

Lion Ringmen Defeat Cornell in Opening Meet of 1935 Season

Lock Haven is Substituted For Susquehanna; To Face Lion Five Here Tomorrow

Lesliemen Expect Easy Victory After Defeating Presidents 38-15 in Hilarious Game Before Saturday Crowd.

By CHARLIE SCHWARTZ

Penn State courtmen will engage the Lock Haven State Teachers' College at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in a practice tilt which has been substituted for the Susquehanna game, originally scheduled for Saturday night. Susquehanna had to cancel their games this year because they had no place to work out since their gym burned last year.

The Lock Haven game was scheduled so that the Lions would not have to lay off a week and go any staler than they are getting with this series of six set-ups in a row. Lock Haven was here during the Christmas vacation for a practice game and the Lions swamped them. Probably the same thing will occur again tomorrow.

Zeleznock Beats Canzoneri

They downed Kutztown State Teachers Saturday, 45-to-44. Earon and Myers, forwards, who accounted for fifteen and fourteen points, respectively, in that game, may give Frank Smith and Mike Kornick a little trouble, but the rest seems easy and the Lions will probably be able to give another sparkling exhibition of passing in the forward court like they did last Saturday night against W. & J.

The Lions romped over the Prexies as per expectations, in a hilarious encounter interspersed with one or two brilliant spots, ending in a wild scramble, 38-to-15. During the last ten minutes of play, when Coach Spike Leslie put in everybody (including Mikelonis and Knapp), the going became so comical that the spectators began to wonder whether they were watching a basketball game or a side-show.

Saturday night's game uncovered Charlie Glennon, a flashy forward, who seemed to be all over the court at once, sinking baskets from almost midfield. He and Jimmy Smith, again acting captain, took scoring honors with four field goals each. Glennon, who played almost three-quarters of the game, opened the scoring barrage within three minutes of the loss-up with a beauty from the back court. A minute later he followed with another from the same spot. The Lions scored fourteen points before W. & J. realized what was happening. At half-time they led, 24-to-8.

Coach Adams Sanders had his attack built around Earl Goeke, six foot four Prexy center, but all of his bucket shots went to naught with the exception of one. Sherm Grable, his teammate, took scoring honors for the visitors with six points.

Penn State wrestling enthusiasts shudder when they think of the schedule facing the wrestling team this season. It seems that the persons who compiled it took special pains to include only the most ferocious, fire-eating teams in the East.

Even though the material is the most impressive in recent years, wrestling fans can find only one team on the schedule where the Lions can be reasonably sure of winning; that being Syracuse. In predicting the outcome of the other five dual meets, even the most obnoxious optimists would hesitate.

Miami Comes Saturday

In the opening meet, Miami University, of Coral Gables, Florida, is sending its crack team on a thousand mile journey this week for the privilege of trying to wipe Penn State off the wrestling map. In the past, this school has turned out several Olympic champions, and only last month, its wrestling team polished off the Cuban Olympic outfit.

In the second engagement, on February 9, the torso-twisters from Columbia will come here. The Lion wrestlers vividly recall that last year they barely managed to eke out a one-point margin victory over the Columbia Lions. This year the New Yorkers are expected to be even better. After being defeated by C. C. N. Y. last year, the Columbians came back last week and beat the same team up in an impressive score.

Lehigh on Schedule

On the next week-end the Lions journey to Cornell, and when the meet comes off lots of people back in State College will be doing some painful wondering: Last year the contest ended in a deadlock. In their opening meet of this season on Saturday, the Ithacans eradicated Springfield by a 23-to-11 score. Last year Springfield was the champion of the league which includes Yale, Harvard, Brown, and the rest of the cream of New England, if that means anything.

Without even being given a chance to catch their breath, the Lions will return to their lair on the following week to bump into the team that has held the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship for so long that it has become tiresome—Lehigh! Championship teams are taken for granted there, and this year is no exception. Nothing would fill the Lion grapplers with more ecstatic delight than to knock this crew off its throne. Syracuse comes next, and although it cannot conceivably be labeled as a breather, it should be a guy compared to the four previous meets. Navy is listed as the final dual engagement for the Lions. When the two teams met for the last time in 1932, State took a white-washing to the tune of 32-to-0. An elephant never forgats, and neither does a Nityan Lion.

WRIGHTING BETWEEN THE LIONS

By FRED W. WRIGHT

Penn State—both the students and the College—shouldn't get too excited over the recent suspension for the year of the Lion soccer team from association competition and the consequent awarding of the championship for 1934 to Cornell, with a record of four wins and two ties.

