Professionals Will Arrange Revue Music

Scorers Hired To Write Orchestration for 'Don't Let On'

14 Numbers Composed For Thespian Musical

Taking an ultra-professional turn, the Thespians have hired "Jimmy" Warren and "Bill" Schollenberger, who write the orchestra arrangements for "Ozzie" Nelson's and other "name" bands, to compose the orchestra arrangements of the music for the coming Thespian show, "Don't Let On" by John S. Naylor, of the English composition department, which will be presented here Saturday night, April 5, Interfraternity Ban week-end.

The two musicians, who have spent the last four days here watching rehearsals to get a slant on the type of orchestration needed, will write arrangements for a total of fourteen numbers.

Thinking of Road Trip

Added to the work of these musicians will be the special lyrics which "Chang" Smith '27, ex-Thespian, has written of his top-notch "Winter Wonderland" for "Don't Let On." One entire set of the show has been built around this number according to J. Ewing "Sock" Kennedy, Thespian director.

Kennedy and Hummel Fishburn, of the department of music, also a Thespian director, said today that a member of the Thespian orchestra.

The Bassett-Naylor compositions include "Love Has Come to Stay," "April's in My Heart," Mussolini Says No, No "Yard of Dreams," "I'll Go to Town with You," and "Love Trouble." Bassett and Naylor first starting writing numbers for the Thespian show this fall when they wrote several numbers for "Bargain Around," including "I've Got a Weekend to Spare" and "The Song of the Wheel."

New Songwriting Team Contributes

A new team in lyric and music club felt it was making a big step forward in bringing these arrangers here to write orchestrations. "We're very likely to go on a road trip with this show and we want to have the best musical arrangements we can get. These boys know their stuff and they'll do a real 'pro' job on these numbers."

Bassett, Naylor Do 7 Numbers

T. Robert Bassett, of the English composition department, has written the music for seven numbers while Mr. Naylor, the author of the show, has written the lyrics for all of them and also for a number entitled "Crave A Lyric," the music for which was written by Henry K. Beard '36, writing will present "Talkin' Through My Hat." The lyrics of this number were done by F. William Stoeb '38 and the music by A. Theodor Johnson '37. This is the first number of this team which has been presented in a Thespian production.

Mr. Fishburn himself has written an Italian folk song for the show and will possibly do another. James W. Minium '37, campus orchestra leader, has contributed a chorus routine.

Donald H. Dixon '37, who wrote the theme song of last year's show "My Stars," has again written the words and lyrics of a number entitled "Seafaring." As a part of that number he has also written the music for a chorus routine and in addition he has written the music for a minut chorus number.

Bridge Tourney Begins 2nd Round Tomorrow

The second round of the bridge tournament sponsored by Interfraternity Council will be played off at the Nittany Lion Inn at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Mrs. Helen Hawke and John P. Lee are in charge of the competition.

In the first round last week, nine houses survived. They are: Phi Kappa Psi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Delta Chi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Triangle, Acacia, and Pi Kappa Phi. The five teams with the highest scores will meet again next week for further elimination.

Society To Hold Dinner

The Penn State Forestry society will hold its annual dinner in the Nittany Lion Inn Thursday night at 6 o'clock. The dinner will be given as a farewell entertainment to forestry students of the senior class.

Nittany Lion Chosen For Publications Hop

The publications dance, originally scheduled for Recreation hall Saturday night, has been transferred to the Nittany Lion Inn, George H. Britton '35, chairman of the dance committee, announced, yesterday. The regular Saturday night dance at the Inn has been suspended and Bill Bottorf will play for the publications affair.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained any time this week at the Student Union office in Old Main or from any member of Pi Delta Epsilon, sponsors of the dance, the chairman announced. This is the first year that the publications dance has been made an all-College affair.

Anne M. McCaughy '36 and E. Virginia Wevill '36 will be co-chairmen of the annual May Day festival, according to an announcement made by Elizabeth K. Barton '35. Dorothy Ruth '36 will have charge of the ceremony.

M. Elizabeth Springer '36 is chairman of the entertainment committee and Ruth P. Lonberger '36 and Anna C. Strong '35 are also on the committee. Ruth E. Koehler '36 is chairman of the publicity committee, and A. Frances Turner '36 and L. Mary-Lou Conabec '36 will assist.

Wardrobe Committee

The chairman of the wardrobe for the queen's part will be Bernadette M. Hegney '36, and her assistants are Ruth E. Kaufman '36, Jean R. Beman '36, Mary Louise D'Olier '36, and Margaret B. Bratton '37. Ruth B. Evans '37 is head of the informal wardrobe committee. Other members of the committee are Golsie R. Ferdinand '37 and Evelyn M. Girard '36.

