Morey Will Give 2 Lectures Here

Princeton Archeologist To Speak On 'Gothic Architecture' This Afternoon.

Prof. C. R. Morey, chairman of the department of art and archaeology at Princeton University, will discuss "Gothic Architecture," in the auditorium of the Home Economics building, this afternoon at 3:10 o'clock. Professor Morey, who is well known as a scholar in Europe and in this country, is reputed to be one of the leading medievalists in America. Anything that he has to say in his field is authoritative, however controversial it may be.

After graduation from the University of Michigan he studied at the American Academy in Rome. Since then he has taught at Harvard, New York University and Princeton. It is largely through his efforts that the ancient city of Antioch in Syria, one of the most important centers of early Christianity, is now being excavated with the cooperation of the National Museums of France and similarly interested institutions in the United States.

Professor Morey will give a talk to the architectural students about the finds at Antioch in the exhibition room of Main Engineering, today at 11 o'clock. The most interesting discoveries thus far have consisted of a circus and a series of rather unusual mosaics, which throw some new light on the history of Antioch and the development of late antique painting. The city in which Christians were first called Christians, having been strongly pagan, was provided with perhaps the largest circus in the Roman world.

Long before excavations began Professor Morey had published a study of the famous chalice of Antioch, exhibited publicly for the first time at the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago in 1933 and 1934. Some scholars, including Dr. Newbold of the University of Pennsylvania, believe that the chalice may be the long-lost Holy Grail—a view in which Professor Morey does not altogether concur.

Frederick Visits Here

M. L. Frederick, supervisor of business training of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., was here on Tuesday and Wednesday interviewing senior commerce and finance students for positions next year. Mr. Frederick addressed members of Delta Sigma Pi, honorary commerce fraternity, on Wednesday afternoon.

Customs To Last Till Move-up Day, April 27

Freshman customs will go off for the year at the annual Move-Up Day ceremony here on Saturday, April 27, according to a recent ruling by Student Board. The newly-elected men's class officers will be installed at this time.

Student Union Board intends to hold another free dance on April 27. According to present plans, which are in an indefinite state, the dance will be run in the same manner as the previous ones this year. No orchestra has been selected yet.

Anti-War Strike Plans Arranged

Demonstration Includes Out-door Meeting, Evening Session, Several Speakers.

With the distribution of anti-war pamphlets throughout the campus, plans for Penn State participation in the international protest against war to be staged next Friday at 11 o'clock moved a little closer to completion. A meeting will be held on the front steps of Old Main at 11 o'clock, an indoor session is scheduled for 4 o'clock, in Schwab auditorium, and as a climactic feature, the Penn State Players will present an anti-war play, "Peace on Earth," that evening.

Since President Ralph D. Hetzel did not return from Harrisburg until last night the exact action of the Administration with regard to dismissing classes at 11 o'clock was not known, although it is believed that the Administration will cooperate to the fullest extent.

Dickson Will Speak Prof. Harold E. Dickson, of the department of architecture, will be one of the two faculty speakers to take part in the 11 o'clock meeting. Several students will also speak, introducing resolutions against war-breeding measures on the part of the government. The speaker for the 4 o'clock meeting, Max Shachtman, of New York City, will be introduced at the morning session.

Similar demonstrations are being planned for many Eastern colleges, including Bucknell and Temple Universities, and the University of Pennsylvania. Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, will address students of Temple at 11 o'clock next Friday and Penn students at noon, as the high points of their protest meetings. Heywood Brown, noted publicist, approved the anti-war protests in a recent column, saying, "So first of all, let the invasion of the colleges continue. . . . Any such demonstration will be of vast effect, particularly if it is followed up by some quick and significant action on the part of labor, including newspaper workers, teachers, authors, radio broadcasters and clergymen."

"Now is the time for the men of the cloth to step forward and declare themselves. In 1917 they did not lead their flocks, but followed pell-mell and served as chaplains for the slaughter. But now they could do much better. Well, what are they going to do about it?"

Men's Glee Club Sings In Huntington Concert

Members of the Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. Richard W. Grant, head of the department of music, made their fourth appearance of the year before an audience of approximately 1,000 persons in the Cliff Theatre at Huntington last night. Miss Willa Williams assisted as soprano soloist.

The Huntington Rotary Club sponsored the appearance of the club which was held for the benefit of the Rotary Student Loan Fund which has aided several Huntington students to attend Penn State.

The Hi-los and the Varsity Male Quartet sang several specialty numbers on the program.

Producing a show written here on the campus for the first time in years, the Penn State Thespians will present "Don't Let On," by John S. Naylor, of the department of English composition, starring Norman Holland '36 and Margaret R. Giffen '37 and the new comedy team of William B. "Bill" Edwards '35 and Annette A. "Hannah" Judd '38. The entire production is under the direction of J. Ewing "Soc" Kennedy, Thespian director who produced such shows as "We, the People," "Old King Cole," and "My Stars."

The music of the production, arranged by James Warren, orchestra conductor, "Ozize" Nelson, will be under the direction of Prof. Hummel Fishburn, of the department of music. Many of the musical numbers of the show were written by another member of the English composition department, T. Robert Bassett. The lyrics for all of Mr. Bassett's works were written by Mr. Naylor, including "April's in My Heart," "Love Has Come to Stay," and "Mussolini Says No, No." Donald H. Dixon '37, who played the lead in last year's Thespian show, "My Stars," and who wrote the theme song of that production, has also contributed a musical number to "Don't Let On," entitled "Scarfaring."

