

Tickets Now Available For Publication Dance

Tickets for the Publications dance, to be held in Recreation hall March 30 are now on sale. They may be obtained at the Student Union desk in Old Main or from any member of Pi Delta Epsilon, publications honorary.

Bill Bottorf will furnish the music for the affair, the profits of which will be turned over to the Old Main Bell.

Bernreuter Will Hold Weekly 'Open House'

Prof. Robert G. Bernreuter, of the department of education and psychology, will hold an "Open House" in his offices on the third floor of the Education building every Tuesday afternoon for the rest of the semester. Free vocational guidance tests will be given to all students applying who are confused as to their choice of career or need personal adjustment.

Tests which are available to students include all of the worthwhile tests given throughout the country. The more important are tests in intellectual ability, mechanical ability, musical aptitude, clerical ability, personality traits, and vocational interest. The latter includes thirty different trades. A test in color blindness may also be taken. Problems of mental or social maladjustment will also be treated and recommendations leading to improvement and correction made.

In past years this service has been limited to a rather small number of students. This year increased facilities make it possible to offer these tests to a large group.

Zeleznock Should Win
Tomorrow afternoon Captain Zeleznock, State, in the 135-pound class will meet the winner of the fight between Crampton, Harvard, and Haynes, of Western Maryland. Zeleznock should have little trouble with either of them. Bardecke, Syracuse will meet Parmalee, of Princeton, in the prelims tonight, and the winner will fight Meany, of Army, tomorrow afternoon. It certainly looks like another crown for Mike.

Goodman To Meet Brassil
In the 145-pound class tonight Brassil, Harvard, will meet Frankie Goodman, State in a battle that should be Frankie's by a great margin. Western Maryland's Kaddy will be fighting Miles, of Princeton and Lettus, M. I. T., will take a lot of punishment from Art McGivern, of Syracuse.

McGivern, who should win hands down, will meet Montvello, of the Coast Guard Academy, who reached the semi-finals on a bye, tomorrow afternoon. The battle will be between Goodman and Kaddy tomorrow afternoon and, we're hoping, between Goodman and McGivern tomorrow night. The Orange boxer was beaten here recently in a questionable decision.

Drawing a bye, Keyser, Western Maryland, in the 155-pound class will meet the victor of tonight's bout between Regan, Syracuse, and Cassale, M. I. T., tomorrow afternoon and should take a beating from Regan. Westbrook, of the Coast Guard, also byed into the semi-finals where he will meet Lou Ritzie, who will undoubtedly win his fight over Olney, of Harvard. If Ritzie goes as he has during this past season he should have little trouble in gaining a title for himself.

In the 175-pound class Janzan, Army, byed to the semi-finals where he will meet the victor of the Brown, Princeton, - Sawchak, State bout tonight. Two more 175-pound bouts are scheduled for tonight. They are between Sala, Villanova, and Robertson, Harvard, and champion Bernie Kaplan, Western Maryland, and Jeffers, of Syracuse. The last bout alone should prove to be worth the admission price.

Who ever wins the Kaplan-Jeffers bout will win the title in this weight. Kaplan had to push himself a little when he fought Sawchak here recently, but if he is in good condition, this fight should be the kind that brings in the cash customers.

Bernreuter Amazed, Displeased At Council's Ruling on Customs

"I was both amazed and displeased with the recent action of Student Council in failing to lift freshman customs," declared Robert G. Bernreuter, professor of education and psychology, in a recent interview. "It was shortsighted of the Council to continue enforcement when student opinion points definitely in the opposite direction."

"The two basic reasons for their being are tradition and for unity of the new men," he continued. "In the first respect, Penn State falls down right at the beginning because tradition can never be made through enforcement. At Stanford and the University of California, to mention a few, customs are worn by all freshmen just as a matter of tradition and not because they are enforced. The incoming men are proud to wear them."

"As to being a factor of unity, freshman dress customs are of the utmost importance and are performing a valuable office, but rules against walking on the grass, smoking, and dating are both childish and foolish," he pointed out.

"The dating rule in particular," he continued, "is of help in only one particular, namely it gives the upper classmen a chance to compete with freshmen in the dating of first year co-eds. That particular rule interferes greatly with my psychological adjustment work of getting new students to fit into the college environment which is new to them. They are unable to gain the needed poise and social adjustment which results from companionship with the opposite sex.

"Through the halls of learning resounds the cry by the students for more 'liberal culture,' and yet these same students place hard and fast rules and restrictions on the freshmen, customs which make them appear anything but the epitome of culture. It's not quite logical," Dr. Bernreuter insisted.

In conclusion, Dr. Bernreuter reiterated his beliefs that more benefits would be derived from freshman customs if all except the dress rules were eliminated and these were not enforced at all, but would be accepted and worn with pride by Penn State freshmen merely as a matter of tradition.

Engineers To Witness Interviewing Process

The Engineering school will bring something new to its students at a meeting in the Chemistry amphitheatre at 3:15 tomorrow afternoon, ac-ording to Robert L. Sackett, dean of the Engineering school, when an exhibition of what takes place at a typical interview will be given.

The exhibition will draw its material from the reports of company men who have visited the College, and from letters of interview that they have received.

I am your Lucky Strike

I give you the mildest, best-tasting smoke—because I am made of center leaves only. The top leaves are unripe, bitter, biting. The bottom leaves are coarse, sandy, harsh. The center leaves are the choice leaves. They are mildest, mellowest, yet richest in fine tobacco flavor. And I offer you the fragrant, expensive center leaves exclusively. I do not irritate your throat. That's why I dare to say, "I'm your best friend."