Cornell is an innocent bystander in the whole affair, a situation brought about by Penn State using a gentleman from Syracuse, alumni, and Coach Bill Jeffrey in the line-up while on the tour of Scotland last summer.

The Big Red would have been silly indeed to have turned down the championship when it was offered them after Penn State's undefeated season was wiped off the records by the suspension at the Association meeting last week.

It appears that some of the Association officials have made asses of themselves by heaving so closely to the line in making their decision, but Penn State is not entirely blameless of deliberately violating the sacred Association covenants. Coach Jeffrey became Player-Jeffrey when one of the other lads who made the trip became ill. Since the players paid their own expenses, there was a dearth of substitutes, and Jeffrey was doing the only thing he knew of to prevent the scheduled games from being cancelled—a development that would have reacted decidedly unfavorably to American soccer.

Certainly it seems that not every fact that was taken into consideration in making the decision has come to light. The facts for undergraduate consumption, as usual in cases of this kind, have been reduced to mere hand-outs.

The trouble surrounding the whole situation was brewed in Philadelphia. Ex-Secretary Johnson is the colored gentleman who hangs out in the woods. The Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Association has too long been dominated by persons who have not gotten over their undergraduate patriotism for the University of Pennsylvania.

After years of trying to make fencing and gymnastics stand on their own feet in the intercollegiate world, it is gratifying to see that the College athletic authorities who have power over the time and place element of these events, have begun to sandwich them in between basketball halves—their rightful place. It is not fair to expect the lads to spend so much energy and risk injury without an audience.

Five years ago the student multitudes cheered 'Sop' Campbell as he won the 155-pound intercollegiate wrestling title. The ticket-takers were willing to applaud too, for he packed 'em in, and a guy who can pack 'em in is always a pleasure indeed to those nabobs who go over the attendance figures the next morning.

But sports fame is fleeting; the crowd soon forgets. Today Campbell, who will officiate at the Navy-Lehigh wrestling match on February 16, can't get into Recreation hall without purchasing a ticket.

Although the five lads on the floor took it unkindly, the last nine minutes of the basketball game Saturday night were probably the funniest ever on a court. The boys did every act in mock seriousness and finally wound up by doing everything but losing the ball in Mikelonis' pants.

Even Coach 'Spike' Leslie, who ordinarily will not permit clowning antics on the basketball floor, buried his head in his arms and shook with ill-concealed mirth. The title of the act was:

Shots at Random: Norry McFarlane, basketball captain last season and man-about-town, the three previous, didn't make out so well in pro basketball league circles around his native Pittsburgh, and he is now recovering from a nervous breakdown, so they say . . .

Lion Gridders Elect Weber 1935 Captain

Tackle Will Also Head '35 Lacrosse Team Next Season.

Won I. M. Boxing Title As Unlimited Champion

Robert E. Weber '36, of Erie, was elected captain of the 1935 Lion football team at a meeting of the 1934 lettermen Saturday afternoon. He will succeed Merrill B. Morrison '35.

Weber has been a regular tackle for the past two seasons, having started at left tackle in every game this season. He is six feet tall and weighs 192 pounds. He transferred here from Ohio State University in his freshman year.

The captain-elect was the "iron man" of the Lion team during the 1934 season, having the most playing time to his credit. Besides playing football, he is captain-elect of the lacrosse team for the coming season.

By virtue of his victory over Harry R. Cromwell '37 Wednesday night, he is intramural boxing champion in the unlimited class. He was named to Bucknell's all-opponent team this season by Coach E. E. "Hooks" Mylin.

He is the third member of his family to gain athletic fame here. An older brother, Joe, played varsity football and lacrosse in 1929, and another brother, Herman, starred in lacrosse in 1930, 1931, and 1932.

She-Lions

The Theta and Delta Gammas will battle tomorrow night for laurels in the intramural basketball tournament. Both groups have attained the highest honors of their teams by winning the greatest number of games, and the struggle will be close because the teams are so equally matched.

Peg Abraham's spectacular playing will be a feature of the game, and she will be backed by the stellar performances of Ruth Lonberger and Dot Hennicke. Peg Campbell and Harriet Brakeman are the Theta's forward duo, and Peg Smith, Sally Bushong and Mary Jane Thompson are the able members of their defense squad.

