

Campus Boxing Fans Predict Hamas Victory in Schmeling Fight

Lions Will Meet Panthers In Final Game of Season On Home Court Tomorrow

By CHARLIE SCHWARTZ

The Lion, they say, is king of beasts. But in Recreation hall tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock the Lion and the Panther will meet for basketball superiority, and the Lion will have to do some pretty agile stepping!

Dr. Hal Carlson will bring a wily Panther quintet to face the Lions. Hailed as one of the finest teams in the East, Pitt has been beaten but four times this year, and has averaged two of those set-backs in return games. They lost to Navy, 24-22; to Temple, 45-38, and topped them in a return game, 34-25; to Northwestern, the outstanding team in the Big Ten Conference; and to Duquesne, a traditional rival, 27-25, later topping Present titleholders in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Conference, they are again in first place for this year. Penn State's fate lies in its ability to stop Pitt's renowned "figure 8" offense. The offense which Dr. Carlson employs is a dazzling criss-cross, high-speed passing in the forecourt. It resembles that which Spike Leslie's proteges use, except that the passes are longer.

Coach Leslie is not certain of his starting line-up. Chuck Glennon's excellent performance at Syracuse last week may give him the nod at forward, while Bar Riley may be in Jim Hunter's position at center. Captain Johnny Stocker will be the other

Varsity, Plebe Boxers To Fight Army Away In Season's Final Tilt

By HARRY HENDERSON

Leaving this morning for West Point where they will engage the Army boxing team tomorrow night, the Penn State boxers are seeking victory in their last dual meet before the Intercollegiate here next week-end. The high spots of the meet will be in the 125-pound class where Co-captain Dick Army, will meet Frankie McAndrews, State, and in the 145-pound class where Frankie Goodman, State, will meet Connor, who defeated Haynes, of Western Maryland. Izzy Richter and Lou Ritze should win their bouts with a margin.

The varsity boxing team will be accompanied by the freshman boxing team, organized for the first time this year and which is under the tutelage of Tommy Slusser, last year's ring and grid captain. They will meet the strong Army plebe team which has won decisively every one of the meets this year, one of them, with Greenbrier, 8-to-0.

Captain Zeleznock will meet Meany, Army, in the 135-pound class; Ritze, State, will meet either Bagby or Gray in the 155-pound class; Anderson, State, will be making his initial bow under the colors of Penn State this year if he gets the nod over Freddie O'Neil to fight Koska or Parrot, Army, in the 165-pound class; Johnny Sawchak, State, will fight Junzan, of Army; and Izzy Richter will meet Cadet Stillman in the heavyweight class.

Freshmen boxers making the trip will be either Morris or Steigmeier in the 115-; Shaw, in the 125-; Bob Donato, in the 135-pound class; Sammy Donato, in the 145-; Blades, in the 155-; Hoffman in the 165-; Enders in the 175-; and Bolder, in the heavyweight.

Bezdek, Houck, Zeleznock, Scott, Bell, Riley Show Reasons for Prophesying Triumph in German Ring Next Sunday

By JOHN MILLER

"Er wird ihn kaltmachen." Literally translated it means, "He will murder him," but that is precisely what boxing authorities on the campus think about the extent of the damage that Steve Hamas will inflict upon Max Schmeling when he meets him in Hansatic Hall, Hamburg, Germany, on Sunday night.

"I saw the Hamas-Schmeling fight in Convention Hall in Philadelphia last February," Louis H. Bell, of the department of journalism, said last night, "and Steve outclassed his opponent sufficiently to convince me he will do the same thing again." "Since the last time Steve met Schmeling he has developed into a much better boxer," Michael Zeleznock, captain of the varsity boxing team, declared. "He has a better than every chance of beating him because of the valuable experience gained through meeting Lasky in particular. I feel that if Hamas takes this fight, he will have first chance at the championship."

When asked his opinion on the outcome of the match, Hugo Bezdek, director of the School of Physical Education, declared that he couldn't force himself to think that Steve would lose. He further declared that if Steve plants a few of his unusually telling blows in Schmeling's mid-section or on the button, the fight won't run ten rounds.

The man who knows Steve, and what he can do, as well or better than anyone else on the campus firmly believes that he will knock out Schmeling. Leo Houck, boxing coach, said, "Steve softened Schmeling in the fight last February and he'll polish him off this time. If he uses the same tactics he used during the first eight rounds of his previous fight, Hamas ought to have no more trouble than before in winning the nod."

George A. Scott, city editor of the Centre Daily Times, also believes that the next contender for Maxie Baer's corner in the ring will be Steve Hamas as he had enough of a margin on the German boxer in the last fight to do it again. "However," Mr. Scott continued, "I think Steve will almost have to knock out Schmeling because he is fighting him in Germany. Were the fight being staged anywhere else, a closer decision might be safe."

"If the fight is close at all, I think the decision will go to Schmeling," H. Ridge Riley, sports editor in the department of public information, declared. "The German fight promoters want to build up as much as possible for a fight over there between Baer and his challenger. Both boys are in good condition and the fight should run the full length."