The properties committee is headed by Bertha M. Cohen '37 and her assistants are Geneva C. Ziegler '37, and S. Elizabeth Shaffer '36. Amelia Brooks '36 has charge of decorations and she will be aided by Mary Frances Pomeroy '37 and Virginia W. Lewis '36. M. May Dunaway '37 has charge of the Cwen breakfast.

Two Students Married During Past Week-end

Elbur H. Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Richards, 7723 Parkview Rd., Upper Darby and Emil O. Schott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Schott, 101 Bridge street, Millintown, notified their fraternity brothers at Theta Nu Epsilon fraternity this morning that they were married in Harrisburg during the week-end and were spending their honeymoon there.

The men left town Saturday supposedly on a trip home. It was not until this morning when the telegram was received by Robert Edwards '38, a friend of the men, that it was known what had happened.

Schott is enrolled here as an architectural engineering student while Richards is preparing himself in mechanical engineering. Both are candidates for the business staff of the Penn State Froth.

Freshmen Revealed as Capitalists In Survey of 'Corner' Prosperity

In a financial survey conducted by a COLLEGIAN staff member Sunday night in the Corner Room the surprising fact arose that "Prosperity is just around the 'Corner'."

Fifty-seven students, when questioned, admitted that they had, altogether, $369.23. The freshmen, most of whom had just been home over the week-end, led the upperclasses with the sum of $192.42. One of them confessed he had fifty-one dollars along with him while another reluctantly admitted he had forty-seven. At the other end of the scale were two freshmen with a total cash complement of twenty-three cents and one who showed four cents.

Of all the upperclassmen who asked in what booth these affluent freshmen were sitting, the junior seemed the most interested. The third year men, seven of them, had only sixteen dollars and ninety-three cents. This was better, in proportion, than the seniors, thirteen of whom had but twenty-eight dollars and six cents. You can compare these thirteen seniors with the nine freshmen who had nearly two hundred dollars, and the fourteen sophomores with $125.55.

The eleven co-eds questioned were only able to raise five dollars and thirty cents. Three of them were together, no men around, and these had three dollars and forty-three cents,

Author of 'Ladies of the Jury' May Attend Players' Production

Fred Ballard, author of "Ladies of the Jury," will be in the audience Saturday when the Penn State Players produce his play, according to a letter received here yesterday.

Ballard, the author of six Broadway hits, wrote from his home at Peterborough, New Hampshire, commending the Players on the quality of their productions and promising to attend the performance of his courtroom comedy hit.

"I am glad the Penn State Players are going to produce my 'Ladies of the Jury,'" Ballard wrote. "I have heard many fine things about the

Nixon Advocates 3-Point Program

Speaker Suggests Acceptance Of Life, Positive Faith, Work as Creed.

"I will accept life as I find it and make the most of it," was the first article of a creed suggested by Dr. Justin W. Nixon, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, Rochester, N. Y., in his chapel address, "A Working Program for Living Today," in Schwab auditorium Sunday morning.

Dr. Nixon divided people into those who accept life and those who run away from it. These latter, he said, are divided into the romanticists, or those who live in the past, and introverts, or those who indulge in excesses to escape realities. There is also another group, he said, who refuse to face the problems of life, and they are the idealists, who live in a world of make-believe.

In his second article of faith, Dr. Nixon said, "I will do something useful and well. There is something useful for each of us to do. We must respect ourselves and respect our work. Lord Salisbury said, 'Find the biggest thing in your generation and line up with it.'

"I will be a man of positive faith, and not of doubt. Faith is creative power. If you have doubts, remember that doubt is the preliminary state and faith the driving power."

Concluding his address, Dr. Nixon said, "Go out into the world of men and women with faith. And you will make the world of our children a better world than we have inherited from our fathers."

College Offers 2 New Engineering Courses

At the requests of the Pennsylvania Sewage Works association and the Pennsylvania Water Works, the department of civil engineering will open two new short courses in the chemistry and bacteriology of algae control, and hydraulic measurements, which will be held from April 1 to 6.

Because of limited accommodations, enrollment will not exceed fifteen in each course. Applicants who are not accepted this year will be given preference next year. The work is expected to be of service in assisting plant operators to meet the increasing demand for higher standards of water sewage treatment, in the interest of public health.

Groff Returns From Study Trip in Florida

Dr. G. Weidman "Daddy" Groff '07 returned to the campus last week and made a favorable report of his activities in plant propagation in Florida.

He reported that he had found a great variety of useful trees and shrubs which would be suitable for cultivation at Lingnan University at Canton, China, where he is dean of the agricultural school.

