

Advanced R.O.T.C. To Hold Hop Tonight

Couples attending the second annual Cadet Hop in the Armory tonight will find the costumes and the music the only modern notes, as a strictly medieval theme of decorations has been adopted throughout. Bill Bottorf and his orchestra will play for the dancing, which will last from 9 o'clock to 1.

Entrance to the dance floor will be made through a castle gate, complete with portcullis, at which a guard will be stationed to scrutinize the guests' credentials. Within the castle motif, taken from the insignia of the Engineer Corps, is continued with the use of decorative turrets on the stage

35 Students Accepted For Second Semester

Thirty-five new students have been accepted for entrance here at the beginning of the second semester, Dr. Carl E. Marquardt, College Examiner, announced. The Liberal Arts-Lower Division leads with an enrollment of 14, and the Agriculture school comes second with six new students. The Education school follows closely behind with five; the Chemistry and Physics school has four new students followed by Engineering and Physical Education with two each and Mineral Industries with one.

Fifteen applicants have already applied for entrance next September, three of which were offered admission. The first 1935 freshman has been admitted. He is William M. Andrews II, of New Bethlehem. He has enrolled in the Chemical Engineering department.

Additional Candidates Try Out for Collegian

Sixteen additional candidates for the editorial staff of the COLLEGIAN reported at the second meeting of the freshmen group under the direction of Phillip W. Fair '35, assistant managing editor. At the meeting, the candidates did a little practice writing and it will be from these papers that instructions in newspaper writing will be explained at the following sessions as well as headline writing, copy editing, and make-up devices.

The candidates reporting for this meeting who did not attend the first session include, George W. Costellom, William K. Earle, Mary M. Gravatt, Shirley R. Helms, Bud Honkess, Charles E. Keeney, Frieda M. Knepper, and Ruth C. Linde.

Others were Jean L. Lyman, Peggy R. Pearl, Mildred A. Robbins, Eleanor Saunders, Louise G. Stebbins, Wilfred C. Washoe, Jean Whittle, and Sylvia Yoffe. The next meeting is scheduled for Monday night, Jan. 20, in Room 417, Old Main at 7 o'clock.

Practical Agricultural Short Courses Begin

Students enrolled yesterday for the first of three two-weeks specialized dairy courses which are to be given by the School of Agriculture. Instruction in the dairy courses started last week. They are part of the courses in practical agriculture given by the College each winter. Other short courses also opened with an enrollment of thirty-two students. The enrollments were largely in management and poultry husbandry.

Astronomical Society Elects New Officers

At a meeting of the Penn State Astronomical society recently, Charles F. Meyer '35 was elected president of the society; Paul O. Nicodemus '36, treasurer; and George R. Dean, graduate student, secretary.

So far, fourteen students have been admitted to the society as members, having passed the required entrance examinations given in astronomy. The group is planning to study astronomy during the meetings and use, for practical observation, the 10-inch reflector telescope which Dr. Henry L. Yeagley, of the physics department, constructed last fall. During the coming season, the society will observe the Horse's Head nebula in the Orion constellation.

The telescope cannot be used at present as it was damaged by the weather over vacation. The group is planning to erect a temporary shelter until a suitable dome can be built to protect the telescope.

C.A. Goodwill Seminar Planned for Feb. 8, 9

Endeavoring to attain a better and more permanent relationship among the Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish sects on the campus, a goodwill seminar, which will be organized for the first time here, is planned for February 8 and 9. The seminar, sponsored by the P. S. C. A., is modeled after similar conferences held at Yale, Wellesley, Dickinson, and the larger cities.

Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron and Rev. Bernard C. Clausen, organizers of other seminars, have been secured as the main speakers. A third lecturer, who will be disclosed at a later date, will be added to the speaking staff. Rabbi Lazaron will also be the chapel speaker Sunday morning, February 10.

The plans, although not yet ready to be disclosed, will entail an opening session Friday afternoon, a public discussion in the auditorium Friday night, and several private conferences Saturday. Invitations to the closed sessions will be issued only to a representative hundred most active students on the campus, the committee disclosed.

— so far as we know tobacco was first used about 400 years ago —

— throughout the years what one thing has given so much pleasure..so much satisfaction

They came looking for gold . . . but they found tobacco

. . . and tobacco has been like gold ever since!
The tobacco raised in Virginia, and exchanged for goods helped the struggling colonists to get a foothold when they came to America.
Later on, it was tobacco that helped to clothe and feed Washington's brave army at Valley Forge.
Today it is tobacco that helps—more than any other commodity raised in this country—to pay the expense of running our Government.
In the fiscal year 1933-34 the Federal Government collected $425,000,000 from the tax on tobacco. Most of this came from cigarettes—six cents tax on every package of twenty.
Yes, the cigarette helps a lot—and it certainly gives men and women a lot of pleasure.
Smokers have several reasons for liking Chesterfields. For one thing, Chesterfields are milder. For another thing, they taste better. They Satisfy.

Early Colonial planters shipped hundreds of pounds of tobacco to England in return for goods and supplies.
