Filer grabbed the ball only to fumble it again. Boistonguard, finally got it and ran to the State 9-yard line before he was stopped.

On the next play Reznichak went wide around right end for a touchdown, straight-arming all prospective tacklers. He failed to convert. The quarter ended a few plays later.

State's final chance had come. The wind that had been driving them back to their goal was now at their backs. Higgins sent in Sigel for Cooper, and Mikelonis for Maurer several plays later.

It was State's chance and they muffed it. On the first play of the quarter Maurer got off a nice kick that travelled with the wind to the Bison 8-yard line. Sitarsky promptly returned it through the whole State team to his own 47-yard line—farther than the Lions had been in the whole second and third quarters.

After that Sitarsky's punts kept the Lions back in their own territory. Knapp, playing safety, judged several of them badly, letting them roll to the 5-yard line where they were downed by the Orange and Blue ends.

State opened up a barrage of passes, only one of which was completed. And that play was brought back because Fry's lateral to Mikelonis went slightly forward.