The standing of the rest of the teams is about the same, after four more games have been played off. The Down Town Girls defeated Chi Omega 28-to-22 in a close game, and Alpha Omicron Pi marked up a 27-to-16 victory over Theta Phi Alpha. Woman's Building overcame Gamma Phi Beta, and Alpha Omicron Pi scored an overwhelming victory over Woman's Building by a 43-to-11 score. Chi Omega and Kappa Kappa Gamma are tied for second honors on the blue team, neither group having seriously menaced the Theta's standing. Alpha Omicron Pi of the white team is a close second to Delta Gamma, with an unbeaten record except for the defeat at the hands of the

McAndrews, Rhoda Score Knock-Outs as Ithacans Lose Contest, 4 1-2 to 3 1-2

Mike Zeleznock, Frank Goodman Gain Decisions Over Opponents; Madison Gets Draw; Big Reds Take 3 Bouts.

The Penn State boxing team won its first meet on the 1935 card Saturday night when it defeated the Cornell ringmen at Ithaca, 4 1-2-to-3 1-2. McAndrews, in the 115 pound class, and Rhoda in the heavyweight, won their bouts by K. O.'s.

Although this was the first intercollegiate bout for the Big Red boxers, they did remarkably well in holding the Lion boxers down to 4 1-2 points. Frankie McAndrews, the third of the McAndrews to wear the colors of State in the ring, knocked out Torregrasa, Cornell 115 pounder, shortly after the start of the second round.

Zeleznock Beats Canzoneri Mike Zeleznock, Lion captain, who is planning on defending his intercollegiate crown in the 125 pound class, had his man, Canzoneri, down and out at the close of the third round, but somehow or other the bell rang and Mike received only a decision. Canzoneri, who tried to put up a battle against Mike's withering blows, is a nephew of Tony Canzoneri, former welterweight pro champ.

Larry Madison, fighting in the 135 pound class, got a draw in his bout with Eauders. It was very close throughout the three rounds of the bout. Dick Flenkiken lost the decision to Cramer, of Cornell, in the 155 pound class.

Frankie Goodman, State sophomore, won his first intercollegiate bout in the 145 pound class, from DeGrasse. Goodman fought a good clean offensive fight through the three rounds and is now regarded as one of the most promising boys on the team.

Thayer, big Cornell 165 pounder, was awarded the decision over Ritzie, of State, after three rounds of real hammer and tongs, with Ritzie giving everything he had and keeping the Cornellian, a man much bigger than himself on the jump all the time. Mr. Thayer really earned his decision.

Adler, Cornell 175 pounder, was awarded the decision over Sawchuk, Blue and White battler. Adler had it tough going throughout the entire bout and only won after he had worn Sawchuk down a bit.

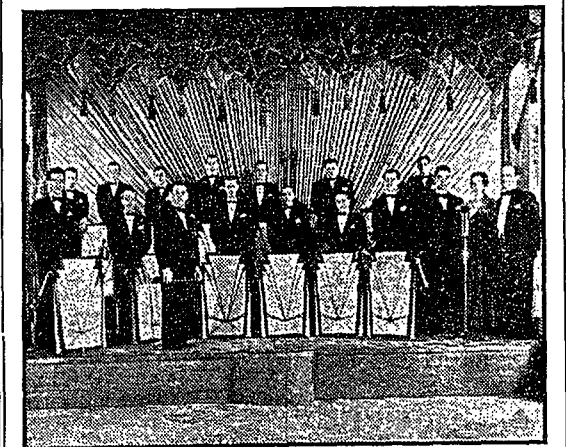

The real surprise of the evening came when "Whitney" Rhoda, State fullback, stepped into the ring, and fifteen seconds after the second round opened K.O.ed the Cornell heavyweight, Jennikens, with a terrific wallop. "Whitney" was making his debut in the ring game and had not been regarded as having such a terrific punch. However Saturday's meet proves that it's there. And plenty of it.

Dont Miss Senior Ball February 8th

According to those locally who are in the know, such as Hummel Fishburn of the Music Department, Irving Aaronson and his famous Commanders will bring a new type of musical entertainment to State College at the Senior Ball on February 8th.

Appearing with Aaronson will be Betty Cannon, Skippy Carlstrom, Dick Dickson, and Ernie Mathias. All of these artists have toured this country and Europe with the orchestra and have joined it in making innumerable Victor phonograph records.

During their recent European tour, the Commanders established a new record for a traveling orchestra. They appeared at two places in Paris, and after being there for twelve weeks, played at Ostende, Belgium, and at the Plaza Theatre, London.