"Daddy" Groff also mentioned his plans to install a plant receiving station at Lingnan, which would include areas for the propagation of plants and the erection of greenhouses and laboratories.

The work that Dr. Groff has been doing in plant research has been financed chiefly by faculty and friends of the College through the Penn State in China committee. Up to the present time more than $750 has been received.

Women To Hold Sing

Six women's fraternities have definitely entered the Interfraternity Sing to be held in Schwab auditorium Sunday, April 28. The remaining four fraternities are expected to enter, according to Geraldine Broberg '35, president of the Louise Homer club, women's honorary musical fraternity. Each fraternity will select a representative who will take charge of the musical program of that house.

For the junior senatorship the nominees are Ruth B. Evans '37 and Rachael M. VanArtsdalen '37, and the candidates for the sophomore senatorial post are Annette A. Judd '38 and Georgia H. Powers '38.

The nominees for the town senator's positions are M. May Dunaway '37 and Emma Jane Foster '37. Candidates for sophomore representative on senate, which were chosen at the primary election last Wednesday, are Olwen W. Evans '38 and Ida R. Rainey '38.

All the W.A.A. officers will be elected Monday as well as the May Queen and her freshman attendant. M. Elizabeth Springer '36 opposes Catherine L. Wagner '36 for the presidency of the W.A.A., and the candidates for May Queen are Margaret R. McIntyre '35 and Jane M. O'Connell '35.

Honors Awarded To 5 Foresters

2 Elected Members of Sigma Xi; McIntyre Reads Paper On Soil Erosion.

The election of L. F. Smith, instructor in forestry, and Albert A. Downs '34, graduate student here, to senior associate membership respectively in the Yale University chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society, was announced last week by Dr. Joshua L. Deem, of the forestry department.

Arthur C. McIntyre, instructor in forest research, now on leave of absence from the College, presented a paper at a recent meeting of the Allegheny Section of the Society of American Foresters. He discussed various phases of the problem of soil erosion.

Doctor Deem also announced the appointment of Robert Moore '22 as forester for the Northwestern Lumber Manufacturers association. He will have charge of the sections of the Northeast lumber code which deal with conservation.

W. J. Quick '24 has recently been elected vice president of the Allegheny Section of the Society of American Foresters, Doctor Deem said.

'Women's Pseudo-Ignorance Only Affected,' Psychologist Asserts

By a Staff Member

"Young women students proceed on the theory that men like them dumb," declared J. B. Morgan, eminent psychologist of Northwestern University, according to Elizabeth Walker, Pittsburgh Press Sunday supplement hack.

The women play dumb to make the men feel superior. For so long had this been a courtship pattern that it is amazing the flood of indignation this roused on the part of co-ed. Perhaps it is the national disclosing of a secret each woman holds fast, thinks it is her own device and applies it.

The editor of The Daily Northwestern doesn't believe that the average college man is intelligent enough to appreciate an intellectual girl and Miss Isabel Mulligan, the 1934 beauty queen of Northwestern is of the opinion that if western play dumb it is because they don't know any better.

If the theory of Professor Morgan holds, the co-eds here must play pretty dumb to be dumber than the men on this campus. Then again, they may not even get a chance to display intelligence or dumbness.

Air Reserve May Enroll Graduates

Bill Now Before Congress Would Provide Training in Naval Aviation Corps.

In the event that certain legislation pertaining to Naval Reserve student training is passed by Congress, the Navy Department will desire to enroll a quota of student reserve aviators from the senior classes and alumni of the universities and colleges of the country. Students here who are interested should get in touch with Prof. Harold A. Everett, of the department of mechanical engineering.

About forty-two candidates will be selected for the elimination training, which will be given at the Naval Reserve Aviation unit, Navy Yard, Philadelphia on May 15. The candidates will be chosen from residents of the fourth naval district, which includes Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, and Delaware.

Candidates selected for training will be enrolled as second class seamen and ordered on active duty to one of the reserve bases, where they will commence elimination flight training. After completing a month's training, the candidates will receive a full course in flight training at Pensacola, Florida. After graduation, they will serve with the aircraft squadrons of the U. S. fleet for three years, at the conclusion of which each will be eligible for the commission of ensign in the naval reserve.

Kirkpatrick To Speak On New Dam Project

Sponsored by the Schools of Mineral Industries and Engineering, R. A. Kirkpatrick, of the Union Pacific railroad, will lecture on "Boulder Dam and the National Parks" in the Chemistry amphitheater Friday afternoon at 3:10 o'clock.

Both slides and motion pictures showing Boulder Dam construction and various national parks will be shown to illustrate the talk. Mr. Kirkpatrick has presented this lecture in colleges and universities throughout the West.