Paranorm Director May Attend It was learned late last night that Arthur Surloin, casting director of the Paranorm Studios, will probably be in the audience Saturday night. At present Mr. Surloin is touring the country looking for new talent to be used in a movie built around "Dixie" Howell, Alabama All-American football player.

One of the features of the show will be the use of two orchestras, one on the stage and one in the pit, throughout the production. The members of the stage band are Webster M. Christman '35, John R. Renaldo '36, Rudi L. Hillmud '37, Charles B. Patt '37, Carl G. Brodhu '38, Clifford F. Sarver '38, and William L. Shaffer '38. Those who will play in the pit band are: Philip O. Grant '35, Henry W. '38 Late-Registrants Must Wear Customs

All freshmen who entered College at the beginning of the second semester will be required to observe all their customs until College ends in June, Leo N. The late registrants will also be required to observe customs for the first semester of next year, he added.

Ten freshmen were brought before the Tribunal Tuesday night. Only one person, Louis B. Grube, was sentenced. He will wear the sign, "Just a Co-ed's Passion," and a woman's dress for two weeks.

Four of the freshmen who were summoned to the meeting did not appear. If they do not appear at the meeting next week, they will be brought before Student Board, and will be liable to dismissal from College. They are George Krill, Arland F. Roltizer, Robert H. Wieland, and William J. Zalcwski.

Dr. Yeagley recently completed a telescope which he has made available to the local Astronomical society.

Hallett, Henderson Will Play at Dance Tonight

Over the dance floor and through the potted palms, uva leaves, and smilax spreads a coral glow. . . . A poignant jazz rhythm has begun. . . . From amorous saxophones and muted brass come the quickening strains of melody. . . . Lights reflected on the large crystal ball dim to sapphire. . . . A waltz like the whisper of warm winds wafts across the floor. . . . Mal Hallett and Fletcher Henderson and their orchestra will provide music tonight for continuous dancing at the annual Interfraternity Ball in Recreation hall from 9 until 2 o'clock. Tickets for fraternities attending the Ball may be obtained at the Student Union desk today any time between 10 o'clock this morning and 4 o'clock this afternoon, according to Robert E. Instructor Will Carry on Field Work in Municipal Affairs in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Ferguson will conduct Dr. Alderfer's class in political theories and Dr. Godshall will take over his classes in political parties. Dr. Godshall has been temporarily located at Dickinson Junior College, and was associated for a number of years with the political science department of Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., and with the University of Pennsylvania Summer School, where he offered courses in political parties and diplomacy.

During the past year Dr. Alderfer has been one of the committee of five engaged in the Local Government Survey in Pennsylvania, on which a report will soon be published. For the remainder of the year he will maintain an office in Harrisburg. Dr. Alderfer's job will be to inspect problems in the boroughs and third class cities of the State.

Dr. Alderfer came to Penn State in 1928 from Syracuse University, where he took his doctorate. He and Dr. Jacob Tanager, head of the political science department, recently published a book, "Pennsylvania Government, State and Local." He also collaborated on a book with Dr. Frederick P. Weaver, of the department of agricultural economics, "Real Estate Taxes in Several Counties."

Campus of University Furnishes Locale for Anti-War Production

One of the most striking and pertinent scenes in the Penn State Players' production of "Peace on Earth," Friday, April 12, is the commencement ceremonies at the eastern university which serves as a locale for the play. The awarding of doctorates to a group of notables is shown, with the service ending in a riot when a group of students and strikers led by Peter Owens, a liberal professor, attempt to stop the award to a munitions manufacturer.

The entire play is laid on a college campus; it shows student, faculty, and administrative reactions to a war which is being brewed. Being produced at 8:30 o'clock the night of the student anti-war protest on this campus the play becomes highly pertinent to the local situation.

63 Groups Enter Poster Contest

High Schools To Submit Works In Competition Sponsored By Alpha Delta Sigma.

Sixty-three high schools of the State have signified their intentions of entering between 400 and 500 posters in the Pennsylvania poster art contest which will be conducted by Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity, on Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25. The contest has created such interest throughout the State that in Pittsburgh several business men have announced their intentions of presenting prizes to the best exhibits from that district. The same will be done in the Johnstown area.

The jury on awards has set Saturday, May 18, as a tentative meeting date here to judge the entries. To facilitate their work, the local members of the jury will probably give a preliminary judging soon after the closing date of the entries, which is May 10, in order to weed out some of the poorer posters. Members of the local chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma will entertain these advertisers at a luncheon meeting when they come to judge the posters. Students interested in advertising will be invited to attend. The posters will be hung for exhibition in Room 305, Main Engineering.

First prize in the contest is a certificate of award and a fifty dollar scholarship to attend the summer school courses in fine arts here; second prize is a certificate of award and twenty-five dollars in cash; third prize, a certificate and fifteen dollars in cash; fourth prize, a certificate and five dollars in cash; and ten certificates will be awarded to those given citations of merit by the jury.

Mrs. Boucke Donates 150 Books to Library

A valuable collection of 150 volumes on economics and sociology from the library of the late Dr. O. Fred Boucke, former professor of economics, has been presented to the College library by his widow.

The entire collection, which contains some duplications, materially strengthens the departments of economics and sociology in the library. Two recent publications included in this gift are: Knight's, "Before the Dawn of History," and Davis', "Advancement of Science."

Another valuable accession has been made in the gift of 40 volumes remaining from the library of the late Prof. Irwin L. Foster. The heirs of Mrs. Foster, through Dr. H. J. Patterson, dean of the school of agriculture at the University of Western Maryland, have presented the volumes, which are mostly in the French language, including several old Baedeker Guides. The major part of Professor Foster's library was given to the College after his death in 1929.
